ELECTION CLOSE, WILSON 264, HUGHES 251; TWO STATES IN DOUBT; HOUSE MAY BE A TIE

WHITMAN BEATS SEABURY; CALDER CHOSEN SENATOR

RUNS STRONG IN THE CITY

Tammany Springs Surprise in the Metropolis, with Only 40,000 Majority.

HUGHES PLURALITY 147,860

RIVALS HOLD LEGISLATURE

Republicans Add at Least One More Congressman to the Party's Strength.

The Republicans made a clean sweep of New York yesterday. The State gave Charles E. Hughes a plurality of 147,860. Former Congressman William M. Calder was chosen United States Senator, Governor Charles S. Whitman was re-elected, carrying the entire State ticket with him, and the Republicans retained control of the Legislature.

It was the same old story of New York State politics—the up-State Republican majority was too great to be overcome by the Democratic margin of the metropolis, and that Democratic majority was unusually small. Instead of the 75,000 or 100,000 margin Tammany Hall had been expected to give President Wilson in New York City, the Democratic candidate beat the Republican candidate by only 40,000 votes, while Hughes came down to the Bronx with a margin of 187,000 votes.

Tammany Hall "fell down" even harder in its support of William F. McCombs, former Democratic National Chairman, who was candidate for United States Senator, against Mr. Calder. Mr. McCombs lost New York City by a margin estimated at 10,000 or more, while Mr. Calder came down to the city with a big majority, making him the leader of the ticket, with a total vote of about 185,000.

Democratic Gains in Cities.

The Democrats made gains in a number of industrial cities up-State, but the country districts remained overwhelmingly Republican. The most striking Democratic gains were made in Buffalo, second largest city of the State. Slighter Democratic gains were shown also in Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, the banner Republican strongholds of the State.

Governor Whitman ran slightly behind Hughes and Calder, making a remarkably close race behind the candidate for President. Samuel Seabury, the Democratic candidate for Governor, ran far behind Wilson in New York City, polling a majority of only 22,000, against Wilson's 40,000. Governor Whitman's up-State margin was 165,000, giving him a lead over Seabury of 144,000 votes.

Frank H. Hiscock of Syracuse, the Republican candidate for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, defeated the Democratic candidate, Almet F. Jenks, of Brooklyn, by a substantial majority. C. W. Pound of Brooklyn defeated John T. Norton, the Democratic candidate for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Edward Schoeneck of Syracuse was re-elected Lieutenant Governor; Francis M. Hugo of Watertown, Secretary of State; Eugene M. Travis of Kings, State Controller; James M. Wells of the Bronx, State Treasurer; E. E. Woodbury of Jamestown, Attorney General; Frank M. Williams of Goshen, State Engineer and Surveyor.

Changes in Legislature.

The Republicans made a gain of five in the State Senate. They will have 36 out of 51 members in the 1917 Senate. In the Assembly the majority party made a gain of seven members. In the last Legislature the Republicans had 96 members; next year they will have 103. Thaddeus C. Sweet, Speaker of the Assembly, was re-elected from Oswego County, and Senator Elon R. Brown, President pro tem. of the Senate, was re-elected from the Thirty-fifth Senatorial District.

Returns were late on the vote for the propositions on the State ticket, but the indications were that the people voted against having a constitutional convention in 1918, and in favor of the issuing of $10,000,000 bonds for the purchase of additional forest lands for State reservations.

The Republicans in Albany, William Barnes's own stronghold, did not give Hughes the 12,000 majority their leaders had predicted. Hughes received in the

LEGISLATURE REPUBLICAN

Democrats Probably Retain Four of New Jersey's Twelve Seats in the House.

NEW JERSEY.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, and Governor. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 178,559; Republican and Progressive, 234,721.

President Wilson has lost his own State of New Jersey to Mr. Hughes by a vote estimated, on scant returns, at about 35,000. With few exceptions all the other Democratic nominees on national, State, and local tickets of Jersey have been defeated, too.

This estimated plurality of the Republican national ticket is approximately the figure by which President Wilson carried New Jersey in 1912, but considerably less than the excess of the combined Taft and Roosevelt vote over the Wilson vote, which would indicate that all the Progressives have not gone back to the Republican Party.

Walter E. Edge, the Republican nominee for Governor, modestly claims his own election over Otto H. Wittpenn by 18,000, but available figures from the slowest State in the Union to learn what its voters nave done indicate that the ex-Senator of Atlantic County has been chosen Chief Executive of the State by a much larger majority than that named by him. The worst-beaten man in the State is United States Senator James E. Martine, the "Farmer Jim" who has been a thorn in the side of Woodrow Wilson ever since the latter forced the election of Martine six years ago, thereby compelling his party to make good its bluff on the Senate primaries.

The Republican who will succeed Martine in the United States Senate is Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

The Democrats have probably elected their candidates for Congress in the Third, Sixth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Districts.

The State Legislature, already Republican, will have a still smaller Democratic representation after inauguration of the new State Government. Returns show that President Wilson has run ahead of his ticket in nearly all of the twenty-one counties in the State, making a slightly better showing than Wittpenn and far ahead of Martine.

The vote everywhere in the State was heavy and complete returns may show the total to be a record breaker. Republicans claim that the Hughes majority in Essex County will also break all the records for that Republican stronghold.

Passaic County, which Stokes carried by about 1,000 majority at the last Gubernatorial election in 1913, claimed a Republican plurality for Hughes and Edge of about 7,000.

Monmouth County, normally Democratic, has swung the other way by something over 1,000 votes.

Other county plurality claims of the Republicans which are fully justified by the returns so far received are: Burlington, by 2,500; Cumberland, by 1,500; Mercer, by 3,500; Salem, by 1,000; Union, by 4,000; Gloucester, by 1,500.

The Republicans carried Union County by from 3,000 to 3,500. President Wilson ran 500 ahead of his ticket, Edge led Wittpenn in the county by 3,000. Congressman Kapstick, Republican, whose vote against the tabling of the

WILSON CARRIES BUCKEYE STATE

With More Than Half of Ohio Heard From, His Plurality Is 26,000 and Rising.

GAINS IN RURAL SECTIONS

Cox Leading Willis for Governor and Pomerene and Herrick Neck and Neck.

OHIO.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 423,152; Republican and Progressive, 506,393.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—The indications early this morning were that President Wilson had carried Ohio by safe plurality.

Returns from 3,110 precincts of the 5,570 in Ohio gave Wilson 283,045, Hughes 256,282.

For Governor 2,997 precincts gave Cox, (Dem.,) 263,717; Willis, (Rep.,) 260,036.

For United States Senator 2,951 precincts gave Pomerene 254,955, Herrick, 255,023.

The returns came in slowly all night. The Democratic candidate held a slight advantage during the entire count, except for a period when the returns from Cincinnati predominated and the total for Hughes went into the lead. This was overcome by the first returns from Dayton, Columbus, and Cleveland.

Republicans were returned to the House of Representatives from five districts — the First, Seventh, Tenth, Sixteenth, and Twenty-second. The re-election of seven Democrats was assured at that hour, in the Third, Ninth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Seventeenth, Twentieth, and Twenty-first.

In the Second District there was a close contest between S. Bowdle, Democratic member of the Sixty-third Congress, and Victor Heintz. Heintz was elected. He will succeed Alfred Allen, a Democrat.

Returns from 542 of the 556 precincts in Hamilton County give Wilson, 50,503; Hughes, 62,234; Cox, 52,901; Willis, 60,627; Pomerene, 49,865; Herrick, 62,484. The fourteen missing precincts are in that part of the county outside of the city of Cincinnati.

The German vote is said to be going almost solid for Hughes.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Forty precincts out of a total of 292 in Lucas County, which includes Toledo, give Hughes 2,045, Wilson 3,525. In fifty precincts on Governor the vote is: Willis, (R.,) 2,955; Cox, (D.,) 4,198.

HUGHES AND HOLCOMB WIN IN CONNECTICUT

Republicans Have Safe Lead for President, Senator, and Legislature.

CONNECTICUT.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 74,561; Republican and Progressive, 102,453.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—With only the towns of Guilford, in New Haven County, and Windham, in Windham County, missing from Connecticut's 168 towns at 1 o'clock this morning, Hughes had a plurality of 6,726 over Wilson, the unofficial totals being: Hughes, 105,050; Wilson, 98,324.

Governor Holcomb, with an unofficial plurality of 11,091, is re-elected, with the whole Republican State ticket.

Congressman Lonergan of Hartford is the only Democrat to win a seat in Congress, and Senator McLean, triumphant over Homer S. Cummings, retains his seat in the United States Senate.

The Republicans made substantial gains in both branches of the State Legislature and will control both houses.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 7.—Bridgeport's munition vote went to Charles Evans Hughes. He carried the city by 1,201 votes. Twenty-three thousand ballots were cast.

Roosevelt Will Not Advise Mr. Hughes on Appointments or Legislation

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—When informed of the lead of Hughes over President Wilson, according to the returns up to 9:45 o'clock tonight, Colonel Roosevelt issued the following statement:

> In view of the latest returns I have received, it appears that Mr. Hughes is elected. I wish to express my profound gratitude, as an American proud of his country, that the American people have repudiated the man who coined the phrase about this country, that is, "Too proud to fight," and whose Administration had done so much to relax the fibre of the American conscience and to dull the sense of honorable obligations in the American people. We are all of us sincerely to be congratulated on the victory of Mr. Hughes.
> Let me add, in view of certain letters and telegrams which already have begun to come in to me, that I will not make any recommendations to Mr. Hughes for appointments, nor any requests about legislation.

Small Pluralities for Both Candidates in Several Other Western States Shown in the Scattered Returns Thus Far Available.

CALIFORNIA.

CALIFORNIA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, and Congressmen. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 283,436; Republican and Progressive, 287,[illegible].

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Governor Hiram W. Johnson was elected to the Senate from California yesterday by a majority estimated by his friends to be as much as 200,000.

At midnight, on the face of available returns, the result of the Presidential vote was in doubt. With Los Angeles and San Francisco Counties virtually unreported, Republicans claimed the State for Hughes, asserting that the returns from those cities and from the rest of the counties indicated victory for their candidate. Democratic Headquarters claimed the State for Wilson by 25,000.

With returns in from 1,264 out of the 5,917 precincts, the Wilson vote is 60,734, that of Hughes 59,000. Johnson's election to the United States Senate is indicated by a big plurality.

In 1,557 precincts Hughes had 78,849 votes and Wilson 79,136.

At 3 A. M. on returns from 1,784 precincts, Hughes had 107,846, Wilson 106,445, a lead of 1,401 for Hughes.

Early in the evening Chester H. Rowell, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, claimed the State by 40,000 for Hughes.

"Los Angeles is going better than we figured," said his statement, "and also Alameda County. One or two interior counties are not coming up to expectations. Los Angeles should go, on present indications, at least 35,000 for Hughes, and this will be largely increased by other counties in the South. San Francisco will fall short of Democratic claims. For Governor Johnson, it is of course, a landslide.

"Returns are very incomplete," the statement adds, "but in most cases they about confirm our previous estimates. On present estimates California is absolutely safe for Hughes."

The Republican State Committee late this evening announced that Hughes had carried the State by a safe vote. The Democrats say that their information is that California will go for Wilson. They point to the fact that the women have been strong for the President, and that there has been a pronounced sentiment for him in Northern and Central California. No estimates, however, are being offered.

The polls closed at 7 o'clock. The reports are that an unprecedented vote was cast, a very large percentage of the women registered casting their ballots. It is admitted that in central California, especially in San Francisco, the women voted for Wilson three to one.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 7.—Republican headquarters claims the election of Hiram Johnson as United States Senator by nearly 200,000. Hughes is conceded to have carried Los Angeles city and county by 25,000.

NEW MEXICO.

NEW MEXICO.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 20,437; Republican and Progressive, 26,080.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 7.—Incomplete returns from twenty scattered New Mexico precincts, including the two precincts of the City of Albuquerque, give Hughes 1,389 and Wilson 1,369. Reports from various points which do not give tabulated figures show Wilson in the lead, and the chances are that Wilson has carried the State, and that Jones, Democrat, has been elected to the Senate to succeed Catron, the Republican incumbent.

The strong Democratic counties of the Pecos Valley and the strong Republican counties of Northern New Mexico have not yet reported definitely, and returns from remote precincts may alter the figures here indicated.

At 3 A. M. Hughes had a lead of 56 votes.

MINNESOTA.

MINNESOTA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 106,426; Republican and Progressive, 190,190.

ST. PAUL, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—When returns from one-tenth of the precincts in Minnesota had been tabulated early today President Wilson was leading Charles E. Hughes by nearly 5,000 votes, the count for 301 of the 3,024 precincts being: Wilson, 30,349; Hughes, 25,433.

Most of the returns were from the three largest cities of the State—Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth. Republicans expressed confidence that full returns from rural districts would turn the tide to Hughes, while Democratic spokesmen maintained that the present ratio, giving Wilson a plurality of 48,342, would be maintained. Available returns showed Kellogg, (Rep.,) for Senator, leading Daniel W. Lawler, (Dem.,) of St. Paul.

The election of Governor J. J. Burnquist, Republican, was indicated.

Although Republican leaders admit the vote in the three cities, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Duluth, gives President Wilson a lead of from 8,000 to 12,000 over Charles E. Hughes, they are confident the returns from the country precincts will show a plurality of between 15,000 and 25,000 for Hughes.

WYOMING.

WYOMING.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, and on amendments to State Constitution affecting school funds and construction of public roads. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 15,310; Republican and Progressive, 24,792.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—At a late hour this morning the result in this State was in doubt, with Wilson's lead increasing. In 128 precincts out of 588 Wilson had 5,270 and Hughes 4,483.

Indications point to the re-election of Senator Clark, who is running ahead of his ticket, and Congressman Mondell. Returns are delayed by a snowstorm.

KANSAS.

KANSAS.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 143,663; Republican and Progressive, 195,065.

TOPEKA, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—President Wilson had a lead of 4,199 votes at 2 o'clock this morning over Charles E. Hughes in one of the closest election races the State of Kansas has ever known.

Returns from 862 precincts out of 2,474 in Kansas give Wilson 122,503; Hughes 118,362.

Returns from 780 precincts give Capper, (Rep.,) 122,080; Lansdon, (Dem.,) 69,780 in the race for Governor.

IDAHO.

IDAHO.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials and on amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 33,921; Republican and Progressive, 58,337.

BOISE, Idaho, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—At 2:30 o'clock this morning, with 143 out of 743 precincts counted, Wilson had

Republicans Elect Lowden Governor and Their Entire State Ticket.

WOMEN'S VOTE AS A FACTOR

Divide on Party Lines in About Same Ratio That the Men Did.

ILLINOIS.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 404,990; Republican and Progressive, 639,839.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Charles Evans Hughes has carried the State of Illinois with a plurality estimated at not less than 175,000, and the entire Republican State ticket, headed by Frank O. Lowden for Governor, has been elected by about the same figure over Governor Dunne. Hughes has apparently carried the City of Chicago by 20,000, and his plurality may reach 40,000.

With Cook County going to the Republicans, the Democratic chances in the State went glimmering. The Democrats at a late hour tonight were still contending that down-State returns might somehow turn the tables. The Republicans took a quick look at the first flashes, and, as the totals kept running up all in one direction, they put out a claim that Illinois had fallen to Hughes and Lowden by 200,000 plurality.

Most of down-State returns so far in are from Republican strongholds and the figures from the strong Democratic counties may scale down the pluralities somewhat.

The women's vote ran close to the men's vote. This was the puzzling factor in the fight. It worried the politicians for months. Figures from precinct after precinct in Chicago and from county after county down-State indicate that the women's vote operated this way:

In Republican sections the women were more Republican than the men.

In Democratic territory the women were more Democratic than the men.

In Democratic wards the tendency was for Wilson to get a larger proportion of women's votes than of men's. In Republican bailiwicks Hughes generally got a larger share of the women's votes than of men's.

The rest of the Republican State ticket appears to have gone over with Lowden.

McCormick Far in Lead.

Medill McCormick, Republican candidate for Congressman at Large, was piling up a tremendouos vote on the early returns. In scattering precincts he was polling more votes than Lowden.

The incomplete returns indicate a vast preponderance of "straight" tickets in both parties.

Fred E. Sterling, Republican State Chairman, issued this claim: "Indications are that both Hughes and Lowden will carry Illinois by over 200,000. Heavy gains are being made in many Democratic counties. For instance, La Salle County was figured on for 3,000 and it cast 5,000 for Hughes. Lowden is running about 50,000 ahead of his ticket. Hughes's majority in Cook County appears to be about 30,000."

A switch of a large part of the Socialist vote to Wilson is indicated by the early returns. It bears out reports current for weeks that the Socialists would split for Wilson on account of his "human justice" record. There is a marked falling off in the straight Socialist vote. Debs got 81,278 votes in Illinois in 1912. Incomplete returns indicate that Benson got 40,000 votes or less.

The vote was the largest in the history of Illinois. The women voted for the first time. Estimates based upon the incomplete returns are that a vote of between 1,800,000 and 1,900,000 was cast. The estimates are: Men, 1,200,000; women, 650,000.

The returns indicate that in the industrial centres down State Wilson cut down the Republican pluralities. He cut into the Progressive strongholds of 1912

CITY FOR WILSON BY ONLY 40,069

Seabury's Plurality a Mere 21,978 in the Metropolitan Vote for Governor.

HUGHES CARRIES QUEENS

Calder Defeats McCombs for Senatorship—Curran Beaten for Aldermanic Presidency.

New York City gave Woodrow Wilson a scant plurality of 40,069 to offset the 186,930 plurality for Charles E. Hughes which the up-State counties sent down to the Bronx line. The city's vote for Wilson was 351,539, compared with 312,386 which it gave him for President four years ago. Hughes's city vote was 311,470, as against 126,582 for Taft and 188,896 for Roosevelt (total 315,478) in 1912.

For Governor, Samuel Seabury carried the city by a plurality of only 21,978, as against 165,000 for Whitman up-State. The total city vote, with only sixty districts missing, was, Seabury, 316,132; Whitman, 294,154.

For Senator, the indications early this morning were that Calder, Republican, had carried the Democratic City of New York against McCombs, Democrat, by about 25,000. With 367 election districts out of 2,167 Calder had then 248,896 votes against 225,874 for McCombs, showing a plurality of about 23,022 for Calder. In Mr. Calder's home borough, Brooklyn, he defeated McCombs by almost 2 to 1.

For President of the Board of Aldermen, Curran (Rep.) was beaten by Frank L. Dowling (Dem.) by about 45,000 votes.

Several odd points stood out in the voting. Wilson carried Brooklyn by about 6,800. Seabury lost the borough by 11,014. Calder, for Senator, carried it by more than 38,000. Queens, the home of the Schützenfest, normally Democratic by some 3,000 votes, gave Hughes a plurality of 2,958. Yet the Bronx, where the German-American vote was also expected to cut a large figure, went for Wilson by about 7,389.

In the city Congressional elections there is one certain Republican gain. In the Twentieth Congressional District, where B. Rosenblatt (Democrat) opposed Isaac Siegel (Republican and Progressive) one of the city Congressmen who voted against tabling the McLemore resolution, Siegel is apparently re-elected. In the Eighteenth District G. B. Francis (Republican) defeats T. G. Patten, the sitting Democratic Representative. The election of Meyer London, the lone Socialist Congressman from New York City, was, however, in doubt in the Twelfth District early this morning. The indications were that Judge Leon Sanders, his Democratic opponent, had won by a small plurality.

Eight Republican Senators are elected

CALIFORNIA IN DOUBT

Majority for Wilson Changes to 1400 Lead for Hughes.

MAY DEPEND ON NEW MEXICO

Hughes Leads There With No More Than 2 Score or So.

NEW HAMPSHIRE CLOSE, TOO

Kansas, Apparently for Wilson, Also Shows a Declining Plurality.

NEW YORK GOES TO HUGHES

Also Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and South Dakota by Large Pluralities.

ODD RESULT IN CONGRESS

Two Socialists, a Prohibitionist, a Progressive, and a 'Protectionist' May Hold Balance of Power.

Although Charles Evans Hughes of New York had apparently been elected President and Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana Vice President, on returns received up to 3 A. M. today there were important shifts after that hour which leave the result undetermined, but indicating strongly the re-election of President Wilson. At this writing Mr. Wilson has 264 electoral votes and Mr. Hughes, 251, with 16 still in doubt in two States.

The still doubtful States are California, with 13 votes and New Mexico with 3.

There were landslide majorities for Hughes in the bigger States, and he may prove to have a landslide majority on the popular vote, but he will have no landslide majority in the Electoral College. The States which went for Wilson by smaller but still safe majorities have prevented that.

The East went for Hughes by overwhelming majorities, and Wilson did not carry a single State in this section, unless, as is unlikely, he has carried Delaware. The Democrats had been counting on the Middle West, but they reckoned on it in vain. The Middle West as a section went for Hughes, and most of its more important States went for him by majorities as great proportionately as those in the East.

Hughes's majority in the so-called "doubtful" States of the East were: New York, 146,800; New Jersey, 45,000; Connecticut, 10,000; West Virginia, 8,000.

In the "doubtful" States of the Middle West Hughes's majorities were: Illinois, 175,000; Indiana, 20,000; Michigan, 40,000; Wisconsin, 15,000. In this section Wilson has saved Nebraska by 10,000 and Kansas by 15,000. He seems also to have carried Ohio and Minnesota.

Pennsylvania, which went for Roosevelt four years ago, leads the Hughes majorities with 200,000.

The vote in New York State was impressive. In this Democratic city Wilson was slaughtered right and left, and he carried by the small majority of 40,000. He was expected by the Democrats to carry Buffalo, but he lost it by 3,500. The State went for Hughes by 148,000.

Hughes carried Queens by 2,900, and in Brooklyn Wilson had the surprisingly small majority of 6,000.

Whitman was re-elected Governor by 144,000, running behind Hughes through the State as a whole. He was cut heavily in some places, noticeably in Rochester, despite the fact that Rochester is the bailiwick of his political friend, George W. Aldridge.

William M. Calder was elected United States Senator from this State by a majority of 187,000 over his Democratic opponent, William F. McCombs. He ran far ahead of both the other leading candidates on the Republican ticket, Hughes and Whitman.

The next President will have a difficult task on his hands so far as Congress is concerned, for his party cannot control it. The Senate is apparently Democratic by the unworkably small majority of 4, and the House is tied, 215 Democrats and 215 Republicans. Neither party can even elect a Speaker or organize the House except by dealing with the other party or with the Representatives of minor parties, who will hold the balance of power.

Of these Representatives of minor parties, two are Socialists, one a Progressive, one a Prohibitionist, and one is listed as a "Protectionist." The two Socialists are both from Milwaukee, one being Victor L. Berger, who was in the Sixty-third Congress and now comes back, bringing a colleague with him. Meyer London, the Socialist Congressman from this city, was defeated for re-election.

These men, if they play their cards skillfully, are in a position to exert considerable power in the House, because of the tie vote. Because of that tie vote, and also because of the insignificant majority in the Senate, a handful of bolters from either the Republican or the Democratic caucus will be able to hold the Sixty-fifth Congress up on any question that comes before it on any legislative policy or program the President may recommend, and his course will be thorny.

The Republicans needed to gain eight seats in the Senate to change its political complexion, but though they gained nine, electing the two Indiana Senators, Watson and New, and unexpectedly winning a seat in West Virginia, they unexpectedly lost one in Rhode Island, one in Delaware, and one in Utah. The Democratic majority is therefore four, though the result in West Virginia is still close.

Though Hughes carried Rhode Island by 8,000, the late returns indicate the probable defeat of Senator Lippitt, Republican, by ex-Congressman Peter G. Gerry.

In Utah, which went for Wilson, the Democrats have probably carried also the Senatorship, electing William H. King in place of the Republican Senator, Sutherland.

Hiram W. Johnson, the fighting Bull Moose Governor of California, was elected to the Senate by 150,000 as the candidate of the Republican and Progressive Parties. He was the Progressive candidate for Vice President with Roosevelt in 1912.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Democratic Senator from Nebraska, Bryan's former friend and now his leading enemy, has been defeated by John L. Kennedy.

In Ohio, the Republican candidate for Senator, Myron T. Herrick, formerly Ambassador to France, was elected. Herrick is a friend to France, and was opposed on that ground in the primaries by adversaries who catered to the German vote, but most of the Germans seem to have voted for him.

Senator Martine of New Jersey was defeated by the Republican candidate, Joseph E. Frelinghuysen.

Senator La Follette was triumphantly re-elected in Wisconsin, getting a large Democratic vote, in addition to his Republican following. Governor Philipp, his conservative Republican enemy, was badly cut by the La Follette following, and did not gain from the Democrats, but is nevertheless elected.

Philander C. Knox, formerly Attorney General, Secretary of State, and United States Senator, returns to the Senate from Pennsylvania. The Senate situation makes Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin the most prominent figure in that body. He was re-elected yesterday. Though a Republican, he acts independently and frequently votes with the Democrats. It is in his power to tie the Senate or to hold the balance of power—in short, to hold it up whenever a favorable opportunity offers, and for the whole term of the Sixty-fifth Congress he will be in a position of great power.

The expectations based on the labor vote were in most cases disappointed. It was on this vote that the Democrats relied to carry Connecticut. It was expected to cut a considerable figure in Illinois. But Hughes carried both States, Illinois overwhelmingly. If the labor vote was cast for Wilson without regard to party anywhere, it was in Ohio, but there is nothing yet to show that it was the labor vote which made that State doubtful. Generally speaking, the labor vote divided as usual throughout the country.

A very strong illustration of this was given in Maryland, where the Republicans have elected Dr. Joseph I. France to the Senate over Congressman David J. Lewis. Lewis was originally a mine worker, is Chairman of the House Committee on Labor, active in pushing labor measures, and appealed strongly to the labor vote. Nevertheless he was defeated for the Senate, though the place he was nominated to fill is now filled by a Democrat, Senator Blair Lee.

The same thing was true of the woman vote. The Democrats based their hopes of Illinois on that vote. But the women in that State divided just as their husbands and brothers did, the majority of them, as of the men, being for Hughes. There were so many who voted for Wilson, however, that there is not the slightest vestige left of the counter-assumption that they would unite on Hughes because of his support of the woman suffrage constitutional amendment. That declaration of his has not affected the women's vote to any extent that was perceptible last night.

Illinois is the only State in which the votes of women were counted separately from those of the men, but there was no sex division in that State and no evidence of it anywhere else. Democratic States where women vote went for Wilson and Republican States where they vote went for Hughes, and nowhere did the women apparently divide on any other issues than those on which the men divided, nor did they generally divide in any other proportion than that in which the men divided. An exception was the central part of California, especially San Francisco, in which the women voted for Wilson by three to one.

In New Jersey, which Hughes carried by 45,000, he ran far ahead of the Republican ticket. Mr. Edge, the Republican candidate for Governor, claims only 18,000 majority.

HUGHES JUBILANT OVER GOOD NEWS

NO STATEMENT OF PLANS

Takes Long Afternoon Sleep and Awakes After Dark, Cheerful and Ready for the Verdict.

In the bedroom of a suite on the eighth floor of the Hotel Astor Mr. Hughes slumbered the peaceful sleep of healthful exhaustion yesterday afternoon while millions of men all over the country were casting the ballots that were to decide who shall be President of the United States.

While Mr. Hughes rested, his wife and daughters tiptoed softly about the sitting room, their strained attitude revealing their eagerness. Meantime electricians in a room adjoining the suite were testing the telegraph wires over which the country-wide returns were to come as they were gathered by the news associations.

Mr. Hughes awoke after dark, freshened himself from his sleep, and soon sat down to dinner in the suite with his wife, his three daughters, and his son, Charles E. Hughes, Jr. The candidate was cheerful and seemingly self-contained. If the anxiety of the last moments of waiting were wearing on him, he didn't permit it to show in his manner.

The meal was interrupted for a few moments while Mr. Hughes looked over the last of the many telegrams that had come to him during the day. One that interested him particularly and which he afterwards declared he would preserve for a souvenir, came from T. V. Dixey, in Clinton, New York. It arrived at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and read:

"I tender you my congratulations this early because you are already elected. Have just cast my ballot for you and in twenty-eight years I have never cast a vote for a losing candidate."

Mr. Hughes didn't know who the man might be, but he was ready to accept him as a good prophet.

As the meal progressed early bulletins began to appear on a Times Square bulletin board, visible from a window of the Hughes dining room. Elizabeth Hughes, 9 years old, couldn't maintain the family poise; she bounded from her chair to the window. She found the figures confusing and dragged her father to the window to explain. This he did good-naturedly, going back to his dinner as often as the child's enthusiasm would permit.

The candidate's son was almost as eager as young Elizabeth, and his enthusiasm, too, burst beyond bounds when there came a telegram announcing that Bridgehampton, L. I., where Mr. Hughes spent the Summer before he went campaigning, had given him 281 votes of a total of 289 cast.

The family were still at dinner when Robert Fuller of the Merchants' Association burst into the room with a bulletin announcing that the Republican candidate had carried the State of New York by a majority of at least 100,000.

Shortly after that Public Service Commissioner Travis H. Whitney, Carl D. Sheppard, and Lawrence H. Green, who were receiving the bulletins at the Astor, took in to Mr. Hughes word that several New York newspapers had conceded his election. Each time such information came, the waiting newspaper men in a room adjoining the suite sent in messages begging for a statement. Each time Mr. Hughes sent back word: "Wait till the Democrats concede my election; the newspapers might take it back."

Dr. Colin H. Carter, Mr. Hughes's brother-in-law, who joined the family party, united with others in urging him to make a statement, but he still declined. Then William C. Muschenheim, proprietor of the Astor, hurried in and offered congratulations. His granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Radley, was the next. The candidate thanked both warmly, but refused to admit that he had won as yet.

Meantime the dinner was over. Still the family group sat about the table, half buried in an ever-increasing stream of bulletins that grew more and more favorable. At last Mrs. Hughes became convinced that no eleventh-hour disappointment lay in wait for her husband. It was then that she embraced him and saluted him as "Mr. President." The other members of the family followed suit, and there were a few moments of quiet, intense jubilation, during which most eyes in the room were moist.

From the roof of the Astor, when the result seemed no longer in doubt, an American flag was flung, on which two searchlights played. Blazing red lights bordered the roof, and a great electric sign blazoned "Hughes" to the multitude gathered below.

At 4:30 o'clock this morning Mr. Hughes, who had retired three and a half hours before, had not been awakened to be told that his chances of winning appeared to be greatly lessened. The members of the Republican National Committee and others who had spent the evening with him at the hotel had gone and no one had violated Mr. Hughes's instructions not to call him for good news or bad before 7 o'clock this morning.

McElmore resolution was made the chief issue against him in the campaign, ran 1,000 behind his ticket in Union County, but it is likely that the vote in Morris County will give him a majority in the district. Frelinghuysen defeated Martine in the county by 2,000 votes. Victor M. Ravlag, Republican, was re-elected Mayor.

Heavy Democratic gains are noted in Democratic Counties. Auglaize County, heavily German, lost to the Democrats by 200 in 1914, has gone 1,500 for Wilson and Cox, reports say.

Hunterdon County cast a heavy vote with a few districts missing. A conservative estimate places Wilson's majority at 1,600; H. Otto Wittpenn, Democrat for Governor, probably received 1,500 majority over Edge, and Martine will lead Frelinghuysen by 1,000 majority. A. M. Beekman, Democrat for Congress, has a majority of about 900 over E. C. Hutchinson, Republican. Harry J. Lobst, Democrat, was re-elected Assemblyman, and Harry K. Kramer, Democrat, was re-elected Freeholder.

The Republican State Committee at Trenton claimed the election at 9:45 o'clock.

Edge attributed the Republican victory very largely to the cutting of Wittpen in Hudson County.

Hudson County, normally Democratic by something over 20,000, gave Wilson and Wittpen a materially smaller plurality, according to late returns, and the vote for James E. Martine for United States Senator showed a big falling off.

John J. Eagan, in the Eleventh Congressional District, and James A. Hamill, in the Twelfth, both Democrats, were elected to the House of Representatives. The Congress fight between Eugene F. Kinkead, Democrat, and Edward Gray, Republican, in the Eighth was in doubt, as part of that district lies in Essex County. The Democrats carried that portion in Hudson.

Republicans elected their entire national, State, and county ticket in Passaic County by majorities ranging from 5,000 to 8,000. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, candidate for the United States Senate, led the ticket. Walter E. Edge was second and Hughes third. Dow H. Drukker was returned to Congress. The successful Republican Assembly nominees were Clinton D. Ackerman, George H. Dalrymple, Henry G. Hershfield, Edmund D. Randall, Frederick J. Tattersall. There was no candidate for State Senate.

much stronger than the Republicans expected. Winnebago, for instance, which gave Roosevelt a margin of 4,552 in 1912, shaved down its Hughes margin. In 1908 Taft carried the county 4 to 1. Today Hughes appears to have carried it 2 to 1.

In St. Clair County, where East St. Louis and its environs form the largest down State industrial centre, Wilson piled up a large vote and cut down the normal Republican pluralities. Danville made a similar showing of Wilson strength.

Returns from 2,071 precincts out of 5,369 in Illinois, including 1,375 Chicago precincts, give Wilson 324,711 and Hughes 380,926.

This increase, due to the votes of women, fairly swamped many voting places in Chicago. In some precincts the ballot boxes overflowed and additional receptacles had to be provided for in the afternoon.

Although downtown Chicago was filled tonight with a cheering, horn-tooting crowd that blocked traffic and kept mounted policemen busy, the Police Department reported little trouble at the polls during the day. Federal officials, however, made several arrests in connection with what they termed their campaign against importation of "floaters" from other States.

A bitter local fight was won by Maclay Hoyne, Democrat, who was re-elected State's Attorney of Cook County over Henry B. Miller, Republican, who was supported by Mayor William H. Thompson. Tonight Thompson conceded Hoyne's election.

J. R. Mann, minority leader of the House of Representatives, on whom a vigorous fight was made by the "Drys" of the Second Congressional District, was elected on returns from 200 out of 320 precincts by an indicated plurality of 10,000.

PENNSYLVANIA GIVES BIG HUGHES PLURALITY

PENNSYLVANIA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, State Treasurer, and Auditor General. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 395,619; Republican and Progressive, 720,931.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Pennsylvania today rolled up an old-time Republican majority when Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, carried the State by a plurality not below 200,000, according to best estimates. More complete returns may swell this figure to 300,000.

Philander C. Knox was elected United States Senator by a vote approximating that given to Mr. Hughes, and the four Republican nominees for Congressmen at Large were returned winners by heavy pluralities.

Both branches of the State Legislature will be strongly Republican.

DELAWARE.

DELAWARE.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 22,631; Republican and Progressive, 24,888.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Late figures from the Delaware election show that Hughes will probably carry the State by a reduced majority, probably not over 1,000 at best, while the Congressional and State ticket is extremely doubtful.

Incomplete returns now indicate that the election of Josiah O. Walcott (Dem.) for United States Senate and Albert F. Polk (Dem.) for member of Congress is likely.

In Newcastle, out of 117 districts, 100 gave Hughes 10,092, Wilson 8,850. For United States Senator du Pont, (Rep.) 9,685; Wolcott, (Dem.,) 8,970.

Kent County is claimed by the Democrats by more than 1,000, and Sussex, the lower county, is very close, with the Democrats claiming to have carried it.

GEORGIA.

GEORGIA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 93,076; Republican and Progressive, 27,171.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 7.—Returns at midnight indicate that Wilson has carried Georgia by 100,000 plurality.

All Democratic candidates, including Congressmen, were overwhelmingly elected.

NORTH CAROLINA.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 144,545; Republican and Progressive, 99,416.

Special to The New York Times.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 7.—The plurality in the State for Wilson will be about 45,000.

Every Democratic Congressman is elected.

The Legislature will be largely Democratic in both branches, although the Republicans may make a few gains in each house.

FLORIDA.

FLORIDA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials and on three amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 36,417; Republican and Progressive, 8,614.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 7.—S. J. Catts, Independent-Prohibition nominee, is leading W. V. Knott, Democratic nominee for Governor, with indications of Catts's election by a majority of several hundred. George W. Allen, Republican candidate for Governor, is receiving a small vote. Governor Park Trammell, Democratic nominee for the Senate, is elected, as are the Presidential Electors.

LOUISIANA.

LOUISIANA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, and on amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 60,966; Republican and Progressive, 13,157.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7.—Louisiana went Democratic by from 50,000 to 60,000. The only contest was in the Third Congressional District, where Wade Martin, Democrat, ran closely with Whit P. Martin, Progressive Congressman.

Each carried his home parish, with the rest of the district in doubt. Outside this district John M. Parker cut no figure.

Louisiana voted on eighteen amendments to the Constitution, the principal of which was one funding the indebtedness of New Orleans and creating a Board of State Affairs to have charge of State institutions and to control the tax assessments. These two amendments overshadowed everything else as issues. Returns indicate they have been adopted.

KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, and Judge of Court of Appeals. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 219,584; Republican and Progressive, 215,276.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—Kentucky returned her usual normal majority for the Democratic ticket today. While several mountain counties which are strongly Republican are yet to report, the State is certain to go at least 15,000 Democratic, the Democrats re-electing nine Congressmen against two for the Republicans. This makes Kentucky's representation in Congress the same as at present.

The vote was the heaviest that has ever been polled in the State. A remarkable thing about Kentucky's election was that not one case of violence was reported.

Practically complete figures from ten of the eleven Congressional districts in Kentucky give Wilson 181,709, Hughes 138,344. Apparently, if the figures for the unreported Eleventh District are conceded, President Wilson's majority in the State will range about 20,000.

TEXAS.

TEXAS.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials, and on school tax amendment. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 219,489; Republican and Progressive, 55,275.

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—Scattering returns late tonight indicated that the vote in Texas was similar to that of four years ago, when Wilson led Taft and Roosevelt by approximately 165,000 votes, with the entire State Democratic ticket elected.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials, and on amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 48,942; Progressive, 58,811.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 7.—South Dakota today gave its electoral votes to Charles E. Hughes, adopted Statewide prohibition, gave women the franchise, elected two and possibly three Republican Congressmen, and a full Republican State ticket.

With one-third the precincts of the State reported, late tonight the indications, based on the ratio of the territory reported, were that Hughes has won by not less than 12,000 plurality. Peter Norbeck, Republican candidate for Governor, will have more than 25,000 majority.

Prohibition has been adopted by probably 25,000 and equal suffrage by 10,000.

ARKANSAS.

ARKANSAS.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 68,838; Republican and Progressive, 66,140.

Special to The New York Times.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 7.—Because of a long ticket returns are very incomplete, but Wilson will probably carry the State by 35,000.

Scattered returns show that all Democratic candidates for State and national offices have been elected.

The act to repeal the Statewide prohibition law has probably been defeated.

IOWA.

IOWA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 185,325; Republican and Progressive, 281,624.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 7.—Iowa went Republican today by probably more than 50,000 for Hughes and more than 100,000 for W. L. Harding, Republican candidate for Governor.

At 11 o'clock tonight 563 precincts out of 2,297 give Hughes 70,411, Wilson 64,229, Harding (Rep.) 74,156, Meredith (Dem.) 47,349.

The following Republican Congressmen are elected: First District, C. A. Kennedy; Third, Burton E. Sweet; Fourth, G. N. Haugen; Fifth, J. W. Good; Sixth, C. W. Ramseyer; Seventh, C. C. Dowell; Eighth, H. M. Towner; Ninth, W. R. Green; Tenth, Frank P. Woods. In the Second the race is close between Harry Hull and McGronin, and in the Eleventh between George C. Scott and A. L. Steele.

A bitter fight was made on Harding by churches and organizations which charged that he was opposed to prohibition, but Harding ran ahead of the ticket in nearly all counties of the State.

UTAH.

UTAH.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials, and on taxation amendment to State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 36,579; Republican and Progressive, 66,274.

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 7.—Early indications tend to show that Utah will go to President Wilson by a majority of at least 10,000, and that the entire Democratic State and Congressional tickets will be elected. Republican strongholds in Webster and Utah Counties gave to Wilson a lead of 1,300, and to the State ticket about 10,000.

Women were strongly in favor of Wilson, although there is no means of knowing how they voted. Wilson will run ahead of the ticket 4,000 to 5,000 in the State.

Simon Bamberger, Democratic Governor-elect, is the first non-Mormon Executive since Utah has had Statehood.

Seventy-five per cent. of the ballots were split. The complete returns will not be available before tomorrow.

Eleven out of seventeen districts in Ogden give Wilson 3,385, Hughes 1,862.

MONTANA.

MONTANA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials and on amendment to the State Constitution and a law for prohibition. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 27,941; Republican and Progressive, 40,968.

BUTTE, Mon., Nov. 7.—Two hundred and eighty-six precincts out of 1,280 in Montana gave Wilson 23,654, Hughes 10,777.

Twenty-three precincts out of 1,280 for Governor give Stewart (Dem.) 3,547, Edwards (Rep.) 3,580.

ARIZONA.

ARIZONA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressman, Governor, and other State officials, and on an amendment to abolish capital punishment. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 10,324; Republican and Progressive, 9,935.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 7.—Incomplete returns late tonight gave President Wilson a slight lead over Charles E. Hughes in Arizona.

Campbell, Republican candidate for Governor, was leading Governor Hunt. Figures on the Senatorial contest were indefinite.

Democratic leaders claimed the State for Wilson by 6,000, but Republicans would not admit defeat.

Mayors Elected Up State.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Julius Frank (Democrat) is re-elected Mayor of Ogdensburg by a majority of about 400.

HUDSON, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Charles S. Harvey (Democrat) is elected Mayor of Hudson over John W. Gillette (Republican).

CITY FOR WILSON BY ONLY 40,069

from New York City districts, a net gain of one. Six Republican Assemblymen are elected from Manhattan, fifteen from Kings, and one from Queens, a net gain of five in the Assembly.

At 3 o'clock this morning the regular Democratic candidates for the Supreme Court in Manhattan were leading their opponents. The figures available in twelve election districts, widely scattered, showed Davis, 1,520; Mitchell, 1,269; Luce, 1,126; Mullan, 730; Clark, 356.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis ran 245 votes behind Governor Whitman in 43 election districts in Manhattan and the Bronx tabulated early this morning. In these districts Mr. Travis's total vote was 4,431 and Mr. Whitman's total vote was 4,676. The most notable instance of the cutting was in the First Election District of the Third Assembly District, where Mr. Travis received only 88 votes to 121 cast for Mr. Whitman. The cutting was shown in nearly every election district and ranged from one or two votes up to 40 in some districts.

Brennan (Dem.,) candidate for Supreme Court Justice in the Second Department, was leading Cropsey (Rep.) early this morning, with 12,379 votes against 7,824 in seventy-one election districts in Brooklyn. In forty-eight election districts out of one hundred and eighty-nine in Queens Brennan got 18,461 votes and Cropsey 16,980.

In twenty-seven election districts in the First, Second and Third Assembly Districts in Manhattan, McIntyre (Dem.,) was leading Delehanty (Rep.,) by a wide margin. The tally gave McIntyre 1,358 to 528 for Delehanty.

BAY STATE GIVES HUGHES ITS VOTES

Nearly Complete Returns Show a Republican Plurality of About 15,000.

McCALL LEADS HIS TICKET

Has Over 30,000 Votes More Than Mansfield—Senator Lodge's Re-election Is Assured.

BOSTON, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—The result of one of the closest fights for Presidential Electors in the history of the State was apparently decided in Hughes's favor early this morning. At that hour his electors had a lead over the Democratic tickets of 16,529 votes, with 69 precincts out of a total of 1,168 missing.

Governor Samuel W. McCall was running ahead of the national ticket. His total at 1 o'clock was 221,788, against 189,934 for Frederick W. Mansfield, the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge had received at the same hour 215,242 votes, against 192,969 for former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, the candidate of the Democrats for the United States Senate.

At the same hour there was no known change in the Congressional representation, which at present stands twelve Republicans and four Democrats. Michael F. Phelan, Democrat, was re-elected in the Seventh District, where the Republicans had made a determined fight. The Democrats re-elected Congressman James A. Gallivan and Peter F. Tague from the Tenth and Twelfth Districts, included in the city of Boston, while the Fourteenth District, now represented by Congressman Richard Olney, 2d, (Democrat,) was in doubt.

The Republicans appeared to have made some gains in the State Legislature, but the count was incomplete.

The great gains registered for Wilson in the early returns from the country towns, were lessened materially by the larger returns from Boston and the larger centres. Wilson's plurality in Boston was only 18,932.

Massachusetts Congressmen known to be elected are:

Republicans—Allen T. Treadway, First District; Frederick H. Gillett, Second; Calvin D. Paige, Third; Samuel E. Winslow, Fourth; Augustus P. Gardner, Sixth; Frederick W. Dallinger, Eighth; George H. Tinkham, Eleventh; William H. Carter, Thirteenth; William S. Greene, Fifteenth; Joseph Walsh, Sixteenth.

Democrats—Peter F. Tague, Tenth; James A. Gallivan, Twelfth.

All these men were renominated, being members of the present Congress.

Returns from the Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, and Fourteenth Districts, in which there are sharp contests, are at this writing not sufficiently complete to warrant statement. In the Ninth, whether the present Congressman, Ernest W. Roberts, or his independent opponent, Alvan T. Fuller, is elected, the result will not affect the political complexion of the delegation, as both candidates are Republicans. The Fifth District is at present Republican and the Seventh Democratic. There is a possibility of a reversal in each instance. As the result of today's voting the Republicans hope in the Fourteenth to elect Henry L. Kincaide in place of the Democrat, Richard Olney 2d, who now occupies the seat.

Roger Sherman Hoar of Concord, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Fifth District, present incumbent, against John Jacob Rogers, has apparently been defeated by more than two to one. Lowell is expected to go strongly for Rogers, and even in Hoar's home town Rogers defeated his opponent by 633 to 366.

MAINE FOR HUGHES BY SMALL PLURALITY

Heavy Labor Vote Brings Wilson Within 7,000 of His Opponent.

MAINE.—Voted for Presidential Electors. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 51,113; Republican and Progressive, 75,040.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 7.—It was indicated late tonight, with two-thirds of the State heard from, that Maine had shown a big reversal of sentiment since September, when the election of a Republican Governor and four Congressmen and two Senators was considered a prophecy of a big margin for Hughes in November.

While Wilson will not carry the State, undoubtedly he has cut the Republican margin down by 6,000 to 7,000 votes. In September the Republican margin was 13,000, and Hughes is not expected to have more than 7,000 plurality.

According to returns from 403 out of 635 precincts, including all cities, Hughes has 54,067, Wilson 50,042.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, and Governor and on a Constitutional Convention referendum. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 34,724; Republican and Progressive, 50,121.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Indications a little before 5 A. M. were that the vote for President in New Hampshire was very close. Returns from 253 out of 294 precincts gave Hughes 37,201, Wilson 36,456.

At the same hour the Republican State Committee claimed that its figures collected from 273 precincts showed a plurality of 1,867 for Hughes.

VERMONT.

VERMONT.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 15,354; Republican and Progressive, 45,464.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 7.—Returns from half of the election precincts in Vermont indicate that Hughes has carried the State by a plurality of more than 28,000 over Wilson.

Returns from 182 election precincts out of 284, representing 153 out of 246 cities and towns, give these results: President—Hughes 27,027, Wilson 14,820; Governor—Graham 24,979, Mayo 9,162; United States Senator—Page 27,410, Miller 9,858.

RHODE ISLAND.

RHODE ISLAND.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 30,412; Republican and Progressive, 44,551.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.—Hughes has carried the State by a plurality estimated at 4,500. Senator Lippitt has apparently been defeated for re-election to the United States Senate by Peter Gerry, his Democratic opponent, by a plurality of about 5,000. Beeckman's plurality for the Governorship is about 12,000, and all his associates on the State ticket are elected. The Congressional delegation will probably be the same as at present.

Representative Walter R. Stiness, Republican, wins re-election in the Second District, and Representative Ambrose Kennedy, Republican, in the Third District, is also re-elected.

DEMOCRATS LOSE 12 SENATE SEATS; HOUSE IS A TOSSUP

Only 4, Instead of 16, Democratic Senators in Congress—House May Be Tied.

GAIN FOR THE SOCIALISTS

Take Two Seats—Democratic Lineup 215, Republican 215.

DU PONT LOSES IN DELAWARE

Pomerene Pushes Herrick Hard in Ohio—Close Races Also in Nevada, Wyoming, and Minnesota.

Returns up to 4:45 o'clock this morning indicate that the Democrats will retain control of the Senate, but by a reduced majority. The outcome of the election for members of the House of Representatives is uncertain.

Figures compiled at the hour stated indicate that the next House will stand:

|---|---|
| Democrats | 215 |
| Republicans | 215 |
| Socialists | 2 |
| Progressive | 1 |
| Prohibitionist | 1 |
| Protectionist | 1 |

If the two major parties are tied in the House the two Socialists and the three representatives of minor parties will hold the balance of power. Changes in the results in districts are being reported constantly, however, and either the Democrats or the Republicans may get a majority over all, but by such a small margin that the successful party will be constantly in danger of having its ascendency overthrown on important measures.

The latest returns have shown gains for the Republicans, who at one time appeared to be nine or ten votes behind the Democrats in the Congressional elections. In the early part of the night the returns gave the House to the Republicans, but in the small hours of the morning results reported were revised and the revisions appeared to give the Democrats control. Later on the revised returns showed a Republican trend until the figures for the two major parties indicated a tie.

Meyer London of New York, Socialist, appears to have been defeated by a Democrat. He is the only Socialist in the present House. The Socialists, however, seems to have elected two of their party in Wisconsin. One of them is Victor Berger, who was the first Socialist elected to Congress. He was defeated for re-election two years ago.

The Democrats who now have a majority of sixteen in the Senate will retain control of that body by a majority of four from indications at an early hour this morning. This majority may be increased. Senator du Pont of Delaware has probably been defeated by Wolcott, Democrat.

Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island was also defeated by Peter Goelet Gerry, the first Democratic Senator to be elected from Rhode Island in forty years. This was one of the great surprises of the Senatorial election. Senator Sutherland of Utah, one of the foremost Republicans of the upper house, was defeated by William H. King, Democrat.

The Republicans, however, made more gains of Senatorships than the Democrats. They have apparently elected nine of their candidates to seats now held by Democratic Senators. New and Watson, the Republican candidates for the Senate in Indiana, defeated Senator Kern, the chosen Democratic leader of the Senate, and Senator Taggart, Democrat, who was appointed to succeed the late Senator Shively.

Maryland will send France, a Republican, to the Senate in place of Lee, Democrat, who was not renominated. France defeated David Lewis, an ardent advocate of Government ownership of telephones and telegraphs, and a conspicuous labor leader in his State. In Nebraska the defeat of Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, by Kennedy, Republican, was a surprise.

William J. Bryan stumped Nebraska for President Wilson, but had nothing to say about Hitchcock. Bryan advocated prohibition and Hitchcock was on the wet side. The election of Frelinghuysen, Republican, in New Jersey, over Martine, Democrat, was expected.

36 Republicans and 15 Democrats Will Be in the New State Senate.

103 G. O. P. ASSEMBLYMEN

Republican Gains in New York City—One Seat Won in Senate, Five in Assembly.

Returns from the Senate and Assembly elections give the Republicans control of both branches of the Legislature by more than a two-thirds majority. There will be 36 Republicans and 15 Democrats in the next Senate, and 102 Republicans, 47 Democrats, and 1 Socialist in the next Assembly. This is a net gain for the Republicans in the Senate of two seats. They gain five seats in the Assembly.

The lone Socialist who will sit in the next Assembly is Abraham I. Shiplacoff, the present Socialist member from the Twenty-third Assembly District in Kings.

Here is a table showing the make-up of the next Senate and Assembly:

*Re-elected.

RECAPITULATION.

| Republicans elected | 103 |
| Democrats elected | 46 |
| Socialist | 1 |

The Republicans made gains in this city. In the present Senate the Republicans have seven members from New York City districts. In the next Senate they will have eight. Gains were made in the Assembly representation from Kings.

Here is a table showing how the boroughs will be represented in the next Assembly:

| | Dems. | Reps. | Soc. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Manhattan | 23 | 8 | |
| Brooklyn | 8 | 14 | 1 |
| Bronx | 4 | | |
| Queens | 3 | 1 | |
| Richmond | 1 | | |
| Total | 39 | 23 | 1 |

The Senate elections in this city furnished one big surprise. In the Eleventh Senate District, which for a number of years has been represented in the upper house of the Legislature by Christopher D. Sullivan, H. C. Fromberg, the Republican candidate, was declared a winner.

In the Thirty-second Senate District, Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, was the Republican candidate, and won in a walk, although his nomination had been preceded by a lively primary fight, in which he vanquished Franklin W. Cristman, the present incumbent.

Senator Cristman had the backing of the Republican machine in his district, and his defeat in the primaries has been ascribed to the fight made upon him by the moving picture interests. Senator Cristman was sponsor for a bill to put a big tax on moving picture films which Governor Whitman vetoed.

Thaddeus C. Sweet, Speaker of the present Assembly, was re-elected from Oswego County, and in all probability will again be a candidate for the Speakership.

WESTCHESTER FOR HUGHES.

County Gives Him 13,000 Plurality and One of 11,500 to Whitman.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Westchester County rolled up nearly 13,000 plurality for Mr. Hughes, this being larger than the vote given to Roosevelt or Taft. National Committeeman William L. Ward, who is the Republican leader of Westchester County, said: "I believe that Westchester County will give Hughes at least 13,000 plurality. No other Presidential candidate ever received such a big vote in Westchester. He received at least 2,000 more plurality than any other Presidential candidate. It is a great Hughes victory."

The Republicans elected four Assemblymen—George Blakely of Yonkers in the First District, William S. Coffey of Mount Vernon in the Second District, Walter W. Law of Briar Cliff in the Third District, and Floyd D. Hopkins of White Plains in the Fourth District. Senator George A. Slater of Rye was re-elected. The other candidates, elected by pluralities ranging from 8,500 to 1,200, were Lee Parsons Davis of Yonkers, District Attorney; Daniel J. Cashin of Yonkers, County Clerk; Frank L. Young of Ossining, County Judge, and V. Everit Macy, Commissioner of Charities and Correction.

Benjamin I. Fairchild, Republican, of Pelham, defeated Woodson R. Oglesby, Democrat and follower of Wilson, for Congress in the Twenty-fourth District and James W. Husted of Peekskill was re-elected Congressman in the Twenty-fifth District.

The $10,000,000 for Palisade and other parks got a 7,500 majority in Westchester.

Governor Whitman ran behind Hughes by about 1,500 votes in the county, this being attributed to the activity of Thomas Mott Osborne, ex-Warden of Sing Sing Prison, who conducted a campaign against the Governor throughout the county.

DEMOCRATS $200,000 IN DEBT.

Chairman Morgenthau of Finance Committee Announces the Deficit.

Henry Morgenthau, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the National Democratic Committee, announced at National Headquarters yesterday that his committee had closed the campaign $200,000 in debt. Mr. Morgenthau said that $1,650,000 had been collected, but that the expenses of the campaign had been $200,000 in excess of that amount. He said he was not worrying about the shortage, as he confidently expected it would be made up by Democrats all over the country, no matter which way the election went.

At 7:30 o'clock in the evening Mr. Morgenthau gave a dinner at the Biltmore to members of the party who had contributed $5,000 or more to the campaign fund. Among those invited were Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo, Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing, Colonel and Mrs. E. M. House, Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Redfield, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt, and Vance G. McCormick, the National Chairman. Mr. Morgenthau, S. L. Shadburne, Jr., Bernard Baruch, and Chairman McCormick also engaged the Presidential suite at the Biltmore, and invited their guests of the evening and others to receive the returns there with them.

GREAT VOTE IN CITY; QUIET DAY FOR POLICE

The Balloting Begins Early and Is Carried On with Celerity Surprising to Leaders.

FEW FRAUD ARRESTS MADE

Suffragists Hand Out Literature and Serve Coffee and Sandwiches to Election Officials.

Voters of New York City went to and through polling places yesterday so early and so rapidly that leaders of both parties before noon asserted that their predictions of a record vote here undoubtedly would be fulfilled. The unusually large vote was influenced, it was said, by the pleasant weather. Voters cast their ballots more rapidly, it appeared to the election managers, than in any recent election. They were remarkably orderly, too, and the police reported that the whole day was "very dull," only a negligible number of arrests for disorderly conduct and other causes having been made. Up to noon the State Superintendent of Elections had received notification of but one challenge.

On the east side men were waiting at the polls soon after daylight. They cast their ballots with dispatch, few remaining at the polls longer than five minutes, and hurried away to other duties. In the election districts in middle and upper Manhattan the same rapidity marked the voting in the early forenoon, but later in the day the polling places were filled and lines of men stretched out into the street.

4,500 Policemen at Polls.

Nearly 4,500 policemen were on duty in and about the polls in the 2,127 election districts. In addition 100 patrolmen were held in reserve at Police Headquarters with a number of emergency wagons. The police arrangements were under the direction of Third Deputy Police Commissioner Dunham, who went to Police Headquarters at 4:30 o'clock in the morning and took charge until the arrival of Police Commissioner Woods.

Before they went on duty at the polls, the police worked hard transferring the 3,822,000 ballots and ballot boxes from the police stations to the voting places. One policeman remained inside the polling place, and another was stationed on the sidewalk. When voters began to arrive in crowds, the uniformed police were augmented by detectives in plain clothes, who mingled with the crowds.

The women of the Republican and Democratic Parties, and the Suffragists were out in force during the whole day. In the neighborhood of the polls the Suffragists distributed their literature, while the women of the Democratic and Republican Parties supplied the watchers at the polls with sandwiches and coffee.

When the polling place of the Sixth Election District of the Second Assembly District, in Public School 1, Henry and Oliver Streets, was opened at 6 o'clock there were eight men standing in line. Less than five minutes were taken by each voter to mark his ballot. Congressman Daniel J. Riordan, Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, and Tom Foley were at this polling place soon after it was opened, but they delayed casting their ballots, saying they desired to let the workingmen have the first chance.

When the polls of the Eleventh Election District of the Third Assembly District, in Public School 106, Lafayette and Spring Streets, were opened, there were only three voters waiting, and all had cast their votes within fifteen minutes.

At Public School 21, Elizabeth and Spring Streets, the polling place of the Thirteenth Election District of the Third Assembly Disrict, eight men were in line, and they averaged three minutes in the polls. The total number of public schools and other public buildings used for polling places was 834.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Votes.

The voting in the morning was light in the Twelfth, Fourteenth, and Sixteenth Assembly Districts, which include the east side from Twelfth to Fifty-fifth Street. At 9:30 o'clock only 135 men had cast their votes at 207 First Avenue, where Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy marked his ballots.

At 10 o'clock nearly 200 men had cast their ballots in the Twenty-second Election District of the Twenty-seventh Assembly District, the polls being at 834 Sixth Avenue. Isaac N. Seligman, banker, was in a booth only five minutes, and predicted a Hughes victory when he emerged. Cornelius Vanderbilt, whose right to vote was only recently established by the Supreme Court following his return from the Mexican border too late to register, was another voter in this district. He was at the polling place about five minutes and declined to discuss the election.

Voting was light in the election districts of Washington Heights in the morning, but the polling places were crowded with voters in the afternoon.

In the Bronx voters went to the polls early. In the Sixth and Seventh Election Districts of the Thirty-fifth Assembly District, in this borough, 159 out of 479 enrolled voters had marked their ballots by 9 o'clock. In other districts it was reported at the same hour that from 25 to 40 per cent. of the enrolled voters had cast their votes. Heavy voting early was reported in Brooklyn.

A special polling place in the armory of the Twenty-second Corps of Engineers, 168th Street and Fort Washington Avenue, was used by the voting members of that organization, from whose muster rolls the registration was taken directly. Here State Senator James A. Foley was watcher for the Democrats, and George L. Elkins for the Republicans. The soldier ballot, like those sent to the Mexican border, was eight feet long, and when marked was sealed in a large yellow envelope and dropped into the ballot box.

Only a Few Arrests.

Up to noon only one arrest for fraudulent voting had been reported to the State Board of Elections at 230 Fifth Avenue. State Superintendent of Elections Frank L. Marshall said 157 men had been sent out with 100 John Doe warrants. The warrants were held in the Second, Third, Fourth, Eighth, Eleventh, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth Assembly Districts.

A man giving the name of Theodore Fricke, drug importer, 101 East Eighty-ninth Street, was held in $200 bail for examination today on a charge of illegal voting, when he appeared before Magistrate Marsh in Harlem Court on complaint of James J. O'Connor of 1,111 Park Avenue, a Democratic watcher in the Twenty-fifth Election District of the Twenty-ninth Assembly District. The watcher charged that Kricke had given up his place of residence.

Another charged with illegal voting was Max Polaski, a tailor, giving his address as 147 Bowery, at the polling place of the Eighteenth Election District of the Eighth Assembly District. He was held in $1,000 bail for examination Friday by Magistrate Murphy in Essex Court.

Philip Frankel, printer, 163 Henry Street, appeared before Supreme Court Justices Philbin and Finch and obtained a writ of mandamus directing the Board of Election for the Fourth Election District of the Eighth Assembly District to accept his ballot. It was later found he had been challenged as a result of information obtained from his landlady, who told a registration officer that Frankel had not lived at her house, although she later said he had resided there since Oct. 6.

The State Superintendent of Election received from the Hughes National College League and the Honest Ballot Association the names of forty-five men suspected of having registered illegally from Blackwell's Island.

An unusually large vote was polled throughout Queens, and the day passed with few incidents of disorder. Numbers of arrests were made, however, on complaint of watchers of different parties. In the majority of cases, when the accused persons were arraigned before the nearest Magistrate, it was found that some mistake had been made, and the offenders were discharged and told to vote or else were advised not to vote.

One of the challenged voters in Long Island City had been married within two weeks and had gone housekeeping with his bride. He sought to vote from his old address, and when taken before Magistrate Conway he said he couldn't help getting married, and even if he had left his old boarding house and gone to housekeeping with his bride elsewhere, he was a good citizen, he said, and should not be deprived of his vote. Magistrate Conway agreed with him from a personal standpoint, but from a legal standpoint he advised the young bridegroom to forego attempting to vote.

T. R. VOTES IN FIVE MINUTES.

Colonel's Auto Nearly Runs Into the Polling Place.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt voted this morning at 11:45 o'clock. He took Ballot 260 into the booth and was almost five minutes in preparing it. His son Archie voted Ballot 261 and was outside his booth before his father emerged from his.

As he drove up to the polling place, Colonel Roosevelt was greeted by a crowd which had been hanging around all morning, waiting for him to appear. As the car came up it did not stop, but turned before the Colonel and his son alighted. To turn it was necessary to back and the driver backed so hard he ran the rear wheels upon the sidewalk. The Colonel called out:

"For goodness sake don't knock the polling place over. I don't want to be arrested before I vote."

TROOPS ON BORDER GIVE HUGHES LEAD

VOTE OF PENNSYLVANIANS

Hughes 3,132, Wilson 2,029 Final Count—Delaware Soldiers Favor President.

Special to The New York Times.

McALLEN, Texas, Nov. 7.—With only 3,000 ballots in the sealed boxes at the headquarters of the New York Division here, indications are that the soldiers' vote will not exceed 5,000 by many hundreds. No poll books have been sent in by the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn and the Seventy-fourth of Buffalo in the Third Brigade nor from the First Cavalry or the Twenty-second Engineers in the McAllen Camp. It is not expected that all of the detachments on the river patrol will have their ballot boxes in before morning, because of the distance to be traveled.

Since many of the poll books were sent to Henry G. Adams, head of the election bureau, already sealed for shipment, only an approximate number of votes cast was obtainable.

Official ballots indicate that the vote for all offices will be close. According to unofficial voting, Mr. Hughes swept the Seventh Regiment and Squadron A by three to one, while Mr. Wilson led in the same proportion in the Sixty-ninth and Twelfth Regiments.

Governor Whitman and William M. Calder for Senator appear to be following the Hughes lead closely.

More ballots were cast by the Seventh than by any other regiment. It had 625, while the Twelfth had approximately 500. Unofficial ballots in the Seventh give two Hughes votes to one for Wilson in almost every company. In some Wilson polled fewer than ten votes, making the proportion in some instances 10 to 1.

In the Fourth Ambulance Company from Syracuse 61 votes were cast, it was said, three to one for Wilson. In Squadron A 276 troopers voted, and it is believed that the same ratio obtained in the Seventh will run in the cavalry organization. In Company L of the Sixty-ninth Hughes got only one vote, it was said. Wilson received about 57. Officers who hold political offices in New York and have sounded the sentiment here believe that Hughes votes predominate, but only by a few hundred. The result will not be known until late in December.

Counts of the other militia organizations voting in the Brownsville districts were completed early in the evening. Although it was requested that the New York polls be kept open only three hours, many of the ballot boxes in the headquarters camp had not been sent in at midnight.

In the Minnesota Brigade at Manogrande 1,996 votes were cast. They will be counted in their respective election districts next week. Although one regiment is for Wilson, officers say the Hughes vote in the other units will overcome the lead.

Of the 301 votes sent in by South Dakota soldiers under the absent voters law about 200 will be for Hughes, it is said. Four hundred votes in the North Dakota regiment will follow the same proportion.

An official vote in the troop of Kansas cavalry gave twenty votes for Hughes, two for Wilson.

CLINTON, Iowa, Nov. 7.—Private dispatches give the vote in the First Battalion, Iowa Field Artillery, including Batteries A of Clinton, B of Davenport, and C of Muscatine, now at Brownsville, Texas, on the Mexican border, as follows:

For President: Hughes, 88; Wilson, 114. For Governor: Harding, (Rep.,) 138; Meredith (Dem.,) 91. For Congress: Hull, (Rep.,) 90; Cronin, (Dem.,) 125.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 7.—The Third Iowa Infantry today voted for President: Wilson 281, Hughes 278.

For Governor: Harding, Republican, 347; Meredith, Democrat, 204.

The First Iowa Infantry gave Wilson 169; Hughes, 240.

Governor—Harding, Republican, 302; Meredith, Democrat, 145.

Second Iowa Infantry gives Wilson 275; Hughes, 288.

First Squadron Iowa Cavalry: Wilson, 93; Hughes, 92.

Total for Iowa Brigade: Wilson, 961; Hughes, 992.

WESTERN STATES STILL IN DOUBT

INDIANA.

INDIANA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senators, Governor and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 281,890; Republican and Progressive, 313,274.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Hughes's early lead in Indiana was cut down somewhat as later reports were received and according to returns up to 1 o'clock this morning, with 1,686 of the 3,142 precincts in the State heard from, his lead was 8,723. The vote stood: Wilson, 193,736; Hughes, 202,459. The returns are scattering.

For United States Senator 1,138 precincts give Kern, (Dem.,) 140,413; New, (Rep.,) 151,192; short term, Taggart, (Dem.,) 142,175; Watson, (Rep.,) 150,071.

Republican State Chairman Will H. Hays, shortly after midnight, issued a statement that Hughes would have a plurality of 50,000 in Indiana. Fairbanks, the Republican Vice Presidential nominee, sent a message of congratulation to Mr. Hughes about midnight. He also issued a statement, saying "it is very gratifying and reassuring to the country that the Republican Party has been restored to power."

Democratic State Chairman Bernard Korbly locked himself in his room at headquarters and refused to give out a statement. Other Democratic leaders refused to concede a victory to the Republicans in Indiana. Vice President Marshall said:

"It is too early to tell anything or say anything. It is also too late to talk now."

Congressional returns at 1 o'clock remained too indefinite to make any predictions as to the winners, but the Republicans were claiming an increase in their membership in the lower house.

Bernard Korbly, Democratic State Chairman of Indiana, wired Democratic Headquarters here at 1:45 o'clock this morning that Wilson still had a good chance of carrying Indiana when the complete returns were available.

COLORADO.

COLORADO.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials, and on seven amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 114,232; Republican and Progressive, 130,692.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—President Wilson has carried Colorado by 25,000, and Julius C. Gunter will have a plurality of 20,000 for Governor, according to James R. Mohler, Secretary of the Democratic Committee, at midnight. Philip B. Stewart, Republican Chairman, asserted that Colorado was "doubtful," and that later returns would show the re-election of Governor Carlson.

Returns from 89 precincts out of 193 in Denver give to Hughes 9,446 and to Wilson 15,207; Carlson, (Rep.,) for Governor, 8,386; Gunter, (Dem.,) 13,123. Fifteen Denver precincts gave to Hilliard, (Dem.,) for Congress in the First District, 1,683; Vaile, Republican, 1,238.

NORTH DAKOTA.

NORTH DAKOTA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials, and on two amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 29,555; Republican and Progressive, 48,816.

FARGO, N. D., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Hughes's lead over Wilson in North Dakota crumbled early today, belated returns from the rural sections turning the tide to the President's favor.

With about one-third the number of precincts reported the count stood: Wilson, 19,670; Hughes, 19,639.

Several of the leading Republican newspapers of North Dakota at 3 o'clock this morning conceded that Wilson had carried North Dakota by a plurality of from 3,000 to 5,000.

WISCONSIN.

WISCONSIN.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials, and on amendment to State Constitution permitting Sheriff to succeed himself in office. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 164,228; Republican and Progressive, 193,155.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Wisconsin has given to Hughes a majority of upward of 20,000. The Republican candidate for re-election as Governor, E. L. Philipp, is elected by a vote well up toward that of the President, possibly 10,000 behind. The election of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican, is by an almost 2 to 1 vote.

Hughes is running nearly 30,000 ahead in the State, but Milwaukee will give to Wilson about 7,000, indicating that the much talked-of German-American vote for Hughes did not materialize.

With Governor Philipp goes a strong Republican Legislature, with the stalwarts supplementing many of the La Follette Republican members.

Republican Congressmen were elected in every case except Milwaukee County. Here it is likely that two Socialists have been elected, Victor L. Berger running strong, and possibly being returned to Congress against W. H. Stafford, and it is possible that W. R. Gaylord has carried the Fourth District.

Analysis of the returns shows that the La Follette Republicans scratched Philipp seriously.

MARYLAND.

MARYLAND.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, and an amendment to State Constitution on budget system. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 112,674; Republican and Progressive, 112,745.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, Nov. 8.—With only ten Baltimore precincts and a few scattered precincts in the State at large missing at 2 o'clock this morning, President Wilson had carried Maryland by an estimated plurality of 15,000.

Dr. Joseph France, (Rep.,) was elected to the United States Senate over David J. Lewis, (Dem.)

The race between Dr. Joseph I. France, Republican, and Congressman David J. Lewis, Democrat, for United States Senator, was close at that hour. Dr. France had a lead in Baltimore City of more than 5,000, while Lewis was slightly ahead in the majority of the county precincts heard from.

Democrats elected four Congressmen and Republicans two, a Republican gain of one.

Prohibition was defeated in Baltimore City by an estimated majority in excess of 40,000. Returns from half the precincts in Allegany County, in which Cumberland is located, indicated the defeat of prohibition. A small majority of the precincts of Washington County, in which Hagerstown is situated, indicated a dry victory. Annapolis voted to remain "wet." Havre de Grace, where racing is conducted, voted "dry."

The amendment to the Constitution establishing the budget system in the State government was carried by a substantial majority.

WEST VIRGINIA.

WEST VIRGINIA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 113,046; Republican and Progressive, 135,644.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Returns from 265 precincts out of 1,713 in West Virginia give Hughes 21,853, Wilson 18,811. If this ratio is maintained, Hughes's plurality would be 19,000.

For Governor, 261 precincts give Robinson, (Rep.,) 20,111; Cornwell, (Dem.,) 18,832. For United States Senator, 252 precincts give Sutherland, (Rep.,) 20,584; Chilton, (Dem.,) 17,411.

The returns have been slow to come in, owing to the heavy poll. At an early hour this morning it was next to impossible to forecast the vote, although the Republican nominees were in the lead in most instances. Returns from 155 precincts out of 1,713 in the State gave Robinson, Republican nominee for Governor, a lead of nine votes over his Democratic opponent, Cornwell, while Sutherland, Republican nominee for United States Senator, was assuming a safe lead over Chilton, Democrat.

The woman suffrage amendment was defeated on the face of the returns thus far received.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Returns from 194 precincts out of 1,713 in West Virginia give Hughes 15,014, Wilson 13,356.

One hundred and eighty-nine precincts for Governor give Robinson, (Rep.,) 13,429; Cornwell, (Dem.,) 13,240.

One hundred and eighty-five precincts for United States Senator give Sutherland, (Rep.,) 13,586; Chilton, (Dem.,) 12,381.

OKLAHOMA.

OKLAHOMA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Corporation Commissioners, and Justices of Supreme Court, and on amendment to State Constitution for fair election law. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 119,156; Republican, 90,786.

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 7.—Returns from 196 precincts out of 2,265 in Oklahoma give Wilson 18,024; Hughes, 10,915.

Wilson's majority in State will probably be from 25,000 to 30,000.

The entire State ticket appears to be elected by pluralities ranging from 20,000 to 30,000, and in all except two of the eight districts Democratic Congressmen have been elected.

In the First District James Davenport, the present incumbent, has probably been defeated by Bert Chandler, Republican. Dick T. Morgan, Republican, in the Eighth District, has been re-elected to Congress.

The Socialists' election law and the repeal of the registration law has probably been carried.

MISSOURI.

MISSOURI.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials and on amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 330,746; Republican and Progressive, 332,192.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—President Wilson has carried Missouri by a plurality estimated at 25,000 based on scattering returns from more than half of the State, received at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Late returns from 1,841 precincts out of 3,459 in the State gave Wilson 214,064, Hughes 201,353.

Henry Lamm, Republican, was leading Gardner, Democrat, for Governor by 8,800. Returns from 1,760 precincts gave Lamm 201,486 and Gardner 197,672. Reed, Democrat, was 8,500 ahead of Dickey for Senator in 1,749 precincts. The vote was: Reed, 202,768; Dickey, 194,134.

The "dry" amendment has been defeated by probably 50,000.

NEBRASKA.

NEBRASKA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor, and other State officials and on prohibition amendment to State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 109,008; Republican and Progressive, 126,905.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb. 7.—With less than 10 per cent of the State's vote received, indications at midnight are that Wilson has carried Nebraska by about 15,000 and that Hitchcock, Democrat, for United States Senator is elected by from 10,000 to 12,000. Neville, Democrat, for Governor is running behind, but may be elected over Sutton, Republican. Neville and Hitchcock were both opposed by William J. Bryan.

Prohibition has possibly carried by 20,000.

Lobeck, Democrat, for Congress, has been re-elected in the Omaha district, but other districts have not reported.

OREGON.

OREGON.—Voted for Presidential Electors, Congressmen, Secretary of State and minor State officials, and on amendments to State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 47,064; Republican and Progressive, 62,273.

PORTLAND, Ore., Wednesday, Nov. 8.—Indications a little before midnight were that Hughes was leading in Oregon by a small plurality.

Both Republican and Democratic State Chairmen have claimed the State.

Returns from 522 precincts out of 1,630 gave Hughes 9,904, Wilson 9,707.

The indications are that the three Republican Congressmen—Hawley, Sinnott, and McArthur—have been re-elected.

NEVADA.

NEVADA.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, minor State officials, and on amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 7,986; Republican and Progressive, 8,816.

CARSON, Nev., Nov. 7.—Nevada went Democratic today by a small majority, according to figures available at midnight. Indications were that President Wilson's majority would be about 3,000. Figures available at midnight seemed to indicate that President Wilson had carried Nevada by about 2,500.

MICHIGAN.

MICHIGAN.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor and Lieutenant Governor, and on three amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 150,751; Republican and Progressive, 366,828.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Returns from more than half the cities and towns of the lower peninsula, excluding Detroit, late tonight gave Hughes a majority which promised him a victory of 40,000, and indications were that the whole Republican State ticket had been elected. Senator Townsend's re-election was conceded by the Democrats.

Based on these figures, Republicans claimed the State by a majority of 40,000 to 60,000, and a conservative estimate indicated that Hughes's majority could not be much less than the first-named figure.

Second only to the Presidential issues was the contest over Statewide prohibition, a constitutional amendment for which was voted on today. Figures which it seemed would not be altered in their ratio by later returns indicated that prohibition carried by a majority of nearly two to one up State, and that it likely has carried in Detroit as well. A home rule amendment which the liquor interests fathered as an alternative has suffered defeat by a ratio equally decisive.

Early returns from 215 precincts, or about one-tenth of the State, gave to Hughes 32,048 and to Wilson 27,042. Hughes's plurality grew constantly since the first returns were received. The precincts which have thus far reported are from 51 of the 83 counties of Michigan.

Up to 11:30 tonight not a single ballot had been counted in Detroit, which is believed to be for Wilson, and where more than 10,000 voters could not cast their ballots because of unprecedented congestion at the polls. Despite this fact, more than 120,000 persons voted.

When the polls closed at 9 o'clock long lines of voters were waiting outside. Ropes were thrown around the waiting lines, and all who arrived before 9 o'clock were allowed to vote. Democratic leaders conceded that it would require enormous Wilson pluralities in Detroit and other cities to overcome the Hughes margin in the country districts.

On returns available at a late hour Albert E. Sleeper, Republican, leads Edwin F. Sweet, Democrat, in the Gubernatorial race, and will be elected by a substantial plurality.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON.—Voted for Presidential Electors, United States Senator, Congressmen, Governor and other State officials, and on amendments to the State Constitution. Vote in 1912: Democratic, 86,840; Republican and Progressive, 184,143.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Nov. 7.—Wilson is leading in Washington by 10,000, with one-fourth of all the vote in, and his ratio of leadership being steadily maintained.

Returns from 560 precincts out of 2,385 give Hughes 46,329, Wilson 51,306.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT, WILLCOX DECLARES

Republican Headquarters Claims Every Northern State, Except Possibly Ohio.

SEES REPUBLICAN CONGRESS

Early This Morning the G. O. P. National Committee Gave 300 Electoral Votes to Hughes.

"The victory is greater than we had hoped for, and it shows that the American people can be trusted to settle the great issues of a campaign," was the statement made by William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, when he was informed that Mr. Hughes had probably been elected. Mr. Willcox and about 400 other prominent Republicans and members of their families received the returns at the Republican National Headquarters, at 511 Fifth Avenue.

"The present outlook seems to indicate a clean sweep, and leaves no room for doubt," Mr. Willcox continued. "That means that Mr. Hughes is elected President and that both houses of Congress will be Republican. The American people are to be congratulated."

At 8 o'clock this morning Chairman William R. Willcox of the Republican National Committee said:

"The fight is won, with about 300 electoral votes definitely in the Hughes column."

Reports that California and Ohio might end up in the Wilson column were being received at this hour. It was said at Republican Headquarters that at no time during the night had the officials there placed Ohio in the Hughes column and that they were not depending on it. Hughes had enough votes to win without either of these States, they said.

G. W. Perkins's Statement.

George W. Perkins was another of the men who had been active in the Republican campaign who spent the evening at the Republican Headquarters to hear the returns. When most of the States had been heard from he said on behalf of the Executive Committee of the Campaign Committee:

"Mr. Hughes carried every Northern State with the possible exception of Ohio, it appears from present reports. The crux of it all is that four years ago Mr. Wilson was chosen President in a three-cornered fight. All the world has since realized that if now, after four years' experience with him, the American people had deliberately chosen him again in a two-sided fight, it would have shown that the America of today was not the America of yesterday that the world had known. The value of this verdict to the American people can scarcely be overestimated."

Mr. Perkins sent a telegram to Alexander P. Moore, publisher of The Pittsburgh Leader, thanking him for election reports he had telegraphed, and adding:

"This is some night. Three cheers for the flag! Four years they tried to debase our party. This year they went much further and tried to debase our citizenship and put a yellow streak in the flag. But thank heaven they failed."

"I should like to get a message to Mr. Wilson asking him if he has found any interest in the campaign," Mr. Perkins said later, commenting on the returns as they came in.

Colonel George Harvey was another at Republican Headquarters. He looked with satisfaction at the bulletin board announcement that New York papers stated that Hughes was elected.

"I am reconciled," was his laconic remark.

It was Colonel Harvey who supported Mr. Wilson in 1912, but was asked by Mr. Wilson to keep his hands off. Frank Munsey was nearby when Colonel Harvey made his comment.

"I am not only reconciled—I am rewarded," Mr. Munsey said.

A short time afterward sandwiches and coffee were served and the Republicans held a love feast while continuing to watch the returns as they were announced and written on the bulletin board. This, however, wasn't the "Hughes chicken dinner" of which the Columbus Glee Club sang at Hughes meetings, it was stated by good authority.

Congratulates Hughes.

George Brokaw Compten, the National Chairman of the Hughes College League, was another of those who were elected. He sent a telegram to Mr. Hughes congratulating him "on behalf of 100,000 college men all over the United States." He added, "I congratulate you most heartily on the splendid vindication of all that you stand for. Your victory is the tribute of the American people to a man who has voiced their real fundamental feeling and whose public and private record is one of devotion to the best American ideals."

William Calder, the successful Republican candidate for United States Senator from New York, dropped in at the national headquarters late in the evening, and joined the Republican chorus of jubilation.

"It's a great victory," Mr. Calder exclaimed. Speaking of his own victory over Mr. McCombs, he said:

"Of course I am most heartily pleased, particularly with the handsome vote from Brooklyn. I shall strive to prove worthy of the confidence the people have placed in me. I wish to state to the people my gratification for their confidence."

Philip J. McCook, Vice President of the National Hughes Alliances, spoke in the absence of W. Cameron Forbes, its President. The latter had gone to Boston to cast his ballot.

"We have more than 700,000 members all over the country and I had been getting reports from them, and had been paying especial attention to the situation in the States that were being called doubtful," he said. "And so I knew in advance that for the past three weeks there hadn't been any doubt at all about who would win this election. The results are entirely gratifying."

State Leaders Pleased.

Gatherings similar to the one at Republican National Headquarters, but on a smaller scale, were held at Republican State Headquarters at 1 Madison Avenue and in the Republican County Committee Headquarters at Fortieth Street and Sixth Avenue. Both Chairman Frederick C. Tanner of the State Committee and Samuel S. Koenig of the County Committee expressed themselves as highly gratified with the outcome of the election, but said that the result in State and county had been approximately as they had forecast before election. Mr. Tanner said that his reports indicated that Hughes, Whitman, and Calder had carried New York State by approximately 125,000.

Chairman Koenig of the County Committee said:

"Mr. Hughes has lost New York County by less than 25,000, as I predicted, and when the votes of the National Guard come in and are counted next month the New York County plurality for Mr. Wilson probably will be less than 20,000."

Among the persons who congratulated Mr. Willcox on the Republican results were Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, William Jay Schieffelin, head of the Citizens Union; Frank H. Hitchcock, George W. Wickersham, George W. Perkins, William H. Hotchkiss, Robert Bacon, Herbert B. Parsons, George B. Cortelyou, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clews, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Straus, and a number of others prominent socially and politically.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock the crowd in Headquarters increased until every room was jammed. The affair began to look like a society function. A large number of persons of social prominence came to hear the returns after theatres had let out.

Enthusiastic cheers greeted the announcement that Illinois had gone for Hughes.

"Another shadow on Shadow Lawn," the announcer—who had served as Mr. Willcox's publicity agent during the campaign—stated a short time later. "West Virginia is reported to have gone for Hughes."

The women as well as the men present cheered and laughed. Among the former were a number of the women who had gone West on the Hughes campaign train, including Miss Frances Kellor, Chairman of the Women's Hughes Alliance, which arranged the trip.

See Result of Silent Vote.

Oscar Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, who took an active part in the Republican campaign and frequently delivered speeches at four or five meetings on the same night during the past two weeks, expressed surprise at the size of the Republican vote.

"In every great crisis of the country the plain people exhibit the greatest wisdom," Mr. Straus said. "This is the greatest tribute and mainstay of democracy. I confess that I am very much surprised at the greatness of the vote, though. Surface indications were not that it would be so large, but the silent, sensible vote of the country has again spoken."

Herbert Parsons of the Republican Executive Committee contented himself with calling it a "splendid victory."

Among the others who were present to hear the returns were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, William E. Chapin, Miss Elisabeth Cutting, Miss Anne Morgan, Miss Alice Carpenter, Miss Helen Boswell, Chairman of the Women's Republican Clubs; Miss Maude Wetmore, Mrs. Stephen V. Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Freeman, State Senator Ogden L. Mills, Miss Mary Antin, Charles B. Warren, William Hamlin Childs, and Dr. John Wesley Hills.

"MY WORK APPROVED," SAYS WHITMAN, ELATED

Governor Declares Election Is Due to Honest Management of State Affairs.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 7.—Governor Whitman received the election returns at the Executive Mansion. The Governor and Mrs. Whitman had as guests at dinner Major and Mrs. Hoppin, Colonel and Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wilkinson of New York, and Colonel Barry Bulkley. To receive with them the returns they had invited an additional number of Albany people of prominence whom they entertained at supper.

The Governor was in the best of spirits and toward midnight he gave out the following statement:

"Of course I am gratified at the splendid indorsement of the State administration. I had no doubt, however, that the work of the administration would receive public approval when your citizens were fully informed of its character.

"I think that the result of the election here in New York, in so far as the State ticket is concerned, is largely due to the fact that the management of the State affairs has been honest and has been correct. Of course, we have been helped by the dishonest, unpatriotic and silly campaign conducted by my opponent and by his supporters.

"No man with any clear understanding of the situation could doubt months ago that the people of our land were ready to return to liberal Republican politics as represented by a majority of Republican voters in the nation. Mr. Hughes's election was undoubtedly certain from the day of his nomination. He represents all that is best in the Republican Party and in American citizenship."

Instead of sending telegrams, Mr. Hughes and Governor Whitman exchanged felicitations over the long-distance telephone early this morning. Mr. Hughes felt greatly pleased at the election returns up to that hour, the Governor said.

Shortly after midnight the Albany Republican organization, headed by Ellis J. Staley, Chairman, serenaded Governor Whitman at the Executive Mansion. The Governor made a brief speech of a nature similar to the statement he had previously issued to the press.

No tabulation of propositions vote was made tonight. No total vote outside of Hughes had been tabulated because of lacking returns.

HUGHES, OUT EARLY, VOTES BALLOT NO. 13

Goes to the Polls in Time to See Shopkeepers Putting Their Wares on Display.

Charles Evans Hughes proved that he was not superstitious when he went early yesterday morning to cast his ballot, which happened to be number 13. His polling place in the Third Election District of the Twenty-seventh Assembly District was in a little laundry at 716 Eighth Avenue, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Streets. When ballot 13 was handed to him he smiled and exclaimed, 'A lucky omen."

The Republican candidate arose at 5:45 o'clock at the Hotel Astor, from which he had registered. He dressed without haste and an hour later walked three blocks to the polling place, accompanied by Carl D. Sheppard, Major Crussett, once his military aid, two Secret Service men and a half dozen reporters. It was so early that Mr. Hughes was in time to see the grocers and other business men putting out their goods for display. At Eighth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street he was surrounded by a small crowd which followed him to the polls.

When some motion picture men asked Mr. Hughes to let them take some pictures of him, he complied obligingly. As he entered the laundry Mr. Hughes nodded recognition to the policemen on duty, and strode past counters piled with soiled clothes. He stepped into the first of five booths to mark his ballot and when he came out he again permitted himself to be photographed.

LEWIS DEFEATS O'NEILL.

Republican Elected District Attorney of Kings County.

Although the returns were still incomplete early this morning the indications were that Harry E. Lewis had been elected District Attorney of Kings County, defeating James T. O'Neill, the Democratic candidate, by a plurality of less than 15,000.

The latest returns give Lewis 63,990 votes to 56,070 cast for his opponent.

LOSES IN HOME TOWN.

First Harrisburg Precinct Goes Against Chairman McCormick.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Nov. 7.—The first precinct of the Fourth Ward, the home precinct of Vance C. C. McCormick, Democratic National Chairman, gave Wilson 98, Hughes 185.

Vote, Then Sail for Europe.

The American liner Finland sailed yesterday at 3 o'clock with 250 passengers, of whom 50 per cent. were Americans. Ten citizens in the first cabin, including John I. Waterbury, said they had been to the polls to cast their votes before embarking. The election returns were sent to the Finland by Marconi wireless last night from the Sea Gate station.

Champ Clark Wins by Big Vote.

BOWLING GREEN, Mo.—Champ Clark was returned to Congress today by one of the heaviest majorities ever given to him.

WILSON THE VICTOR, M'CORMICK INSISTS

Late News, He Says, Makes His Claim of Electoral Majority a Certainty.

REASSURED BY LATE NEWS

At Tammany Hall Interest Appears to Centre Only in Vote for Dowling and McIntyre.

At Democratic National Headquarters the atmosphere changed several times last evening. As early as 5 o'clock in the evening the party managers felt sure President Wilson was re-elected. Their optimism was based on the first returns from Kansas and Massachusetts. It appeared then that it was all over but the shouting. By 8 o'clock, however, an entirely different face was put upon the situation. By that time the big Republican pluralities began to show themselves, and when the indications piled up that New York State had gone to Hughes by between 100,000 and 150,000, gloom settled down upon the crowd assembled at National Headquarters to hear the returns.

At 3 o'clock this morning Chairman McCormick issued the following statement.

"We've got 'em. Wilson's vote is rolling up every minute. Wilson will have close to 300 votes in the Electoral College."

The following telegram was received early this morning by Mr. McCormick from United States Senator H. F. Hollis of New Hampshire:

"Returns from country districts give Hughes 24,114 and Wilson 24,218—more than half of the State figures. Strong Democratic cities to be heard from. Predict you will carry New Hampshire by 2,000."

It was announced at Democratic Headquarters that Democratic leaders all over the country had been notified to "sit tight"—that the fight had been won for Wilson, according to the best information received at headquarters.

It was announced early this morning at Headquarters that Wilson would receive 291 electoral votes and Hughes 240. This statement, it was said, was based on figures sent to the Democratic Committee from all parts of the country.

At 2:45 o'clock this morning Democratic National Headquarters became suddenly enthusiastic over a bulletin from San Francisco that President Wilson had carried California. A crowd of about 100, including Chairman McCormick, was on hand and the greatest rejoicing ensued. Every one shouted and threw hats into the air. Chairman McCormick wore a broad smile and simply said that he had stood by his prediction all night that the latest returns would show that the President was re-elected.

Democratic State Chairman Finley of Ohio telephoned Chairman McCormick at headquarters at 2:40 o'clock this morning that the Democrats would carry Ohio by 50,000 plurality.

State Chairman Kolbly of Indiana telegraphed: "Wilson ahead and holding lead. Expect to have figures within one hour."

Relies on the Far West.

"The fight is not lost," Chairman McCormick had said earlier. "From present indications the result will not be known until tomorrow. We have not yet heard from the States where the President is strongest. We have received hardly a word from the States west of the Rockies, and it is there that we figure President Wilson is strongest. If he carries all the Coast States, he can win, and we will not give up until we get the full returns.

"New York State is lost, and the indications are that New Jersey is gone also. We have carried Ohio but are not sure of Indiana. The manager of the Western headquarters at Chicago was just on the telephone and told us that there was still a chance of carrying Illinois. But giving up New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, we can still win, and I believe the final result will show that President Wilson has been re-elected."

At 1 o'clock this morning Chairman McCormick reiterated his assertion that President Wilson had been re-elected. He said:

"I have just been advised that the Republican Committee claims 284 electoral votes, based on the following States: California, Connecticut, Idaho, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

"This claim is ridiculous. We have carried Delaware. California is in doubt. We do not concede Indiana. We have carried Maryland. We are leading in North Dakota. Oregon most probably has gone Democratic. In South Dakota we are ahead. Washington seems certain for Wilson, so does Wisconsin. Returns received up to 1 o'clock indicate that President Wilson will have not fewer than 273 electoral votes. I have been assured that Delaware has been carried by a safe plurality by the President, and that the entire State ticket, including United States Senator, was elected."

The situation was doleful at Tammany Hall, where a number of district leaders and candidates had gathered, according to custom, to get returns. Little interest, however, was manifested in the Presidential election. Attention of the Tammany leaders was centred entirely on whether Frank L. Dowling had won the Presidency of the Board of Aldermen and John F. McIntyre been elected Judge of General Sessions. The closeness of the Presidential race in the city, where the Tammany vote was far below expectation, made the election of Dowling and McIntyre uncertain, and Tammany was worried.

"Knifing Wilson" Openly Discussed.

Charles F. Murphy had nothing to say up to midnight. He was at the Wigwam headquarters early in the evening, but went away with a few friends, and had not returned at 12 o'clock. It was openly discussed among the district leaders that the President had been "knifed" by the organization. In its anxiety to find out if Dowling and McIntyre had pulled through, few returns on the Presidential situation were read, even.

Shortly after midnight Mr. Murphy returned to Tammany Hall and issued this statement:

"The indications are that Mr. Hughes is elected. The result is a great surprise to me. I was confident that Mr. Wilson would be re-elected because he promoted such humane and beneficent legislation and made a splendid President. In my opinion, he has been misunderstood. However, the people of the country have spoken and there is no more to be said."

Morgenthau Gives a Dinner.

Invited guests of the Democratic National Committee members began to assemble at the headquarters in the Forty-second Street Building as early as 5 o'clock, and the first returns were received with cheers and handclapping. As the returns began to come in and the Hughes vote began to increase there was considerable depression until Chairman McCormick issued his first statement at 8:45 o'clock, which declared that he believed later returns would show that the President had been victorious.

The Chairman had been at a dinner at the Hotel Biltmore given by Henry Morgenthau, Chairman of the Finance Committee, who had about thirty-five invited guests. These included all the Cabinet officers, with the exception of Secretary William B. Wilson of the Department of Labor and Secretary Daniels of the Navy.

At 10:40 o'clock W. J. Cochran, head of the committee's Publicity Department at Chicago, sent the following telegram to Robert W. Woolley, director of the committee's Publicity Bureau:

"Don't be deceived by the Republican claims. It is getting better every minute. The Chicago Daily News has just telephoned that the race is tightening."

That inspired Director Woolley to say that the committee claimed 306 electoral votes for Wilson, based on the reports of State and County Chairmen from the New England, Middle West, and Northwestern States.

Mr. Woolley supplemented his statement later with the remark: "Remember 1892. In that year all of the election night figures had to be revised the next day, and the Republican victory landed Grover Cleveland in the White House."

A little later William F. Finley, Democratic State Chairman of Ohio, reported to Chairman McCormick over the long-distance telephone that his State would go for Wilson by at least 75,000.

Samuel Seabury, the defeated candidate for Governor, arrived at his headquarters at the Hotel Breslin at 11:10 o'clock and was applauded. Addressing his friends, he said:

"I am glad to see you, and I won't miss this chance to express my thanks for your faithful work in the camp. It is inspiring to have had so many faithful volunteer workers. I have just sent a telegram to Governor Whitman congratulating him upon his election. I consider it an honor to have had you support me. Although we have lost this battle, we have started a progressive campaign of the finest kind of Democracy which in the end is bound to win.

"This little setback is a spur to greater effort in the future. I thank you most heartily. I do hope that President Wilson is re-elected, though at present we can not be sure."

WHITMAN, CALDER WIN IN THIS STATE

county 26,433 votes, and Wilson 18,757. The count in 1912 gave Wilson 17,235 Taft 20,418, and Roosevelt 4,487.

Hughes carried normally Democratic Utica by a majority of 303. He received 8,049 votes, against 7,746 for Wilson.

Another striking shift to the Republican candidate was in Mount Vernon, in Westchester, which elected a Democratic Mayor, but gave Hughes a majority of nearly 2,000, the vote for President being: Hughes, 4,433; Wilson, 2,393.

In 1912 New York, which went for Mr. Hughes yesterday by 150,000 or more, gave Mr. Wilson a plurality of 200,000 over Taft and 255,000 over Roosevelt. New York City, which gave Wilson a plurality of approximately 40,000 yesterday, gave him in 1912 a plurality of 124,000 over Roosevelt and 186,000 over Taft. The State gave Sulzer (Dem.) a plurality of 215,000 for Governor in 1912; yesterday it gave Whitman a plurality of more than 150,000. Whitman won by 138,000 in 1914 over Glynn.

Colonel Roosevelt's bailiwick, Oyster Bay, went for Hughes by a substantial majority, the vote being Hughes, 2,901; Wilson, 2,076.

Rochester went for Hughes by a plurality of 12,626. In 1912 Wilson carried the city by a plurality of 1,191.

William L. Ward, the Republican boss of Westchester, rolled up a majority of 11,000 for Hughes. Whitman ran behind Hughes in Westchester by fully 1,000 votes, this being attributed by politicians to the Governor's not insisting on the continuance of work upon the State charitable institution on the Mohansic watershed, against which New York City objected because of danger of pollution of the city's water supply. Politicians wished the institutions completed, because of the political plums to be made of the jobs of the employes.

A disappointment to the Democrats was the result in Buffalo, where they had claimed a victory. The city went for Hughes by a vote of 40,652, against 36,915, Whitman and Calder being close seconds to the head of the ticket. However, the Republicans had all along claimed the Erie metropolis, pointing to the fact that in 1914 Whitman got nearly 20,000 votes more there than did Martin H. Glynn, the Democratic candidate for Governor.

The Republicans lost two Congressmen in New York and gained one. George R. Lunn, twice elected Mayor of Schenectady on the Socialist ticket, ran as a Democrat, and beat Congressman de Forest, Republican. In the Twenty-third District, in New York City, D. C. Oliver, Democrat, defeated Congressman William S. Bennet, Republican. In the Forty-second District W. F. Wadlow defeated Congressman Driscoll, Democrat.

Morris Hillquitt, the Socialist, was defeated in the Twentieth District, in New York City, by Congressman Siegel, and in the Twelfth District, on the lower east side, Meyer London, Socialist, was returned to Congress.

In Yonkers, Seabury polled more votes than Wilson, and Whitman ran behind Hughes and Calder. The vote for President was: Hughes, 8,795; Wilson, 5,940. For Governor, it was: Whitman, 8,335; Seabury, 5,977. The vote for Senator was: Calder, 8,608; McCombs, 5,781.

To the totals of the State vote must be added the ballots of 5,000 militiamen on the Texas border. It is estimated that these votes will be divided, about 3,000 for Hughes and 2,000 for Wilson, the same proportion holding in the voting for Whitman and Seabury. These votes will be forwarded to Albany and distributed to the communities where the militiamen are registered. In addition, more than 5,000 officers and men who returned to this State after registration day will vote in their armories and their ballots will be forwarded to Albany.

Chautauqua rolled up an old-fashioned Republican majority, giving Hughes 14,643, against 6,728 for Wilson.

The victory of Mr. Calder marks a long fight for the United States Senatorship. He was just nosed out of the nomination when James W. Wadsworth was named by the Republicans two years ago, and elected. He had a carefully organized machine and based his campaign for election upon claims of long party service. He beat former Ambassador Robert Bacon for the Republican nomination.

Governor Whitman's campaign for reelection was based on his claims to having conducted an efficient administration from a financial standpoint. His assertions of reform were bitterly assailed by ex-Judge Seabury, who left the Court of Appeals to make the race. Thomas Mott Osborne, former Warden of Sing Sing, campaigned against Mr. Whitman.

The indications at midnight were that, because of Seabury's small lead in New York City, Governor Whitman, despite the fact he ran behind Hughes in many up-State counties, would poll more votes in the whole State than the Presidential candidate.

100,000 GET RETURNS AT TIMES BULLETINS

News of Hughes's Apparent Victory Is Greeted by Outburst of Cheers from Throng.

CROWDS GAY AND ORDERLY

Returns Read to Big Gatherings in Uptown Hotels—Thousands of Police on Duty.

Shortly before 9 o'clock, when the white layers disappeared from the strata of lights on the flagstaff of The Times Building, leaving the red alone, and when the big red searchlight began to swing back and forth, telling of the apparent victory of Hughes, the crowds that had been drifting silently up and down Broadway for hours suddenly became vociferous in their cheers for the winner.

Up to that time the hundreds of thousands on the streets had been amazingly quiet; only very rarely did the hoot of a horn pierce the undercurrent of the shuffle of feet and the drone of motors. But when at last the uncertainty was over and the result was settled there was an outburst of noise of all sorts, and the vendors of rattles, buzzers, horns, feather dusters, and confetti began to do a county fair business.

The streets had been crowded since early afternoon, when the theatregoers began to assemble for the holiday matinees. The warm, Springlike night drew out many thousands who were glad of an excuse to get out in the open. By the time the crowds, leaving the theatres, had drifted into the restaurants there were new throngs of carnival makers on the streets, and from that time on the throngs grew thicker and thicker, and the movement of the mob slowed accordingly.

The contradictory reports that were bulletined in the early part of the evening were received in comparative silence.

Cheer Hughes's Gains.

Reports from Colorado and Cleveland cheered sporadic Wilson rooters, and the news from Cincinnati, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and other Republican centres encouraged supporters of Hughes. But for the most part the crowd reserved its enthusiasm for the man who was going to win, and the first outbursts of cheering came shortly after 8 o'clock, when the Democratic leaders admitted the loss of New York.

Restaurant crowds seemed to be predominantly for Hughes from the beginning. All the hotels, cafés, and dining rooms in the central part of the city were crowded, and the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Terminals presented the unusual spectacle of swarms of people, many in evening dress, pouring into the city for hours after nightfall. Fifth Avenue was packed with motor cars as at the busiest hours of the day, and the streams of pedestrians pouring up and down looked enormous until compared with the surging swarms on Broadway.

Inspector Thomas Myers, head of the Traffic Division, had charge of the hundreds of police who controlled the crowds around the Times Square districts, and the throngs were kept moving without disorder all the way along. Over certain parts of Broadway, where the cuts for the subway construction are still fortified by only temporary supports, the police refused to allow the merrymakers to gather. The west side of Broadway was closed to all traffic, except crosstown, from Thirty-fourth to Thirty-sixth Street, and the east side from Thirty-fifth to Thirty-seventh.

Great Crowds at Bulletins.

In front of The Herald Building a crowd was watching the bulletins over the subway construction shack just below Thirty-fifth Street. There were vast throngs gathered further up Broadway, where the two bulletin boards of THE TIMES collected crowds that jammed all traffic. Up the western side of Broadway the traffic grew steadily more crowded until it reached the sidewalks about The Times Building, where the crowds were packed in solid from the curb to within two feet of the building, leaving the narrowest of lanes through which up-and-down passersby slowly wormed their way. In the little plaza at the north end of The Times Building there was no movement at all, but a swarm of early comers, slowly growing as more and more were pushed into them from downtown, stood motionless watching the bulletins flashed on the big canvas hung high above the subway construction shack on the north side of Forty-third Street. Here bulletins followed each other every few seconds as reports to THE TIMES were telephoned over to the operators from The Times Annex, and the lofty canvas screen was within the view of probably 100,000 people down Broadway and Seventh Avenue.

At the other end of Times Square, just south of Forty-seventh Street, was erected another TIMES canvas screen on which the returns were flashed from a machine in the window of one of the stores on the west side of Broadway, and here another crowd was packed tightly from sundown until past midnight. Around the jammed thousands at these two points other thousands circulated, going back and forth from one board to the other and pausing at each end of Times Square to read the new bulletins constantly coming in.

Open Up Lanes for Traffic.

Now and again the police had to open lanes in the throngs moving up and down the pavements to let crosstown traffic through. Theoretically uptown traffic went on the east side of Broadway and Seventh Avenue and downtown traffic on the west, but in point of fact there was a narrow trickle of passers by going in the opposite direction on each side, and the growing impossibility of rapid motion led to more and more congestion despite the efforts of the police. Persons who wanted to get into or out of hotels and restaurants had a weary time pushing their way through, and the theatre crowds, when they poured out into the street, filled all Times Square until it looked like the exit of the Polo Grounds after a world's series game.

It was a well-behaved crowd, and the confetti and feather dusters were comparatively inoffensive. In the packed crowd at the apex of the Times Building there was considerable vigorous discussion that recalled, though on a much larger scale, the war debates that used to be held in the Fall of 1914 before the war bulletin boards on the Times Building; the conversation ran much to the merits of Wilson and Hughes, Whitman and Seabury, but dealt incidentally with the splendid weather, the discomfort of confetti in the ears, and the iniquity of tight shoes and sharp heels.

Thousands more watched the bulletins in Columbus Circle. James Dowd, a foreman living at 402 West Fifty-fifth Street, dropped dead there early in the evening.

In Park Row there was a big crowd on hand to see the bulletins of the downtown newspapers.

Big Crowds in City Hall Park.

City Hall Park was packed to overflowing, but the police, under Inspectors O'Brien and Dwyer, handled the crowds here, as well as those over the Brooklyn Bridge, with the minimum of trouble. The downtown crowds were more demonstrative than those in Times Square, and when The World's white searchlight announced shortly after 8 o'clock that President Wilson had probably been re-elected there was an uproar of cheering that was repeated a few minutes later when the news was reversed and the red light announced the election of Hughes.

There was a noticeable diminution in the number of bonfires on the side streets. Children lighted many of them here and there, but the precautions of the Police, Fire, and Street-Cleaning Departments prevented a good many and put out those that were lighted before they had an opportunity to do any damage.

Harlem turned out in its thousands along 125th Street between Third and St. Nicholas Avenues. Here, too, the swarms were for Wilson early in the evening, but promptly changed their allegiance when they saw that the President had been defeated for re-election. The big negro population in northeast Harlem were solidly for Hughes, and they were prominent on the streets and vociferous in their approval of the result of the election. The crowds moved west on the south side of 125th Street and east on the north side, but around the corner of Seventh Avenue there was considerable congestion where thousands gathered to watch the Herald and American bulletin boards. Various centres on Washington Heights also saw big crowds collected.

Republican Serenade.

A crowd in Park Avenue seized the earliest newspapers with the headlines "Hughes Elected," stuck them on canes, and raised them high as triumphal banners. Then, headed by a band playing patriotic airs, they turned into Forty-second Street under the lee of the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, marched over to Fifth Avenue, picked up the Republican National Chairman, William R. Willcox, at the headquarters of his committee just above Forty-second Street, and then went in triumphal procession down the avenue to the Union League Club. Here the band played "America," and the marchers were joined by the crowd around the club in singing with heads bared. By this time the crowd had grown to 500, with a train of a dozen automobiles. It marched over to Broadway and up to the Forty-fourth side of the Hotel Astor, where everybody cheered for Hughes.

The slow progression of this column through Times Square caused such a congestion in the street at the north end of the Times Building that the policemen there called for help, and two mounted policemen rode their horses up on the sidewalk, steered them slowly sidewise, and pushed the throngs back from the curb.

Hotels and restaurants were all crowded to the doors with lively throngs of diners, dancers, and supper guests. In practically all of the cafés and dining rooms bulletins were read every two or three minutes, and in many of them bulletins were flashed on screens indicating the progress of the election. Many restaurants which were open to general guests at dinner had every table reserved from 9:30 on. In some of the rooms streamers, confetti, and other instruments of mirth brought in something of the atmosphere of a New Year's Eve party.

Col. Dady Arrived Too Late to Vote.

Colonel Michael J. Dady, former Republican leader of Brooklyn, arrived yesterday from Havana on the Ward Line steamship Morro Castle one hour too late to vote. He said that it did not signify, because Hughes would be elected anyway. The Colonel, who has a big contracting business in Cuba, left Havana on Saturday to travel 1,100 miles by sea to vote for Hughes. Heavy northeast gales delayed the Morro Castle, and made her eight hours late in arriving in New York.

'MY TRIUMPH,' SULZER SAYS.

Finds In His Impeachment Reasons for the Democratic Defeat.

"The result of the election," said former Governor Sulzer, "is that the people have again impeached the impeachers. Will Boss Murphy and his subbosses never learn?

"In 1913 the voters impeached the impeachers in the Mayoralty election. In 1914 the voters impeached the impeachers in the State election. In 1916 the voters have impeached the impeachers in the national election, and the cause of William Sulzer again triumphs. Will the impeachers never learn?

"When Boss Murphy threatened me with removal because I was determined to be honest and make good as the Governor I told the boss that if he stole my office he would never elect another Democrat while the memory of the outrage lingered in the hearts and the minds of decent Democrats. Boss Murphy must know this now, and Boss Murphy must go.

"As for Seabury, I am sorry for him, but I counseled him not to get off the bench as Murphy would drag him to defeat just the same as he did Glynn.

"As for Wilson—well," said Mr. Sulzer, "Wilson urged me to oust Murphy and clean up conditions in the State, and when I began in earnest to do so and the fight waxed hot Mr. Wilson went over to the impeachers and aided Murphy. That settled Wilson so far as New York, New Jersey, and a few other necessary States were concerned."

13 ARRESTS IN NEWARK.

Lodging House Proprietor Charged with Buying Vote for $2.

Detectives from the Prosecutor's office in Newark yesterday arrested thirteen men for illegal registry. Meyer Zemel, proprietor of a lodging house at 323 Market Street, was arrested on a charge of bribery. Zemel is a Republican. He was arrested on the complaint of Isaac Diamond, a Democratic challenger in the Seventh District of the Fourth Ward. Zemel was taken to the Court House, where he was released in $1,500 bail. Diamond charged that Zemel gave William Nolan, a lodger, $2 to vote. Nolan was also arrested.

The arrests for illegal registration were made in the Second and Fourth Wards. The prisoners were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Meyer Slutsky and held in $500 bail.

Voting in Newark and Essex County was heavy throughout the day. The polls opened at 6 A. M. and closed at 7 P. M. There was a big crush of late voters at all of the polling places in Newark just before the closing of the polls. The workers in both the Republican and Democratic parties worked hard all day to get out the vote. Because of the large ballot there was much delay in getting the returns.

CONGRESS CANDIDATE DIES.

S. R. Barton of Nebraska Victim of Severities of Campaign.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Nov. 7.—S. R. Barton, a Republican, who represented the Fifth Nebraska District in the Sixty-third Congress, and was a candidate for re-election at today's election in competition with Congressman Ashton C. Shallenberger, died today.

Mr. Barton closed his campaign in this, his home city, last night with an open-air meeting. Exposure, as he stood with bared head addressing his home folks, is believed to have brought on the fatal illness. Severities of the campaign previously had affected his health. Mr. Barton leaves a wife and one son, Silas R. Barton, Jr. He was born in Iowa and reared on a Nebraska farm. He was in his forty-fifth year. He held the record in the Congressional session of which he was a member of the most constant attendance.

FIRST TOWN'S VOTE IS 23.

New Ashford, Mass., Beat the Country in Reporting Its Poll.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The first town in the United States to send in complete election returns today was New Ashford, in Berkshire County. The result was: Hughes, 16; Wilson, 7. The polls opened at 6 A. M. and closed at 10 o'clock. Four years ago the vote was: Taft, 7; Roosevelt, 6; Wilson, 4.

New Ashford is the smallest town in the State.

GERMAN-AMERICANS IN A JUBILANT MOOD

Crowds Gather in Restaurants, Shout, and Drink Toasts as Returns Come In.

ACCLAIM A HUGHES VICTORY

Not Since First Berlin Announcement of Jutland Fight Has City Seen Such Teutonic Rejoicing.

The largest crowds since the night after the German announcement of the Battle of Jutland gathered last night at the restaurants in this city frequented by German-Americans. They regarded the figures as assuring the victory of Hughes and celebrated quietly but with great heartiness.

A big crowd assembled shortly after 6 o'clock at Terrace Garden, where announcements were read from the ticker. The early returns, which seemed slightly to favor the re-election of President Wilson, were received in gloom. The returns indicating a shift to Hughes were received with delight. When newspapers in this city began to announce the election of the Republican candidate, the hall rang with deep-chested shouts of "Hughes, Hughes, Hughes," the guttural "ugh" being projected from the bottom of the lungs with true Teutonic vigor. Blares of fish-horns came from the younger generation which had not gained the mastery of the deep tones possessed by those who had spent their early life in Germany.

More sedate crowds gathered at Luchow's, in Fourteenth Street; at the Hofbrau and Kaiserhof, on Broadway; Alt Heidelberg, on Third Avenue, and the Pabst Restaurant, in Columbus Circle. Champagne was poured out in quantities rivaling those on the evening following the first arrival of the Deutschland and the battle of Jutland. The health of Hughes was drunk in French and German wine, Scotch whisky, and Dutch, Norwegian, and American beer. A popular toast was that Hughes should prove to be "the Bismarck of America."

At midnight last night, however, the excitement of the early returns had subsided. All of the German-American restaurants were turning throngs away, but the celebration inside was not uproarious. All the faces in sight were illuminated with a dignified enjoyment of the pleasing news, but it was not regarded as an occasion for wild revelry like that of the alleged destruction of the British fleet off Jutland.

At the Irving Place Theatre, Fifteenth Street and Irving Place, and at the Yorkville Theatre in Eighty-sixth Street, both amusement places frequented by German-Americans, the election returns were received with great enthusiasm. There was a rush for the lobbies when the first extras were on the streets and little attention was paid to the plays after the news was received. There were expressions of unconcealed satisfaction on all sides, the women taking no small part in the general conversation.

Rudolf Erbsloh of 42 West Fifty-eighth Street, after hearing the returns, said:

"I returned from Germany a few days ago in time to cast my vote for Mr. Hughes. It is not necessary for me to say that I am glad that my party won. The German-Americans have been displeased with President Wilson in many ways, but particularly because we think that he has done much by act and deed to stir up a race hatred in this country which should not exist. We hope that Mr. Hughes will do better, and hope that he will not find it necessary to place Colonel Roosevelt in his Cabinet. I have met Mr. Roosevelt and was impressed with his personality, but think him a little too hasty for an executive."

Oscar von Bernuth of 57 West Sixty-eighth Street said:

"I am glad to see Mr. Wilson defeated. His attitude on the international question cost him the German-American vote. We do not consider that he has been neutral with regard to Germany. He forced Germany to stop her submarine war, but still permitted England to take the mails from neutral ships."

Dr. Andrew von Grimm of 227 East Sixty-eighth Street, Dr. Emmanuel Baruch of 55 East Seventy-seventh Street, and others expressed their satisfaction with the election. There was a frequent expression of the hope that Roosevelt would not be appointed to a post in the Hughes Cabinet.

VIEWS OF CITY PRESS ON THE ELECTION

Many Papers Attribute Big Hughes Vote to President's Foreign Policy.

Germany Divides with Wall Street.

From The New York World.

Germany divides with Wall Street and reaction the glory of yesterday's election.

The American people have decided that unity of citizenship is not essential to the nation and that a divided allegiance involves no peril to the Republic.

They have decided that they do not care for progressive government and would rather have corporation rule under the trusteeship of business.

They have decided as well that they prefer the probability of war with somebody to the probability of peace with everybody.

There can be no other meaning to the election of Mr. Hughes.

The American people have turned over their Government to a coalition of the most heterogeneous elements that ever combined to punish a President. Those that want war with Germany are allied with those that want an American foreign policy made in Germany. Catholics who want to overthrow the Carranza Government in Mexico and make the United States the official protector of the Catholic Church in Latin-American countries have combined with anti-Catholics who want to rebuke the President for having a Catholic Secretary. Progressives are in partnership with the Old Guard, and Western radicals have joined forces with Wall Street and the Stock Exchange. Theodore Roosevelt is yoked up with Boies Penrose, Joseph G. Cannon and the German-American Alliance.

Step in National Rehabilitation.

From The New York Tribune.

More than a year ago, standing in the presence of a hideous massacre, knowing that Americans, men, women and children, had been ruthlessly slaughtered by a German act, Woodrow Wilson told the world that the American people were too proud to fight.

In a moment of a great national election Mr. Wilson went before the people of the United States and asked them to indorse that sentiment, to confirm that declaration. He asked the American people to re-elect him because he had kept them out of war, without regard to any question of honor, without regard to the safety of American women and children, without concern for the rights for which our fathers and their fathers fought.

Mr. Wilson has his answer. The country and the world would have the answer of the American people. On the day of election the American people have not forgotten the Lusitania. "Too proud to fight" has proved an epitaph and not a slogan; in defeating Mr. Wilson his fellow-countrymen have repudiated the words he put in their mouths and the sentiment he ascribed to them.

The lesson of this election is only less pointed for Mr. Hughes than for Mr. Wilson. Yesterday the American people passed judgment not upon him, but upon Mr. Wilson. In their judgment there is a meaning that only a blind man could fail to perceive. Mr. Wilson's defeat is only the first step in national rehabilitation; the road is long and difficult, but no man who volunteers to lead and, volunteering, fails will be forgiven.

Foreign Policies at Fault.

From The New York American.

Mr. Wilson's defeat was due entirely to his insistence upon committing errors in his foreign policies and in his attitude toward Mexican affairs.

Mr. Wilson's domestic policies were almost all good policies.

Mr. Wilson's foreign policies were almost without exception bad policies.

Therefore, Mr. Wilson has been rejected by the people and the Democratic Party overwhelmingly defeated at the polls.

Mr. Wilson's mistakes in the policies affecting our relations with other countries began with a bad tariff policy, a tariff policy which disturbed the country and aggravated the depression of 1913.

Triumph for Republicanism.

From The New York Sun.

First of all, credit and honor to those men in both factions of the broken Republican Party who labored at Chicago and at Oyster Bay, and throughout the country afterward, to effect the reunion which resulted in yesterday's great triumph for undivided Republicanism. They sank past differences for the sake of a present and future common interest. They are the real architects of this victory at the polls, which, according to high Democratic authority, is to shape the course of political events in the United States for the next fifty years. As the magnitude of the victory and the significance of the restoration grow in the public mind, let those who are rejoicing this morning keep clear in grateful memory the beginnings, so easy to forget.

The country has now passed upon the policies of Mr. Wilson's Administration, international and domestic, and likewise upon the question of the efficiency of the Chief Administrator. The answer was invited with courage by the responsible party, the specific issues were defined with spirited persistence throughout the campaign, and there can be doubt in no intelligent mind as to exactly what is meant by the tremendous reply inscribed on these millions of scraps of paper that registered yesterday the will of the nation.

It is a vote of no confidence; it is a writ of ejectment; it is a demand for a different sort of government, a better brand of Americanism; other methods of dealing with the great questions pressing upon this public from without and within; and it is to Mr. Hughes and the reunited Republican Party, not to Mr. Wilson and his Democratic Congress, that the execution of the people's sovereign will is intrusted by yesterday's vote.

The Single Term Plank.

From The New York Herald.

The American people have ratified one plank of the Baltimore platform which Mr. Wilson and his party saw fit to repudiate. That is the plank committing the country to "a single Presidential term."

That plank was the best promise of the platform upon which Mr. Wilson was elected in 1912. Events of the present campaign and of at least a year preceding it have shown even more clearly than had ever before been shown the iniquities of the "second term" practice. We have seen a President shifting his position upon great political questions with every wind that might blow votes his way. We have seen so many changes, and changes so remarkable, that men have rubbed their eyes in wonderment whether political principles were ever meant to mean anything. Can any man believe that if he had not been a candidate for re-election Mr. Wilson would have submitted to the surrender to the railway brotherhoods that you have so strongly condemned?

Take that "single Presidential term" plank Mr. Wilson discarded, Mr. Hughes, and use it as your own. See to it that Congress enacts the legislation necessary to make it forever binding. Do it early in your administration. That will relieve you of the possibility of "second term" temptation and will enable you to be a—

One Hundred Per Cent. President!

B. H. Ridder's Views.

From the Staats-Zeitung.

Charles Evans Hughes has been intrusted with the leadership of the nation. A great victory has been won, a victory of character and dignity. Mr. Hughes fought his way without passion or prejudice through a bitter and stirring campaign, making his appeal to all Americans. He repudiated no American citizen, neither did he bargain nor intrigue with any of them.

He stands so far above the petty tumult of race prejudice that we can turn to him with faith and courage and confidence to lead us back toward an Americanism broad enough to embrace us all. We can have every assurance that the unspeakable hyphen issue has passed forever from our national political life. To those who have labored unceasingly in bringing about the great victory the result is sufficient reward. With every hope for a better day for America we congratulate Charles Evans Hughes. BERNARD H. RIDDER.

"German Blows."

From The New Yorker Herold.

Hughes!

The word which we have placed at the head of this article says everything for us.

The name "Hughes" means a world to the German-American. When we now hear this word, an Alp seems to be removed from our breast. More than two years of shame and injustice have been erased. The sufferings of the German-Americans have been atoned for.

We naturally do not say that the German-Americans alone could have elected a President, but they could hinder the election of a President! They could, in union with those Americans who are unbiased and just in thought secure the election of a man who, they are convinced, will mete out justice even handedly.

We German-Americans wish to play no racial politics. We do not wish to separate ourselves from the other citizens for selfish aims or separate goals. We wish to work for the progress and development of the country like every other American. But if we are insulted, if men in public life turn against what is German, because it is German, and if they scorn and revile it—then German blood flames up, then the "furor teutonicus" appears, then there are "German blows."

PRESIDENT REFUSES TO CONCEDE DEFEAT

Secretary Tumulty Claims Ohio and Bases Hope on Returns from the West.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Nov. 7.—In the face of returns indicating the election of Charles E. Hughes, President Wilson and his official family here late tonight insisted that news from Western States would be awaited before any concessions were made.

The President, surrounded by members of his immediate family, received the returns in his study at Shadow Lawn. He heard only the more important bulletins by telephone from Secretary Tumulty, who with White House attachés received the detailed reports by telegraph at the Executive offices in Asbury Park.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, said at 9 o'clock:

"We still claim Ohio on the basis of the returns received. We shall make no statement as yet on the general result. There are still enough States in doubt to make Mr. Hughes's election uncertain.

"The incompleteness of the returns will probably make the final result impossible to estimate definitely tonight."

At 9:30 o'clock a picture of Charles E. Hughes was flashed on the bulletin board opposite the executive offices. The big crowd outside started a demonstration that lasted several minutes.

At 10 o'clock the executive offices issued the following statement:

"We believe President Wilson has been re-elected. There is nothing to date to alter this view. We are not so precipitate as our opponents in announcing the result."

At 10:15 Mr. Tumulty announced that there would be no statement from the President to-night. The statement issued from the executive offices was as follows:

"We still claim Ohio because of the incomplete character of the returns. There will be no statement from the Summer White House tonight."

President Wilson went to bed at midnight. At that hour his campaign managers here and in New York were claiming his election. The President left word that if really definite returns were received during the night he should be awakened. The President went to Princeton by automobile early in the morning and voted in the fire engine house where he has voted since he first came to Princeton.

THE INSTRUMENT OF QUALITY

Sonora

CLEAR AS A BELL

THE judges at the Panama Pacific Exposition awarded the highest score for tone quality to the Sonora. These men who made this decision are musical experts. It doesn't take a trained ear to observe the decided superiority of Sonora, however. You have simply to hear it.

Some of the many features that make Sonora the Highest Class Talking Machine in the World.

THE Sonora surpasses all other phonographs because of the perfection of its individual parts which are correctly combined. Hear it. You will agree that it is the phonograph you want.

1. Universal playing: All makes of disc records are played perfectly This is part of the Sonora design. It is not secured by additional devices which are always unsatisfactory.
2. Tone quality: At the Panama Pacific Exposition, in competition with the world's foremost phonographs, the Sonora won the highest score for tone quality. It is without a peer.
3. Cabinet work and design: The wonderful beauty of the Sonora is due both to its finish and its graceful flowing lines (the "bulge" effect), a patented process.
4. Tone control: Tone is controlled at its source, the only proper place. This is one of the patented features that help to make the Sonora the best that human ingenuity has been able to devise.
5. Sound box: This assists in reproducing a golden tone for which the Sonora is famous; and sends forth notes, clear, distinct, accurate and beautiful.
6. Automatic stop: This is provided on all machines. It is simple, mechanically correct, convenient and useful.
7. Silent motor: This is made in Switzerland by experts with generations of experience. It is the supreme motor of the phonograph world and plays nearly twice as long as others in machines sold at the same price.
8. Sound amplifier or horn: This helps to produce the wonderful Sonora tone. It is made on scientific principles and with special exclusive treatments.
9. Envelope filing system: This patented feature is a marvel of simplicity and convenience: records can always be quickly located when wanted.

BONWIT TELLER & CO.
The Specialty Shop of Originations
FIFTH AVENUE AT 38TH STREET

Much that emanates from the Original Sources of Fashion possesses little of merit. Some styles are ephemeral—they flicker a moment and fade out of favor like the Butterfly that blazes out in its one-day glory, and vanishes. The unlettered and unpractised in matters of Fashion are often too ready to grasp a half developed style-theme and exploit it irrespective of its adaptability and of its good taste. The name "Fashion" is too often the Cloak for Inelegance.

Elegance in styling is elusive, indefinable; it is sensed rather than seen. A high degree of discrimination is necessary to create and select Fashions for Women. Repression, expression, accentuation, modification must be counted in designing. A fine understanding of this Art is evident in Bonwit Teller & Co. apparel. In a tailleur, a frock, a coat, a blouse, a hat sponsored by this shop there is a certainty of correct Fashion, an atmosphere of elegance and fitness.

Bonwit Teller & Co Have Assembled a Collection of Exclusive Fashions for Women and "Jeunes Filles"

Not only are these fashions the result of the most inspired conceptions, not only are they the result of intimate collaboration with the leading Paris couturiers, modistes, lingeres and makers of novelties, not only are they expressive of original and unusual style-themes—but every individual piece of apparel bears those touches of refinement, those dainty graces of execution, those elegancies of detail and the finesse always associated with Bonwit Teller & Co. apparel and so highly regarded by women of fastidious taste and discernment

WOMEN SET LURES FOR HUNGRY VOTERS

Urns of Coffee and Sandwiches on Silver Trays Bid for Suffrage Support in 1917.

1,500 WORKERS AT POLLS

Make Nonpartisan Plea for Ballot on Ground That Both Wilson and Hughes Are with Them.

Democratic women, Republican women, and just plain suffraigists were all at the polls yesterday, standing the lawful 100 feet away, distributing literature for their candidates and their cause.

The suffragists were out in the greatest numbers, 1,500 of them covering practically all the polling places in the five boroughs. They handed out slips addressed to "Mr. Voter," telling him, whether a Democrat or a Republican, that his candidate favored votes for women and that they hoped he would take the same stand in 1917 when they expect the question to come up again in New York. They took many signatures of men who promised to vote for suffrage and got others to give verbal pledges.

Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Chairman of the New York State Woman Suffrage Party, was at her home polls, in the Twenty-ninth Assembly District, at 5:30 A. M.; Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the City Woman Suffrage Party, was at the Second Election District of the Seventeenth Assembly District at 7:30, and Mrs. Raymond Brown watched the Tenth Election District of the Seventeenth Assembly District. At 620 Lexington Avenue, in the Twenty-seventh Assembly District, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot and Mrs. Sumner Gerard were on duty from 3 to 5 P. M. Mrs. Gerard, who is an executive of the Women's Bureau of the National Democratic Committee, gave out Democratic as well as suffrage literature.

The Republican women took sandwiches and coffee to the watchers at the polls, and Mrs. Nelson Henry and Mrs. Henry L. Schelling found a hungry lot in the Twenty-fifth Assembly District. They had several automobiles, and overlooked the work from Mrs. Henry's car, in which was also Miss Frances Hoppin. The watchers in the Twenty-fifth were served in style, which, perhaps, helped to enhance their appetites. The sandwiches, wrapped in paper, were put out on a silver tray by Mrs. Schelling's butler and one of the chauffeurs. There was a big urn, and the coffee was served in paper cups in aluminium holders. By the time the fifteenth of the twenty-five polling places in the Twenty-fifth was reached the 600 sandwiches were gone, and an order was sent back for a new supply and ten gallons more coffee.

John Hurd, an old negro, known as the Mayor of Gay Street, who had brought out many negro votes, and who was at one of the polling places, a tailor's shop, 87 Sixth Avenue, was so overcome at the sight of the huge pile of sandwiches on a silver tray that nothing but a hymn could express his feelings. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," he murmured, clasping his hands. Mrs. Frank Dean, Mrs. S. Entwhistle and Mrs. Charles W. Fisk, Republican women, had charge of feeding the watchers at the polls in Brooklyn; Mrs. Stanley L. Otis gave out sandwiches in the Twenty-third District, Mrs. Eli C. Smith in the Twenty-ninth, just back of the Plaza Hotel; Mrs. Alexander Jackson in the Fifteenth, Mrs. John Francis Yawger in the Nineteenth, and Mrs. Laura B. Prisk in the Thirty-first, while Miss Alice Waytes saw that the negro watchers were fed.

The New York City Committee of the Hughes Alliance, Miss Alice Carpenter Chairman, furnished sandwiches and beer and coffee and cake to 200 officers and executives of the various Hughes Alliance branches on the twelfth floor of the headquarters, 511 Fifth Avenue, last night, where they went on invitation to receive the returns. The City Committee closed its campaign stores on Monday night. It had three of them in Broadway, one at 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, one in the Bronx, and one in Brooklyn. They took down an enormous number of enrollments for Hughes, estimated to be one-fourth of the enrollments in the entire State.

Democratic women were not feeding the watchers yesterday, but 100 women registered at the Women's Bureau of the National Democratic Committee to visit the polls and distribute literature. Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, First Vice Chairman, was one of these, and Mrs. Sumner Gerard was also on their list, with Mrs. Ella O'Gorman Stanton, Mrs. William Leon Graves, Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, Miss Zona Gale, and Mrs. Emily C. Brewster in Brooklyn. The Democratic women were pleased with an incident which happened Monday night and which they said was a good omen. A German cab driver applied to the bureau for literature and decorations. He was going to use the decorations on his cab on Election Day and distribute the literature. He told them all his people were going to vote for Wilson for keeping the country out of war.

The Republican women said that Hughes voting No. 13 at his polling place showed that that was his lucky number. They issued thirteen leaflets for him, they said.

WOMEN PLAN HUGHES AID.

Miss Kellor Tells of Conference to be Called in Washington.

Miss Frances A. Kellor, Chairman of the Women's Committee of the National Hughes Alliance, issued a statement last night telling what Hughes's election means to women, as she believes. She said:

"The election of Mr. Hughes means that the women of America have their first big nationwide opportunity to help the Chief Executive of this nation put into effect a program of nationalism, Americanization, protection for working women and children, the distribution, education, and assimilation of immigrants, and other matters of vital interest to the homes of America. We now turn from the selfish, contented slogans of 'Prosperity and peace at any price' and 'He has kept us out of war' to real nation building in the homes and workshops and in the cities and rural districts of our nation. There is no woman so remote, so humble or so needy that we cannot somehow or other reach her with the gospel of nationalism and of a united America. We have much to do to heal the racial and class bitterness and misunderstanding and prejudice which the Democratic Party has deliberately fostered. We have much to do to rectify the mistakes and to overcome the neglect of these last three years.

"We have already begun. The women of the National Hughes Alliance will meet in Washington at the home of Mrs. Gifford Pinchot at 1615 Rhode Island Avenue on Nov. 17-18, next week, Friday and Saturday as soon as the voting women from the West can reach us, to perfect our organization and outline a program of the things we intend to work for. We believe the thinking women of America as citizens, irrespective of whether they vote or not, should unite behind national issues and give public service to translate these issues into deeds.

"At a time when the President-elect and the Republican Party offer to women the first great opportunity for national service at a critical time in the nation's affairs, 'nonpartisanship' on the part of American women means the same thing in our national life as refusal on the part of American men to defend the country. Women have the same opportunity to conserve the ideals, traditions, standards, and honor of the nation as men have to defend them, and the highway is national service."

VOTING THRILLS WOMEN.

Jane Addams and Others Call It an Impressive Experience.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Characterizing their experience as "impressive" and "thrilling," the women of the city today, for the first time, voted for President of the United States.

Governor and Mrs. Dunne, with their daughter, Miss Mona Dunne, went early to a polling place, where Miss Dunne marked her first political ballot of any kind and Mrs. Dunne her first ballot for the Presidency. Mrs. Dunne and her daughter were in the booth less than a minute. The Governor took considerably more time in marking his ballot.

It was Miss Harriet E. Vittum's first opportunity to cast her vote for the Presidency, and she cast it for Hughes.

"I never felt my responsibility as a citizen more than when I cast that ballot," said Miss Vittum. "The act of voting for President makes women as never before an actual part of their country."

"It was indeed a thrilling and impressive experience to be voting for President," said Miss Jane Addams after she had cast her vote for President Wilson. "I believe that every voting woman in Chicago is feeling moved and thrilled by the experience, which is one of deep significance."

According to declarations of Mrs. Raymond Robins as she cast her ballot for Hughes the vote of the women will show to politicians of other States the keen interest women are taking in politics, and will prompt them to aid in the passage of such legislation in their own States.

94, CASTS HER FIRST VOTE.

Mrs. D. E. Miller of Quincy and Great-Grandson Give in "Maiden" Ballots.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 7.—Mrs. D. E. Miller, aged 94, cast her first vote today.

RETURNS BY WIRELESS.

De Forest Radio Laboratories Flashed Bulletins at Highbridge.

The Bronx produced an election-night innovation when, shortly after dark last evening, the De Forest radio laboratories in Highbridge began flashing returns by wireless. Amateur operators within a radius of 200 miles had been forewarned of the new information service, and it was estimated that several thousand of them received the news, many through using the newly manufactured wireless telephones.

Some 200,000 persons, many of them minors, heard the returns in the main thoroughfares of Bronx County. For the most part they were orderly, particularly after the police, who were on duty in force, had divested the more frolicsome of their talcum powder and ticklers. The temper of the majority seemed to be on the Wilson side early in the evening, but, after the manner of election crowds, the spirit changed as soon as news that Mr. Hughes was elected was generally accepted.

For over half a century, the makers of the Aquascutum have served the British gentleman and the admirers of London tailoring in every degree of latitude and longitude.

This is one case where it is strictly up to you

There's no reason for putting it up to your stenographer or office manager, just because your correspondence is all at sixes and sevens, thanks to the extravagance of the shorthand system. Your office manager does his share. You are responsible for the system he's working with.

Dictate to The Dictaphone

Your stenographer does her share—likely a bit more. But it is your fault if you stick to a system that makes her write your letters twice—once in shorthand and once on the typewriter. It is your fault if she has to leave her typewriter and sit at your desk taking shorthand dictation and waiting to take it, while her typewriter stands idle instead of turning out finished typewriting.

It is your fault if you keep on trying to adapt your dictation to the limitation of the shorthand system, with its personal inconveniences and exasperations; it is your fault if every letter costs a third more than it should. And it will go along being your fault until you dictate to The Dictaphone.

E. S. SCHIEFFELIN COMMITS SUICIDE

Wealthy Member of Drug Firm Found Dead in His Room at the Hotel Empire.

AN ACCIDENT, FAMILY SAYS

Two Pistols Lie Near Him, Also the Tools for Cleaning Them—Maid Discovers Body.

Edgar S. Schieffelin, a cousin of William J. Schieffelin, the philanthropist, was found dead with a bullet in his brain in his apartment at the Hotel Empire yesterday morning. Mr. Schieffelin, who had celebrated his fiftieth birthday anniversary on Monday, lived alone. Near the body were two pistols, some gun oil, ramrods, and rags for cleaning. A brother, George Schieffelin, and two sisters, who hurried to the apartment from the Hotel Ansonia, and all of whom refused to talk for publication, insisted to the police and Coroner Healy that the shooting was accidental, but the Coroner, after an examination, declared the case a suicide.

Mr. Schieffelin had been connected with the prominent drug firm of that name, but during the last five years he had lived at the Empire and had not been active in business, it was said. He was an expert shot and a lover of firearms, of which he made a collection. After the passage of the Sullivan law, he filled a suit case with them, intending, according to P. Vincent Land, manager of the hotel, to dump them in the river. Whether he kept the two pistols found in his room yesterday, or whether he acquired them later was not known. The dead man left no note to explain his act. The body was discovered by a maid who entered the apartment, supposing its occupant had departed for his customary morning walk.

He was reported to be wealthy. In his room the police found a partially completed check made out to cash.

BOY TIES UP SUBWAY.

Puts Iron Pipe on Third Rail and Service Is Shut Off.

Charged with placing an iron pipe across the tracks of the B. R. T. subway a short distance from the Essex Street station yesterday morning, causing blinding flashes, extinguishing the lights and tying up traffic for more than half an hour, a youth, who said he was Samuel Goldford, 16 years old, of 24 Suffolk Street, was held in $3,500 bail for examination Friday by Magistrate Murphy in Essex Market Court. Following the extinguishing of the lights, it was testified that a number of men and women ran from the station to the street. Although several of them were trampled upon, none was seriously injured.

According to Samuel Levine, a guard, he saw Goldford and another boy about the same age jump from the end of the platform and run along the tracks for about twenty feet. He said he yelled to them, and when they paid no attention to him he jumped from the platform and followed. At the time a train was approaching from the Williamsburg Bridge, and he said he saw the boys lay the pipe across the tracks, one end touching the third rail, the other one of the tracks. A moment later, he said, there was a blinding flash, quickly followed by four others.

Magistrate Murphy learned that traffic was held up for half an hour following the short circuit, and he questioned the boy. Goldford wept copious tears, and pleaded that he was only a boy, and that his companion was the one that had caused the damage. The Magistrate said that under the existing penalty for interfering with passenger traffic on a street railroad Goldford could be sent to prison for twenty years.

Whyard's Conviction Affirmed.

NEW CITY, Nov. 7.—Word was received in New City today that the Appellate Division of the Second Department had affirmed the conviction of W. W. Whyard, Democratic boss and State road contractor, convicted and sentenced to the workhouse for alleged State road frauds. Whyard was indicted with Bart Dunn, Tammany leader, who served eight months for road grafting. Although indicted four years ago Whyard managed to escape the penalty. It is over a year since he was convicted by a jury before Justice A. S. Tompkins of the Supreme Court and sentenced to ten months. Whyard's counsel is now planning to carry his fight to the Court of Appeals for a new trial, the Appellate Division having decided against him.

FRENCH SMASH LINE AT CHAULNES

Take German Positions on a Front of 2½ Miles South of the Somme.

CAPTURE TWO VILLAGES

Ablaincourt and Pressoire, with Supporting Fortifications, Conquered by Attackers.

PRISONERS TOTAL 72,000

Allies, Up to Nov. 1, Had Captured In Addition Over 200 Guns.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The French took German positions on a front of four kilometers, (two and one-half miles,) extending from Chaulnes Wood to southeast of Ablaincourt refinery, says the official communication issued by the French War Office tonight.

The villages of Ablaincourt and Pressoire and Ablaincourt Cemetery were captured. More than 500 prisoners were taken.

The French in previous attacks had captured Chaulnes Wood, and had pushed their lines to the outskirts of Ablaincourt. This latest stroke threatens to cut off the town of Chaulnes from the north.

The text reads as follows:

> North of the Somme we progressed between Les Boeufs and Sailly-Saillisel.
> South of the Somme we launched a brisk attack in the morning, which, despite the heavy rain, brought us important gains. On a four kilometer front we carried enemy positions from Chaulnes Wood to southeast of the Ablaincourt sugar refinery. The villages of Ablaincourt and Pressoire were brilliantly conquered by our infantry.
> Pushing our lines eastward of Ablaincourt, we captured also Ablaincourt Cemetery, which was strongly fortified by the enemy, and carried our positions to south of the sugar refinery as far as the outskirts of Genrecourt.
> We have taken during the day more than 500 prisoners, including several officers.
> On the Verdun front there was intermittent cannonading. Elsewhere the day was quiet.

Up to the last of November, or for the four months' duration of the Somme battle, the Allies have captured 71,532 men and 1,449 officers, according to the French War Office report this afternoon. The number of guns captured is given as 173 field guns, 130 heavy guns, 215 trench mortars and 981 machine guns. Of this total the French captured 40,796 men, 809 officers, 77 field guns, 101 heavy guns, 104 trench mortars and 535 machine guns.

Last night was barren of important happenings along the French front, there having been only intermittent cannonading on portions of the Somme front and on the right bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector.

German airmen dropped incendiary bombs on Nancy yesterday, but did no damage, according to the official statement. There were no casualties.

The British troops made slight gains in the neighborhood of Butte de Warlencourt during operations last night. The official statement reads:

> During the night we improved our position east of Butte de Warlencourt.
> We successfully raided enemy trenches between Gommecourt and Serre, taking some prisoners and inflicting considerable casualties.
> An enemy patrol south of Monchy was dispersed by our fire.
> Heavy rains and strong southwesterly gales continue.

The night British report says the British front in the Les Boeufs area was severely shelled, and the German support and communication trenches in the neighborhood of Armentières and Wytschaete were bombarded. Rain fell all day.

Attacks Failed, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, Nov. 7, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—On the Somme front yesterday the British made an attack near Eaucourt l'Abbaye, but were immediately beaten back, the War Office announced today. The text of the statement follows:

> Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: Although the British plainly intended to continue their attacks yesterday, it was only east of Eaucourt l'Abbaye that they succeeded in making their infantry leave their trenches. They were forced to return immediately. The British losses in killed on Nov. 5 were especially notable among the Australian division.
> French attacks over ground covered with dead were renewed only in a limited way. The new attacks, launched between Les Boeufs and Rancourt in the evening and during the night, broke down for the most part early under our fire.
> A German air squadron by a nocturnal bombing raid set on fire a large ammunition depot at Cerisy, on the Somme, southwest of Bray. Long-continued, heavy detonations were felt as far away as St. Quentin.
> Army Group of the German Crown Prince: The fire of French batteries located in the southern part of Rheims upon villages behind our front was answered by us, and in reprisal the town of Rheims was shelled.

DR. HOLLWEG TO SPEAK:

WARSAW MEETING THANKS THE KAISERS

Gratitude Expressed for Promised Autonomy and Chance to Fight Russians.

BERLIN, Nov. 7, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The Austrian and German manifestoes, regarding the creation of a Polish State, were discussed at a mass meeting in Warsaw today, after which the following telegram was sent to Emperor William and Emperor Francis Joseph:

"Mighty Monarchs: On this day, so felicitous for the Polish race, when it learns that it will be free with an autonomous State, its own King, and its own army, every liberty-loving Pole is impressed with the feeling of thankfulness to those who have freed the Polish people through their good-will and given to it a renewal of autonomous government. The victories of your invincible armies have liberated two towns equally dear to the Polish heart—Warsaw and Vilna.

"The agreement between Germany and Austria-Hungary with regard to the Polish question gives us an autonomous national existence, the greatest benefit for a people, and also gives us the possibility of marching with all our forces against our traditional enemy, the Muscovite. We know that your purpose, most august Emperors, stands behind that which has been done and is an important element in this historic event. Therefore, we send your Majesties an expression of our gratitude and assurance that the Polish people will be able to prove faithful to its allies."

SILVER FOR DEUTSCHLAND.

Six and One-Half Tons, Worth $150,000, Delivered at New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 7.—Six and one-half tons of silver bullion from the mint at San Francisco were unloaded here today at the railroad station by an express company and transported to the German merchant submarine Deutschland, moored at the State pier, for shipment across the ocean. The metal was conveyed through the streets in five open wagons, without armed guards, and few persons who saw the wagons suspected that $150,000 worth of property was being moved in that fashion.

Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the German Ambassador, inspected the German Deutschland here today. It was her first visit on board a submarine. As the guest of Captain Paul Koenig, the Deutschland's commander, the Countess went into the vessel's lowest depths, looked through the periscope, and entered every compartment.

The Ambassador, who reiterated that his brief visit here was entirely a social one, accompanied his wife to the pier. He boarded the craft, but did not make the inspection with the Countess.

The Ambassador denied formally today that he has intrusted to Captain Koenig official mail addressed to the Emperor of Germany. It was learned, however, that certain mail matter from the German Embassy at Washington would be carried by the Deutschland on her next trip. The Ambassador and the Countess left here this forenoon for New York.

The crew of the Deutschland were entertained at Mystic tonight by the Frohsinn Club of that place.

TEND BRITISH WAR GRAVES.

Registration Units Work at the Front Under the Prince of Wales.

In an article which tells of the appointment of the Prince of Wales as head of a national committee which will care for the graves of officers and men of the British Army who have been killed in the war, the Official Press Bureau says:

"The Prince of Wales has, with the consent of King George, accepted the presidency of a national committee appointed to care for the graves of British officers and men after the war. Already an enormous amount of work has been done in France and Belgium, and more recently in Egypt and Saloniki and Mesopotamia, to care for and preserve the identity of such graves—'some corner of a foreign field that is forever England,' as Rupert Brooke so finely expressed it in the sonnet anticipating his own fate.

"Graves registration units work on all the battle fronts as a part of the British Army organization. Their duty is to register the position of graves and to see that they are marked with durable wooden crosses bearing a metal inscription giving the name, number, rank, regiment, and date of death.

"Early in 1915 it became necessary to make definite arrangements with regard to the provision of land in France for the burial of British officers and men. Up till then, and particularly during the retreat and the subsequent advance to the Aisne, burials had often taken place in isolated graves which were, wherever practicable, cared for with reverence and respect by the French peasants and owners of land, and in a few cases permanent concessions of land were offered. By this time, however, French civil cemeteries were being more regularly used, and it was also possible to arrange for special burial grounds. The Director of Graves Registration and Inquiries approached the French Government, through the French military authorities, on the matter. The French Government immediately expressed the desire to provide land for permanent resting places for British officers and men at the cost of the French nation, and a law was passed which gave effect to this generous impulse on Dec. 29, 1915. Since then, in co-operation with the French Army, the directorate has established authorized burial grounds immediately behind the British front and near the field ambulances, the casualty clearing stations, and the hospitals further back. Soldiers are employed under the officers of the graves registration units to look after these burial grounds. In the case, however, of a battle or severe fighting isolated burials necessarily still take place.

"The French Government further offered to maintain these cemeteries. The British Government has, however, in agreement with the French Government, undertaken to provide for their maintenance in perpetuity, and has appointed the national committee, with the Prince of Wales at its head, to care for the graves of officers and men after the war.

"The cemeteries in France, as a whole, are grass-sown and planted with flowers and shrubs, where military conditions allow, under the advice of the Director of the British Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew. Many considerations, among which is the desire felt at the front to avoid inequality of treatment, have made it necessary to forbid the erection of any permanent memorials during the progress of hostilities; the prohibited, as all tranport is required for material of war. The exhumation of bodies during the war is strictly forbidden by both the French and British military authorities."

New Austrian Loan 5 1-2 Per Cent.

VIENNA, Nov. 8, (via Amsterdam to London.)—The Finance Minister, Karl Marek, has announced details of the fifth Austrian war loan. This will be composed of 5½ per cent. bonds redeemable within forty years, and 5½ per cent. exchequer bonds payable within five and a half years.

Bucharest Reports That Foe's Entire Line in Dobrudja Is Falling Back.

TEUTON SUCCESS IN NORTH

More Than 1,000 Rumanian Prisoners Taken in Red Tower Pass Region.

RUSSIANS GAIN GROUND

Force Austrian Front Back Several Kilometers in Transylvania and Recover Dedul Mountain.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 7.—The Rumanian forces in Dobrudja, which recently assumed the offensive against Field Marshal von Mackensen's army, are continuing their successes, the War Office announced today. Progress for the Rumanians along the entire Dobrudja front is reported. On the Transylvanian front the Rumanians advanced slightly in the Buzeu Valley. Violent fighting is under way in the region of the River Alt.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 7.—In the region east of Kirlibaba, on the Transylvanian front, says the Russian statement from General Headquarters, a Russian attack resulted in the dismounting of two enemy guns and the capture of trenches with over 100 prisoners and two machine guns. It continues:

> South of Dorna Watra we continue our successful operations in the valleys of the Dorsek and Poutna Rivers. We captured here within two days seven machine guns, fifteen officers, and 800 men.

BERLIN, Nov. 7, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—On the Transylvanian front, in the region of Tulghes, the Russians yesterday forced back Austro-German troops, it is announced officially. The Teutonic forces gained ground west of the Bodza Pass. Near Rothenthurm Pass the Austrians and Germans advanced and took more than 1,000 prisoners. Near Vulcan Pass further ground was gained. The announcement follows:

> Front of Archduke Charles Francis: In the Tulghes sector the Russians, after several attempts without success, gained ground at some places. West of the Bodza Pass road we recaptured lost positions at the point of the bayonet. In the Campulung sector there was a violent artillery duel. West of Tirgujuily Valley the Rumanians undertook without success six counterattacks during the night.
> Southeast of Rothenthurm Pass, in the district of Spini, our attack progressed favorably. The enemy left ten officers and 1,000 men prisoners in our hands. Also south of Vulcan Pass we made progress.
> The general situation in Dobrudja is unchanged.

VIENNA, Nov. 7, (via London.)—After several days' stubborn fighting near Tulghes, Transylvanian front, says the communication from general headquarters today, the Russians pressed back the Austrian front some kilometers. The Austrian troops evaculated Dedul Mountain, east of Kirlibaba, in the face of the massed fire of the Russian artillery.

> Eastern Front—Front of Prince Leopold: Between Dvinsk and Lake Narocz the Russian artillery displayed unusual activity. Weak hostile attacks northeast of Goduzishki (south of Dvinsk) and south of the Moscow road were easily repulsed.
> Northeast of Verchy we captured without loss to us a small Russian bridgehead on the left bank of the Stokhod and brought in a number of prisoners.

French Repulse Bulgar Attack.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Considerable activity to the east of the Lake Presba region, toward the western end of the Macedonian front, is reported by the War Office. A Bulgarian counterattack in the region of the town of German was repulsed. Elsewhere in this sector there was moderate artillery activity.

LINER TORPEDOED HAD 700 ABOARD

P. & O. Boat Arabia Attacked While Bound From Australia to London.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The Peninsular and Oriental liner Arabia has been submarined.

She carried 450 passengers. All are believed to have been saved.

The Arabia was a twin-screw steamship of 7,933 gross tonnage, built at Greenock by Caird & Co., with her sister ships, Egypt and Persia, for the Bombay passenger and mail service, via the Suez Canal. She was reported bound from Sydney, New South Wales, Sept. 30, for London, sailing from Adelaide on Oct. 5. Gibraltar and Marseilles are ports of call for the line.

The Arabia was 499 feet 7 inches long, 54 feet 3 inches beam, and 24 feet 5 inches depth of hold. She had a speed of 17 knots, and was commanded by Captain A. B. Palmer. The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company carry white officers and engineers, Lascar seamen, and Seedy boys, negroes from the west coast of Africa, as firemen, with white men and East Indian Portuguese in the steward's department. She would carry about 250 of a crew all told.

HIT 2 DREADNOUGHTS, SUBMARINE REPORTS

British Admiralty Statement Says They Were German Battleships of the Kaiser Class.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—A claim that two dreadnoughts were hit by the British submarine which yesterday was reported launching a torpedo at and striking a German dreadnought in the North Sea is contained in a further report received from the commanding officer of the submarine, it was officially announced today. The two dreadnoughts were battleships of the Kaiser class. The official statement reads:

> With reference to yesterday's communique, a further report has now been received from the commanding officer of the submarine. He now claims to have hit two dreadnought battleships of the Kaiser class.

The naval registers shows five dreadnought battleships of the Kaiser class, all completed between October, 1912, and August, 1913. Besides the name ship of the class, they are the Friedrich der Grosse, Kaiserin, Prinz Regent Luitpold, and Koenig Albert. The displacement of each is 24,700 tons, length 564 feet, beam 85 feet, and draft 27 feet. Their armament consist of ten 12-inch guns, fourteen 6-inch guns, twelve 24-pounders, and four anti-aircraft guns. They are equipped with five torpedo tubes, submerged. The Kaiser's best speed record is given as 23.6 knots.

Reports from British sources that the Kaiser was sunk in the Jutland sea fight last May were semi-officially denied in Berlin. It was stated that the Kaiser was only twice lightly hit by gunfire, one man being killed.

BRITISH NAVY LOSS HIGH.

German Estimate of 501,790 Tons in Battleships and Cruisers.

BERLIN, Nov. 7, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—"The sinking of a British small cruiser off the Irish coast by a German submarine has increased the total British losses in battleships and cruisers to 501,790 tons," says an Overseas News Agency announcement today. "This does not include British auxiliary cruisers, submarines, torpedo boats or guardships lost.

"According to the known strength of the British navy at the beginning of the war, it has lost 14 per cent. of its battleships, 30 per cent. of its armored cruisers and 14 per cent. of its protected cruisers. Thirty-nine ships of a total of 443,500 tons have been destroyed by German naval forces.

"The extent of the British losses is notable in view of the fact that at the beginning of the war the French navy's tonnage was 497,000 and the Italian navy's 335,000.

"Moreover, the British navy has lost 50 torpedo boats of 71,500 tons, and 76 submarines.

"The figures given take into consideration only those losses regarding which no doubt exists."

The reference in the foregoing to a British warship sunk off the Irish coast doubtless concerns the German Admiralty announcement on Nov. 5 that a small British cruiser of old construction had been sunk by a German submarine off the west coast of Ireland. The British Admiralty in its comment on the German report said it was evident that the announcement referred to the sinking of the British minesweeper Genista, the loss of which was officially announced on Oct. 26.

AUSTRIAN ATTACK FAILS.

Italians Hold Positions in Trentino—Quiet on Carso Front.

ROME, Nov. 7.—A surprise attack on Italian positions in the Adige Valley, between Loppio and Mori, was undertaken by the Austrians on Sunday night. The War Office announced today that the attempt was unsuccessful.

In the Travignola Valley the Austrians continued without success to attack Italian positions.

No changes of importance are recorded in the region between Gorizia and the Adriatic, where the Italian offensive movement has been under way. The statement says that there was reciprocal artillery fighting yesterday on the Julian front. The Italians dispersed hostile columns and continued to strengthen their line and to clear the battlefield. The weather is unfavorable.

GERMANY MAY OFFER TO PAY FOR LANAO

Belief in Washington That She Will Follow the Frye Precedent.

WAS FLYING OUR FLAG

Decision Hinges on Whether Cargo Was Absolute or Conditional Contraband.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—It is believed here that the case of the American ship William P. Frye may govern Germany as a precedent in settling the case of the steamer Lanao, sunk by a German submarine off the coast of Portugal on Oct. 28. Germany is expected to offer to pay for the ship if it is established that the vessel was sailing legally under the American flag and registry.

Lorin A. Lathrop, the American Consul at Cardiff, Wales, in a dispatch to the State Department dated Nov. 6, says that she was flying an American flag at the time of attack. His dispatch follows:

"The Philippine steamer Lanao, Manila, Saigon to Havre, carrying rice, was stopped thirty miles off Cape St. Vincent, Portugal, by a German submarine on Oct. 28. The Lanao was destroyed by a bomb after the crew were removed to the submarine, the submarine commander stating that the cargo was contraband and he was compelled to sink the vessel. The crew was transferred half an hour later to the Norwegian steamer Tromp and landed at Cardiff. No injuries, no casualties. The Lanao was unarmed and flying the American flag."

Immediately upon receipt of this dispatch John E. Osborne, Acting Secretary of State, asked the American Embassy at London to send the fullest details of the sinking of the Lanao, with affidavits of the crew. The following dispatch was also received from Consul General Skinner at London:

"Lloyd's reports the American steamer Lanao sunk by a submarine and thirty of the crew landed at Barry by the Norwegian steamer Tromp."

The sinking of the Lanao, now that her status as an American vessel appears to have been established, raises a case similar to that of the sinking of the William P. Frye by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich on Jan. 28, 1915. The Frye was bound from Portland, Ore., to England with a cargo of wheat which Germany held to be contraband of war.

The question as to the Lanao turns on the fact of whether rice, her cargo, is absolute or conditional contraband. The United States Government accepted the German Government's proposals regarding the settlement of the Frye case, pending the decision of the arbitration body to be appointed.

Although the State Department dispatches fail to mention the presence of Americans aboard the Lanao, the treatment accorded them by the German submarine commander appears to remove any danger of complication on that ground.

Regarding the right of the German submarine commander to destroy the cargo of contraband rice destined to a French or enemy port, there is no disposition to raise any question, but in the Frye case the German Government admitted that under Article XIII. of the treaty of 1799, the ship itself should have been allowed to proceed after the removal of the contraband cargo.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—No transfer of the steamship Lanao had been registered at the American Consulate here, it was said at the Consulate today.

Lorin A. Lathrop, American Consul at Cardiff, has telegraphed to the Consulate here that the Lanao when sunk was still under Philippine registry and flying the American flag. Her transfer to the Norwegian flag was to have been made on her arrival in England.

Captain Mainland has telegraphed from Cardiff the following signed statement:

"The Lanao sailed from Hongkong under the American flag, which flew day and night and was flying when sunk. I heard rumors of sale, but nothing certain. The submarine captain gave a receipt for the ship's papers as from an American ship. The legal status of the vessel was Philippine registry under American protection, which gave the right to fly the American flag."

CARDIFF, Wales, Nov. 7.—Captain Mainland of the Lanao said today that he was acting on the assgumption that try and entitled to fly the American flag.

The Captain had saved the ship's papers, which he has brought to Cardiff, showing that the Lanao was registered at Manila and thus entitled to fly the American colors.

Captain Mainland said he did not protest to the submarine commander against the sinking of the Lanao on account of her registry. Neither did he lodge a protest with American Consul Lathrop here.

PRESS DIRECTOR RETIRES.

Dr. Hammann Quits After Criticism of German Censorship.

Following the recent sharp attacks by members of the Reichstag and publicists in general on the manner in which the German censorship was being exercised, it is reported in German newspapers received in London that Dr. Hammann, the veteran director of the German Press Bureau, has retired from office. He has been succeeded by Major Deutelmoser, who has had charge of the special press bureau of the War Office since the outbreak of hostilities.

Dr. Hammann is said to have retired for "reasons of health," although it is intimated that other work will be found for him. Herr Hammann, who was in charge of press matters for the German Government for more than twenty years, entered office in 1894 under the chancellorship of Count Caprivi.

VILLA BANDITS KILL AMERICAN'S FAMILY

Chihuahua Agent Escapes After Chase—Wife, Daughter, and Woman Friend Dead.

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 7.—Arthur Williams, agent for an automobile supply house in Chihuahua, reached here yesterday in a battered automobile after a chase by Villa bandits in another car, in the course of which a woman, whose name is unknown here, and Williams's little daughter were killed.

Williams's wife was killed in Chihuahua before the chase began.

EL PASO, Nov. 7.—A Mexican refugee from Chihuahua City, who arrived here last night, brought the report that Villa bandits had soaked the hair of two Mexican women in oil and had burned them at Santa Rosalia on Oct. 26. The refugee said he had talked with an eyewitness to the tragedy.

He also reported General Uribe, Villa commander, had declared at Santa Rosalia that he intended to kill all Americans and Chinese who were caught by his forces.

General Francisco Murgia, commanding the reorganized Carranza division south of Jimenez, is proceeding northward against the Villa bandits in the Santa Rosalia and Jimenez districts, according to a message received late today from General Jacinto B. Trevino by Mexican Consul Eduardo Soriano Bravo.

General Trevino denied the report that Villa troops had taken Torreon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The State Department was still without information today regarding the fate of the Americans reported murdered by Villista bandits in the Parral and Santa Rosalia districts. A number of letters were received at the department from relatives in the United States of those persons asking information as to their safety.

Officials said they expected to receive reports tomorrow from Mexico City and from British and French Consuls on the ground throwing light on the situation.

VILLISTAS STEAL $50,000.

Bandits Rob Agent of American Mining Camp Carrying Silver Bars.

EL PASO, Nov. 7.—Sixty-seven bars of silver belonging to an American mining camp at Parral, Chihuahua, are reported to have been taken from Edgar Koch, an agent of the company, by Villa bandits at Santa Rosalia on Oct. 27. The silver was said to have been valued at $50,000, and was being brought from Parral to the border.

Koch is said to be the German Consular agent in Parral.

Officers of the mining company here say they have had no confirmation of the reported robbery.

CARRANZA NOT TO RESIGN.

Will Stay First Chief Despite Candidacy for Presidency, He Says.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—General Venustiano Carranza announced to The Associated Press today that he would not resign as First Chief because of his candidacy for the Presidency of the republic. He said, however, that if he considered it advisable he would withdraw from his official post just before the Constitutional elections.

General Carranza added that up to the present time the relations between Mexico and the United States had not been strained.

BOTH SINK IN SEA DUEL.

Submarine and Destroyer Fight While Transport Escapes.

ROME, Nov. 6.—An Austrian submarine and an Italian destroyer were sunk in a duel on the night of Oct. 16, according to an official statement issued by the Admiralty today. The submarine had attacked a transport which escaped. The statement also gives further details of the attack of a destroyer flotilla on the harbors of Pola, the base of the Austrian fleet, and of Durazzo. It follows:

> An Austrian submersible attempted on the night of Oct. 16-17 to torpedo one of our transports conveying troops, but was discovered and attacked by a convoying destroyer. The submersible and the destroyer sank while the transport reached its destination safely. The majority of the crew of the destroyer were saved, and two officers and eleven men of the crew of the submarine were made prisoner.
> On the night of Nov. 1 our destroyers, after crossing boldly and successfully a mine zone and surmounting by their daring solid obstacles defending the Fasana-Pola Canal, managed to enter the customary anchorage of part of the Austrian fleet. Two torpedoes were fired against one large ship and were observed to catch in the vessel's torpedo net.
> For two hours our destroyers reconnoitred within a few hundred yards of the forts and strong citadel of Pola, and only withdrew when they had accomplished difficult and most delicate missions. Numerous powerful searchlights beat the sky and sea, and batteries opened random and futile fire.
> On the night of Nov. 3 several of our destroyers sank a large Austrian steamer anchored at Durazzo under the shelter of defenses and a mine zone. Enemy destroyers came out and were attacked by our ships, which forced their retreat. Our destroyers then returned safely to their base.
> On Nov. 5 three enemy destroyers appeared at dawn before Santa Pidiolmare and began to bombard that part of the coast, although no military works are there. One of our armored trains rushed up, engaged and drove off the enemy. Two destroyers were hit, one was seen with a heavy list being assisted by others. The enemy fire was ineffective, one railroad man being slightly wounded, and small damage done to private property.

A NEW IDEA OF COMFORT

Afforded in Reis Lavender Line Union Suits, Say Robert Reis & Co.

EIGHT EXCLUSIVE NEW FEATURES

Distinctly New Provisions for Comfort and Wear. Sold Everywhere.

Soft collar comfort, that elusive will-o'-the-wisp which convention permits a man to enjoy for only a short period each summer, has found a counterpart and rival. That sense of boundless freedom which the unstarched collar gives to a man has been duplicated and made a day-in-and-day-out reality through the advent of Reis Lavender Line Union Suits, according to the statement of Robert Reis & Co., sponsors for this new idea in union suit construction. It is due, they state, to a scientific elimination of those features in old-style underwear which caused any petty annoyance, and to the introduction of new features and refinements which permit greater freedom of motion, and which the strict standards of high-class tailoring demand. The result, they claim, is a union suit which will give a man a newer and bigger idea of comfort, and which will bring thousands of new recruits to the already vast army of men who have learned to prefer union suits. After a man once wears a Reis Lavender Line Union Suit he can never bring himself to wear any other suit again.

First in importance among the Reis Lavender Line innovations is the special crotch construction. Just as a skillful tailor cuts trousers with extra fulness on the left side of the crotch to insure unhampered comfort, so are Reis Lavender Line Union Suits designed. This insures an exact fit at the very point at which the measurement is taken to determine the customer's size. The result of this is that Lavender Line Union Suits are cut loosely where looseness is needed, and fit snugly where comfort demands it. This feature is of primary importance because a garment without this special crotch construction must necessarily either bind uncomfortably or give an undesirable extra bagginess or fulness. This special Reis Lavender Line feature means a maximum of comfort.

A second comfort feature of Reis Lavender Line Union Suits is the especially designed collar, so constructed as to put an end to the binding at the neck, a common fault in the old style underwear. Thanks to this new design, the collar in Lavender Line Union Suits is cut so generously full and roomy that even after dozens of launderings the top button can always be fastened without pulling, puckering or binding.

SEMI-RAGLAN SHOULDERS.

The shoulder strap, or yoke (which extends all the way across the garment, instead of extending merely from the side of the neck, a common shortcoming), is semi-raglan in design. That is, it is designed to slope in such a way as to give the slim-and-trim military shoulder. This serves two purposes. First it eliminates those superfluous under-the-arm wrinkles; then, due to the fact that it is inserted with the elastic ribs running in the opposite direction from the body of the garment, it allows free "give-and-take" when bending, with absolutely no tug at the shoulder or the neck. This is an innovation which the wearer immediately appreciates.

FIFTH AVENUE TAILORING.

Reis Lavender Line Union Suits have refinements of finish which add to the sightliness and length of life of the garment. From neck to ankle these new style union suits bear the tell-tale earmarks of the highest class tailoring. They are double-seamed throughout with flat, lock-stitch seams which hold together with a bulldog's grip. The buttons are put on to stay with twenty-six strands of silken thread, and after the button is sewed on, the ends of the thread are stoutly tied in a double knot. They defy the maltreatment of laundries.

They are built to meet a standard, not a price, and are constructed to afford the maximum of wear. Lavender Line Union Suits are made in a number of styles and in a broad and inclusive variety of fabrics. No matter what weight or style fabric you prefer, you will find what you desire in the wide range of fabrics in which Lavender Line Union Suits are shown. The price, also, is satisfactory for you will find Reis Lavender Line garments priced at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 and upwards.

FITTED BY EXPERTS.

Proper fit, for many years an underwear bugaboo, has been made a scientific certainty with Lavender Line Union Suits. Through a unique system originated in the Lavender Line mills, your height, breadth, and weight have been reduced to a single unit. As a result of this, any dealer who sells you Reis Lavender Line Union Suits is an expert at fitting them. A single glance at his tape line, and he produces from his shelves a Lavender Line garment which is guaranteed to fit you with made-to-your-measure accuracy, whether you be short or tall, slim or stout. This absolute certainty of fit is another reason why Lavender Line Union Suits are ultra-comfortable.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Reis Lavender Line Union Suits are sold wherever men's wear is sold, and are enthusiastically recommended by a host of dealers whose past experience has taught them the real merit of Lavender Line garments.

If you already wear another style of union suit, let your dealer show you where Reis Lavender Line Union Suits differ from others; let him point out the additional provisions for your comfort which these new style garments offer you. Examine their spring needle knit fabrics—compare their tailoring. Then you can appreciate the fact that in Reis Lavender Line Union Suits you get, dollar for dollar, more real value than in any other underwear.

More Reis Lavender Line Union Suits are sold in Greater New York than any two other brands of union suits at a corresponding price. This is a fitting tribute to their merit, and a powerful endorsement of their real value.

GEORGETOWN BEATS FORDHAM—COLUMBIA IN SCORELESS TIE—N. Y. U. IS VICTOR

GEORGETOWN LAYS FORDHAM MEN LOW

Defeats Local Eleven, 13 to 0, and Takes Catholic College Championship Thereby.

LOSERS FIGHT TO THE END

Show Plenty of Pluck and Hold Southerners Scoreless for First Half, but Weaken at Close.

With the same men in its lineup that defeated Dartmouth two weeks ago, Georgetown came up to Fordham Field yesterday and won the Catholic college championship of the East by a 13 to 0 victory over the lighter Fordham eleven. Although baffled in their ambition to avenge their defeat of last year, the Bronxites put up a sturdy fight, and expert observers rate them as the best aggregation that has sported the Maroon since 1909. It was the first setback for the local men this year.

The Southerners scored their victory before the biggest crowd that ever assembled at Fordham Field. Over 10,000 students, alumni, and rooters of both sexes completely surrounded the field in a cheering mass that gradually grew more solemn as Georgetown went into the lead in the last half.

Fordham played the best game it has shown this season, and for the first half had the visitors completely balked in all their trick plays. Time and again the Blue and Gray runners tried out the Indian tactics of their coach, Exedine, the old Carlisle star, but the local linemen were on the job. Even when the hopes of the Fordhamites were almost blasted, late in the second period, with the ball on their 1-yard line, they held for downs, Dempsey kicking out of danger to midfield.

Treanor, the 150-pound Fordham centre, starred on the line, leaving the game only when he could barely stand. Lowe at tackle and the Maroon ends were also outplaying their rivals, but the Southerners found a hole at left tackle and directed their attentions there all through the last part of the contest.

The Fordham back field did excellent work, Erwig's open field runs, Dempsey's punts, and McNamara's headwork being of a high grade, but the Southerners held the locals safe at the crucial moments. Georgetown's backs, especially Gilroy and McQuade, broke away for many telling gains that eventually spelled victory.

Only one display of real roughness marred the game. Cusack, the big Washington end, was banished to the side lines after punching Braney in the face while chasing a punt. This cost the visitors half the distance to the goal line.

McNamara Runs Ball Back 15 Yards.

Georgetown won the toss and kicked off. The drive was long and high to Fordham's five-yard line, but McNamara came back through a broken field fifteen yards to the fifth chalk mark. The Bronxites then decided to kick when O'Connell lost three yards on a fake kick. With the ball at his seventeen-yard line the Maroon midget full back punted to midfield, and the thousands of Maroon rooters went wild when Braney dropped on the ball after Wall let it bounce off his shoulder.

Fordham then started an advance that surprised even the most hopeful of its adherents. The Bronx ends were completely outplaying their rivals, and with the Blue and Gray flanks completely boxed Erwig shot out for twelve yards off left end. The Bronxites kept up the hammering, and Sweetland made four yards off tackle. On the next play he followed with twelve more.

Exedine's men braced after O'Connell made five yards, and with only twelve yards to go, McNamara tried a forward pass. Maloney was on the job, however, and he intercepted the pigskin, while four of the Bronxites were waiting for it all around him. It was the turning point of the locals' hopes, and marked the downfall of the best chance they had for a score.

Wall, Georgetown's fullback, started to pound the line and on three tries made a first down. Cantwell received the ball for the local men on a fumble, but O'Connell's try for a goal from the 40-yard line went awry, and Georgetown got the ball on the 20-yard line.

At this point the visitors' star, Gilroy, made his first big run, making 25 yards through centre, and on an exchange of punts the Blue and Gray team got the ball on the 48-yard as the period ended.

The best exhibition made by the Fordhamites came in the second period. With the ball at midfield, Gilroy and Wall started another march and got as far as the 21-yard line when McNamara intercepted one of their passes. It was the first time they had tried the aerial route. However, his fumble a second later spoiled a chance to work out of danger and once again the Blue and Gray siege guns got busy.

The Exedine tactics bore fruit in the last half. Georgetown received the kick-off, and on nine plays and an offside penalty on Fordham, Gilroy, McQuade, and Wall advanced from their own 30-yard mark straight across Fordham's line for the first touchdown.

A March Down the Field.

Gilroy started the advance by hitting left tackle for 9 yards, and made it first down on the next play. Wall was then called upon, and hit guard for 5 yards, which was increased to a first down an instant later, the Maroon losing ground by offside plays. Two attacks by Gilroy and McQuade accounted for another 10 yards. After Wall had hit Huggenwig for 15 yards, McQuade tried the other side of the line, going over the line on an 8-yard plunge. Gilroy's try for goal went wide of the mark.

Fordham tried to advance by line bucking, but the Georgetown forwards held, and Dempsey punted. Another advance by the Blue and Gray at this point was spoiled when Sweetland clutched a forward pass from Maloney.

Two first downs were gained on straight line work by Fordham, and an exchange of punts as the third period ended saw Fordham balked in its last near approach to the Georgetown line.

Starting the last quarter Gilroy, with his whole line shielding him on the famous old Carlisle criss-cross, went to midfield in a 20-yard spurt. McQuade added 20 yards off right tackle, Lowe having been swung over to the other side of Fordham's defense, but 15 yards was lost by the rough tactics of Georgetown. Not warned sufficiently by this, Cusack then gave his exhibition of pugilism, and for a moment the Southern team was stopped, losing half the distance to its goal line. Cronin took Cusack's place.

Four first downs went to Fordham on the work of Dempsey and Ewing before the local team had lost the ball at midfield. Gilroy then made fifteen yards and McNamara seventeen, and the ball was brought to the 5-yard mark. With only three minutes to play the Southerners were balked in their direct line charges. Gilroy then dropped back apparently to try for a field goal, but instead he sent a perfect pass to Weyland at the corner of the field for a score. The game ended a minute later.

N. Y. U. UPSETS BUCKNELL.

Violet Conquers Heavier Opponent in Hard Game by 13 to 0.

Fighting gamely to the end the Bucknell football warriors, worn out by their recent game with Princeton, yesterday went down to defeat before the New York University team. The score was 13 to 9, and represented the work of the third period, when the Violets rushed their heaviest opponents off their feet. The first score was the result of a successful forward pass, Mackenzie to Carroll, and the second touchdown was made when Weinheimer ran fifty-five yards after intercepting a forward pass.

In the first half Bucknell was the aggressor, but generally, after a few hard earned gains, an incomplete forward pass forced them to kick or surrender the ball. The Violet, on the other hand, did very little gaining, with the exception of a few runs by Cann and Mackenzie, but aided by the frequent penalties of the Pennsylvanians and the kicking of Ted Cann, the ball was in neutral territory a good part of the time.

Toward the end of the second quarter the visitors threatened the New York goal when Hendren intercepted a forward pass on the Violet's 20-yard line. However, the Blue and Yellow was unable to advance the ball effectively. The end of the half stopped the possibility of a score.

In the second half the New Yorkers were visibly stronger, while the grind began to tell on the Pennsylvanians. They had gone in the game minus the services of four men, who had been hurt in the Princeton game, and during the first half Mangan, the quarter back, was forced off the field with a broken shoulder bone. The team never gave up fighting, and put up a battle which all but prevented New York University from scoring.

New York received the ball in the second half and forged ahead for the first touchdown. From midfield, where Weinheimer, after running 30 yards, was downed after receiving the kickoff, the entire backfield, composed of Mackenzie, Weinheimer, Cann, and Bernstein, helped with short gains on the right side of the line and brought the ball to the 5-yard line. One of these plays was a fake end run by Weinheimer, which netted 15 yards. Then Mackenzie threw a forward pass to Carroll over the line. In preparing to kick the goal from touchdown the ball touched the ground before the kicker was ready and no score resulted. Then Bucknell received the kickoff, and on the second play attempted a forward pass. Weinheimer intercepted it and made a spectacular run up the field of 55 yards for a touchdown. Weinheimer kicked the goal.

Bucknell braced from now on, and, although unable to tally, prevented further N. Y. U. scoring. Forward-passing tactics were used frequently, but in most instances there were unsuccessful.

YALE SCRUBS MALTREATED.

'Varsity, with Regular Backs Out, Makes Three Touchdowns.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—Another day's rest was given Yale's regular back field, Neville, Carey, and Stewart being used in a twenty-minute scrimmage this afternoon. Harry Legore and Jim Braden practiced drop-kicking behind the 'Varsity line. They expect to be in tomorrow's scrimmage lineup.

Rex Hutchinson was again switched from the back field to centre today, and John Callahan went to guard in place of Charley Galt, who has jaundice, and will be out of Saturday's game against Brown. Callahan played poorly at guard and will probably return to centre tomorrow, Hutchinson going to full back; Charlie Taft still limps, and Gates today filled his place at left tackle, Moseley getting Gates's former position at left end. This combination will undoubtedly begin Saturday's game. In place of Baldridge, Larry Fox was in excellent form at right tackle. Baldridge will be handled lightly this week, but expects to start against Brown.

Three touchdowns were scored today, the 'Varsity aiming to develop its whirlwind, straight football drive. The scrubs were unable to check the attack at any time in the afternoon. The feature of the ground-gaining was a fifty-yard quarter back run by Travis Smith. Otherwise the gains averaged between six and eight yards. Smith, Carey, and Neville scored the three touchdowns. The lineup was as follows:

TIGER TACTICS IN STADIUM.

Harvard Scrubs Find Princeton Plays Futile Against 'Varsity.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 7.—Harvard's football drill this afternoon was long drawn out, but the scrimmage against the second team was short. The scrubs, using the Princeton plays, made no great headway, while the regulars scored one touchdown on a run by Case. The scrubs did much better against the substitutes, however, than they did against the 'Varsity, holding the second-string team scoreless, while Bob Guild's boys got a touchdown when Woods of last year's freshmen team completed a forward pass.

The regulars had a very long signal drill, and have been working overtime to get precision in their attack. The 'Varsity line-up was changed a little today, Snow playing at right guard instead of Clark. Snow was slightly hurt last Saturday, but will be all right for substitute work this week.

Murray was again at quarter, and for a time Horween went into the back field with Casey and Thacher, thus making the combination the same as it was for the Cornell game. Horween has been getting back into shape, but it is far from sure that he will start Saturday's game instead of Minot.

PENN BACKS WORK WELL.

Combination Which Upset Lafayette Likely to Face Green.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The Red and Blue eleven lined up against the scrubs in scrimmage this afternoon with the same backfield that shattered the Lafayette defense last Saturday. Jimmy Bryant was at quarter, Williams and Derr at half backs, and Hobey Light at full back.

This combination worked smoothly. They shot plays at the scrub line and always gained. After a drill with the scrubs, the second 'Varsity, with fresh players in their lineup, were opposed to the regulars. They used several Dartmouth formations, which the 'Varsity broke up easily. The line, however, will be slightly changed for the Dartmouth game. Captain Mathews will be back in his old place at tackle, and in all probability Henning and Ertresvag, who started the Pittsburgh game at guard, will be found flanking Lud Wray on Saturday. Little will be the other tackle and Miller and Urquhart will take care of the wings.

Howison Wins Second Block.

Leonard Howison, the Canadian billiardist, defeated Thomas Gallagher of this city last night in the second night's play of the 18.2 balk line tournament which is being conducted at Daly's Billiard Academy by a score of 300 to 138. The high runs were Howison, 54; Gallagher, 25.

COLUMBIA IS HELD TO SCORELESS TIE

Penalty Destroys Best Chance for Blue and White to Score on Game Stevens Lads.

Because three Columbia linemen almost choked a Stevens tackler into submission while Fred Dunn, the right halfback for the Morningside eleven, was running 59 yards for a touchdown, 6,000 persons who had spent two hours of the holiday afternoon yesterday watching the annual gridiron battle between the Morningsiders and the Hoboken engineers had to be disappointed by the scoreless outcome. This was only one of the thrills in the rough and tumble contest, but never again did either fighting machine come so close to a score.

Stevens had pounded and pushed Columbia literally all over South Field for one quarter and a half and during this time the New Yorkers had tried to advance the leather by rushes only twice. The engineers had been mowing Columbia tacklers down seemingly at will and the ball was near midfield. Sammy Webb had been responding to quarterback Musk's orders without a whimper but now he was nearing exhaustion. Columbia had punted on the few occasions she had possession of the ball in order to wear out the powerful attack of Stevens, and this superior strategy was giving evidence of success. The Hobokenites were weakening and Musk held a conference with Acting Captain Marshall and then decided to resort to the open game. He signaled for a forward heave and threw the leather himself, long and high over the players and toward Lofquist.

But Fred Dunn, who was playing halfback instead of end on the Columbia combination for the first game this season, was where Lofquist should have been, and he wound his arms around the prize of an intercepted pass. There was one opponent, Goodale, between him and the goal defended by Stevens. It was a run of nearly sixty yards, and he began to sprint over the chalk lines. Goodale closed in to head him off, but along with Dunn ran three Columbia linemen, husky, dangerous sort of players.

Goodale neared Dunn, and the trio sought to checkmate him. Columbia needed the touchdown for a victory, and Goodale needed to be eliminated from Dunn's path. Three men pounced upon him, and the red sweatered visitor from Jersey was buried for a second beneath the darker clothed New Yorkers. The single obstacle had been overcome, and Dunn sped along for an easy touchdown.

But right here Fred Murphy, the umpire, who had been trailing the race, held up his hand and ordered the ball brought back to where Goodale had been eliminated. Murphy called it holding, designated Buddy Wilber as the chief offender, and penalized Columbia fifteen yards instead of allowing the score. There was never any doubt that Murphy was right.

There were many other times when a score seemed imminent, but something was always lacking. In the first quarter Stevens showed a power equal to that displayed by any other of the stronger elevens who have appeared on South Field this Fall. Columbia seemed never to have a chance against Sammy Webb. In the Stevens campaign following the kickoff, the Red and Gray machine worked from its own 20-yard line to Columbia's 1-yard mark—three feet only from a goal—and with the exception of four rushes all this line plunging was done by Webb. One lone forward pass netted a scanty twenty yards, but the rest of the distance came as the result of straight football. Columbia held on the threshhold of their goal line, won the ball, and punted into midfield.

There was more determination which resulted in rougher play and tackling around the neck as the second half opened with still no score. But just as Stevens had been the aggressor throughout the opening two periods, Columbia was master of the game without a question in the last two quarters.

In the third period Columbia, principally on account of Dunn's dependable performance through the Stevens line, came within five yards of a touchdown. But McCabe called for a forward pass on a third down, and when it crossed the goal line it became a touchback and the ball went to Stevens on her own 20-yard line.

In the fourth period Columbia went as far as Stevens's 2-yard line, but the game was destined to end in a scoreless tie and luck was against the aggressor.

Because of the absence of Howard Miller to score drop kicks Columbia has tried to develop the placement goal as a scoring possibility, and three times this was used in the last half. Dunn essayed once to break the tie and Cochran was called back from right end on two occasions. Both of his boots failed almost by inches.

Stevens lost Webb about the middle of the game and became simultaneously a weaker team. He had been the keystone of all attacking power, but his retirement because of exertion and minor injuries was also accompanied by a departure of Columbia's linemen. Goldberg, playing right tackle at the start, could not withstand Webb's attacks, and Metcalf returned to this position Wilber, the veteran regular. Cleveland also showed signs of wear for the first time this season and Van de Water went in for him. Columbia made eight changes during the battle.

In offense Stevens had all the better of the controversy. Ten first downs were made by rushes, exclusive of those made possible by forward passes or Columbia penalties, and nine forward heaves were tried, one of which was successful. Columbia tried the forward pass six times, but all were incompleted or intercepted. Columbia was penalized for a total of eighty yards and Stevens lost sixty-five yards on misplays.

The line-up:

| Columbia, (0.) | Position. | Stevens, (0.) |
|---|---|---|
| Kennedy | L. E. | Hopkins |
| Healy | L. T. | Ford |
| Donaldson | L. G. | Etzel |
| Brown | C. | Johnson |

CORNELL OUT OF SLUMP.

Dr. Sharpe's 'Varsity Shows Real Scrap Against the Scrubs.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Dr. Sharpe's 'Varsity jumped out of its slump and showed a return to form in a scrappy scrimmage against the scrubs this afternoon. The practice is still being continued behind the closed gates. For the remainder of the week the men will get lots of hard work, but practice will not be carried too far. Every man on the squad is again back in shape for the first time since early season, and the prospects of beating Michigan are the brightest in some time.

The 'Varsity team has spent much time since the Harvard game perfecting the plays it will uncover against the Wolverines this week following the scrimmages in the Stadium. Dr. Sharpe takes his men until well after 6 o'clock every night into the baseball cage, where the players try the formations. The Big Red 'Varsity is steadily rounding into the powerful machine that it was last year before this time and is prepared for a battle against Coach Yost's pupils here Saturday.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONS WIN.

New York Soccer Team Beaten by Bethlehem in Hard Game.

The Bethlehem Football Club, holder of the dual national soccer championship, proved a big drawing card yesterday afternoon at Harlem Oval, where the eleven of the New York Football Club, now leading in the National Football League, was defeated by 3 goals to 2 after a hotly fought contest, the issue of which was not decided until the last minute of play. Most of the scoring occurred in the first period, at the end of which honors were even, with two goals credited to each side. The deadlock continued throughout the entire second half until, just before the whistle blew, Ratican, the former St. Louis star, headed the ball from a corner into New York's net. The lineup:

The soccer team of the Montclair Athletic Club scored by default over Bensonhurst in the Field Club League yesterday, as the Brooklyn men at the last moment were unable to send a team. The Central Y. M. C. A. of Brooklyn took the place of the absentees and suffered defeat by 5 goals to 0.

The West Hudsons defeated the Greenville eleven at soccer by 8 goals to 1 at Clark's Athletic Field in an American Football Association Cup match.

In the only high school championship soccer match played yesterday, Curtis High defeated Evander Childs by 1 goal to 0 at Curtis Field. The Bronx boys held the high school champions to a no-score game until six minutes from the end, when Meyerson, following up a good try by Strachan, placed the ball in the visitors' net and won the game.

Morris High soccer team had a walkover in their game with the team of Yonkers High School at Macomb's Dam Park, the Bronx lads winning by 7 goals to 0.

TIGERS FUMBLE BADLY.

Brilliant Plays Marred by Bungling with the Ball.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—Speedy Rush remained true to his policy of giving the Tigers plenty of work this week and sent his 'Varsity against the scrubs for a long scrimmage. Although the first eleven showed brilliant flashes the work was hardly encouraging, as fumbling appeared again, three such offenses being chalked up against the team.

The first touchdown was made in seven downs. Buzz Law, a former Tiger athlete who is now assisting in the coaching, kicked off to Driggs, who ran the ball back fifteen yards before he was downed. A long pass, Driggs to Wilson, netted the 'Varsity a substantial gain, and then a little brilliant work on the part of the backs soon carried the ball over. Following the first score the fumbling appeared, but the Tigers were able to recover the ball on all three of the occasions and a second touchdown was scored.

Fumbling has marred the work of the Tigers all Fall and is causing no small amount of worry to the Princeton coaches. In practically every game Princeton has shown a marked tendency toward this failing, in spite of all that Rush and his assistants can do.

ARMY KICKERS IMPROVING.

Tackling and Defensive Power Also Please the Coaches.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Army men resumed gridiron work today, a chalk talk on the mistakes of the Notre Dame game being followed by a brief session of real drill. All the 'Varsity men were back in their places. The kicking game shows improvement with each workout. Vladal, Oliphant, and Timberlake are all doing some splendid punting and goal kicking. Holmes was used in Meacham's place at quarter for nearly the whole of today's workout. Gerhardt, who showed signs of being lame and sore, gave way early in the drill to Kilburn, and Murrill was also sent in to pilot the 'Varsity for a short period. The tackling was better today, and the men in the line showed an improved defense, so that the drill was very satisfactory to the coaches.

WESLEYAN GETS A REST.

Coach Kenan Gives Regulars a Day Off Since Next Game Is on Nov. 18.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 7.—Owing to the fact that Columbia is Wesleyan's next opponent, on Nov. 18, Coach Kenan ordered a rest for all the regular men on the football squad here. The game with Williams on Saturday last left none of the men with serious injuries with the possible exception of Johnson, the 'Varsity centre, who wrenched his shoulder during the final period. Nothing has noticeably developed and he is expected to report with the team tomorrow. Only some of the men who did not get into the game on Saturday were in uniform yesterday and today.

LEHIGH REMEDIES FAULTS.

Coach Keady Also Drills 'Varsity in New Plays for Penn State.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., Nov. 7.—Although the practice was light, Lehigh's men knew that they were receiving a full share of work from Coach Keady before this afternoon's drill was over. The moon was coming up over Old South Mountain when the men were sent to the field house. Part of the time today was devoted to remedying the faults that cropped out in Saturday's game, and then the new plays for Penn State were thoroughly rehearsed. The work of rebuilding the Brown and White team is being forced hard.

Otis Beats Ellis at Billiards.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—Charles Otis won his game here tonight in the Interstate Three-Cushion League, defeating Charles Ellis, former world's champion, by the score of 50 to 44. The game was very fast, taking only fifty-eight innings. The high runs were 5 for each man.

Moore Still Ahead of Heal.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 7.—George Moore of New York remained in the lead tonight after the second block in the championship three-cushion billiard play with Hugh Heal of Toledo, by the score of 100 to 93. The score of tonight's block was Moore 50, Heal 52.

MORRIS HIGH BEATS COMMERCE ELEVEN

Gains 20 to 0 Victory and Poly Prep Defeats Brooklyn Prep —Other School Games.

Making its initial appearance of the season on a local gridiron, the Morris High School football team yesterday started its fight for the Manhattan scholastic championship by walking over the High School of Commerce to an easy 20 to 0 triumph at the Polo Grounds. The Morris boys did not exhibit a real championship brand of football, but they had no trouble tearing the weak Commerce line to shreds at nearly every stage of the game.

The ball had only been kicked off in the opening period when Ingrasia grabbed it on his own 25-yard line and carried it forty yards before he was downed. Lembeck made ten yards around left end, and then another end run by Lembeck netted ten more. A number of short plunges brought the ball to the Commerce three yard line, and fullback Fogarty was shot through an opening in centre for the first touchdown. He kicked the goal himself.

The second Morris touchdown came early in the third period, when, on a double pass, Cooper fumbled for Commerce and Walsh, the Morris left half back, scooped up the ball and ran 30 yards around left end for the touchdown. Fogarty again kicked the goal. Lembeck made the final touchdown for Morris in the same quarter on a 30-yard run through left tackle.

Poly Prep virtually won the Brooklyn scholastic football championship when it defeated the Brooklyn Prep eleven at Washington Park, Brooklyn, yesterday, by a score of 6 to 0. The winning touchdown was recorded by Dutch Maloney, the speedy Poly quarterback, who smashed his way over the line in the last two minutes of the opening quarter. Brooklyn Prep attempted to turn the tide with a forward pass attack in the closing minutes of the contest, but the final whistle ended their rally with the ball on the Poly 13-yard line.

In the double-header at Ebbets Field Manual won from Erasmus Hall 13 to 0, and Boys' High defeated Commercial 19 to 0. Following are the line-ups and summaries of important scholastic games here yesterday:

NEW PLAYS FOR MICHIGAN.

Yost Carefully Guards the Tactics Wolverines Will Use.

Special to The New York Times.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7.—Absolute secrecy was the rule in today's practice for the Michigan football team, and Head Coach Yost would say nothing as to what went on behind the closed gates of Ferry Field. The Wolverine coaches are taking no chances of news concerning their new plays getting to Cornell and Pennsylvania, and none but the players themselves is allowed inside the gates.

Dunn and Raymond have been coming fast in their punting duels this week, according to unofficial information which leaked out today. The former boosted his average during practice close up to the 55-yard mark. Yost is still uncertain as to the line-up he will send against Cornell, although he hopes to start both Sparks and Sharpe behind the line.

EASY WORK FOR COLGATE.

'Varsity Men Have Light Drill in First Practice Since Yale Game.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Colgate 'Varsity was put through the first signal practice since the Yale game here this afternoon. Not much opposition is expected from Rochester Saturday, but the coaches ordered all men, with the exception of the back field, out for a short limbering-up drill. Spencer, Hubbell, and Gillo, who bore the brunt of the offense in the Yale game, were allowed another day of rest. Gillo, full back, still carries the limp which was apparent at New Haven Saturday. The experiment tried out at New Haven of numbering the players proved entirely satisfactory to the football authorities.

Lehigh's New Stadium.

The new Taylor Stadium at Lehigh University, which has been completed through the generosity of Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, will be used for the first time on Saturday, when Lehigh will play its annual football game against Penn State eleven. The regraded, resodded gridiron is said to be one of the finest in the country.

EXPECTATION WINS 'CHASE AT PIMLICO

Wood's Jumper Outfoots Fine Field in the Rich Manly Memorial Event.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—Expectation, the fine jumper belonging to L. Wood, the Philadelphia horseman, won the Manly Memorial Steeplechase, which was the chief attraction of the Election Day card at Pimlico track this afternoon. It was the richest jumping race of the meeting, as the Maryland Jockey Club had added $5,000. The distance was two and a half miles, for four-year-olds and upward.

Expectation defeated one of the finest fields of jumpers which has been brought together this season, including Weldship, Shannon River, Pebeto, Sun King, and Vifir. Belle of Bryn Mawr and Falmouth came in second and third respectively. W. J. Oliver's Kewessa easily accounted for the Govans Handicap, a six-furlong dash for three-year-olds and upward. The son of McGee beat Marse Henry and Startling, both fast sprinters, which came along in the order named.

In the shoot-off Long won second prize, Hyde third and Collins fourth. Lorenze B. ## OAK NANA WINS AGAIN.

Declared Best Dog in Show of the Joint Bulldog Club.

Champion Oak Nana, the property of the Rockcliffe Kennels, carried off the honors at the Joint Bulldog Club's annual specialty show, which was held yesterday in Bryant Hall. Oak Nana was declared the best dog in the show, repeating her victory of a year ago.

In winning the title for the second time in succession, Oak Nana defeated Mrs. C. N. Platt's Astoria Baron, to whom the judge awarded the blue for the best male in the show.

Mrs. B. F. Parsons, Jr.'s, Live Wire received the blue in the class for American-bred dogs and also took first honors in the limit and open divisions for dogs under forty-five pounds. Astoria Baron was first in the class for dogs, forty-five pounds and over, and then went right through the heavyweights. The reserve went to J. E. Horrax's champion Toll Bar Jack.

Champion Oak Nana was put down in splendid condition, and this was one of the points in her favor, when it came to judging the best dog. The champion is more than forty pounds, and is probably one of the finest of her breed to be benched in many seasons. The reserve in bitches went to Wex Jones's Verity Verax, which was declared the best of all breeds at the recent Plainfield show.

WU TING-FANG MADE FOREIGN MINISTER

China's Parliament Practically a Unit in Confirming His Selection.

WAS LONG MINISTER HERE

Is a Pronounced Liberal and Was in Sympathy with the Revolutionary Party.

PEKING, Nov. 7.—Wu Ting-Fang has been appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs. His appointment was approved today by the virtually unanimous vote of Parliament.

Wu Ting-Fang was Chinese Minister at Washington for several years. Two previous selections of Premier Tuan Chi-jui for the foreign portfolio were rejected by Parliament because of the monarchical leanings of the men designated.

Under the guidance of Wu Ting-Fang the Chinese Foreign Office will be conducted by a man who has perhaps a greater degree of familiarity with American afairs than any other Chinese statesman. During his two terms of service as Chinese Minister at Washington he gained a national reputation for his picturesque personality and his wit. He was regarded at Washington as an exceptionally capable diplomat and a friend of the United States. During the Boxer uprising of 1900 he succeeded in getting through a message to the American Minister, Mr. Conger, who with his colleagues was in the compound in Peking, whose fate was a matter of concern to the State Department. His sympathies were manifestly with the United States during the troubles, and this led to his recall. In 1907 he was again appointed Minister at Washington, and was recalled in 1909.

Wu Ting-Fang is a pronounced liberal, and was in sympathy with the revolution which led to the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty, sharing in the work of forming a republican Government. After President Yuan Shi-kai announced his intention of becoming Emperor of China and the revolution started in South China, Wu Ting-Fang advised the President, a few weeks before his death last Summer, to retire from office.

As Foreign Minister Wu Ting-Fang's most important work probably will be in connection with the difficult questions of relations with Japan. He has been a sympathizer of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the southern revolutionary leader, and during the administration of Yuan Shi-kai did not take a prominent part in public affairs so that little is known in this country in regard to his attitude toward the differences between China and Japan.

BRITAIN INCREASES EXPORTS

Customs Report Shows She Is Sending Us More Cotton Goods.

Mobilization of the British textile industries, effected to regain trade lost temporarily as a result of the war and to gain new markets among those formerly held by Germany, is being reflected at New York in increasing importations of cotton goods, especially as shown in the latest import report issued by the Custom House covering the week ended Oct. 28.

The report showed, for example, that cotton cloth dyed in the piece had been received from England in the week to the value of $78,892, with smaller amounts from Scotland and Ireland. Other cloths received in liberal quantities from the United Kingdom were classified under the headings of unbleached, bleached, printed, and "other colored cloth," besides cotton handkerchiefs, embroideries, laces, nets and netting, curtains, cotton plushes, velvets, and yarns, and "other manufactures of cotton," all with a value of several hundred thousand dollars.

The improved position of Great Britain as an exporter of cotton goods to this country is shown in the Government statistics for the eight months of the present calendar year ended with August. In that period total imports of cotton cloth amounted to $7,546,427, of which the United Kingdom sent $6,530,279 worth. The gain made by the United Kingdom over the corresponding eight months of 1915 was considerably more than $3,000,000 and nearly $2,000,000 in excess of the same period in 1914.

According to the Custom House report, the week's imports of merchandise of all kinds reached $21,826,118. Goods withdrawn from bonded warehouses in this Customs district had a value of $4,770,861, while merchandise entered for the warehouses amounted to $2,450,182.

ALL THE THEATRES FILLED.

Election Night Audiences Pay Advanced Prices—Disorder at Garrick.

Mingled joy and sorrow was the lot of the theatre managers last night—joy because their playhouses were filled with the largest audiences of the season and sorrow because most of them had bet on Wilson.

"This means a lot to me," said John L. Golden to George C. Tyler, as a capacity audience poured into the Hudson to see "Pollyanna," the latter's attraction.

"Give a special matinée of 'Turn to the Right' and you'll get it all back," suggested Mr. Tyler to the half owner of that theatrical party.

The majority of current attractions gave special matinées, which were fairly well attended, the fine weather preventing the attendance from being larger. The same weather had the opposite effect on the night performances and there was not a vacant seat in any theatre along all Broadway's brilliant stretch. Poor plays that had never been given to full houses before "stood 'em up," and, besides, they charged advanced prices. In nearly every theatre $2.50 was charged for $2 seats, while some even got $3 apiece for orchestra seats. Only the cut-rate ticket men were inconsolable.

The traffic regulations, enforced to prevent the passage of large crowds in Broadway and Seventh Avenue, where the excavating for the new subway is in progress, caused considerable confusion when the audiences were bound theatreward. Lines of policemen were stretched across the sidewalks at the ends of each restricted block, and only those who asserted they were going to a playhouse within the block were allowed to pass. This kept the number of pedestrians in these stretches at a minimum, and at the same time increased the crowds to even greater proportions in the unrestricted stretches.

Patrons of the Globe Theatre had to make their way through a great crush gathered in Longacre Square to watch bulletins thrown by THE TIMES on a large screen in the square. The signals of light flashed from The Times building told of the trend of the vote while the audiences were going to the playhouses, but this did not prevent a rush to the lobbies between acts for the latest news.

At the Hippodrome the doors were opened at 7 o'clock, and from then until the show began returns were read from the stage. Horns and rattles answered the reading. Raymond Hitchcock stroked imaginary whiskers at the end of his curtain speech between the acts of "Betty" at the Globe, and informed the audience he would try to make them a good President. Returns were announced to the Century audience by Sam Bernard. The Columbia, Palace, Colonial, Alhambra, and other vaudeville and burlesque theatres kept their audiences informed on the progress of the count, and in addition to the regular performances, begun earlier, gave special performances that started at 11:30 o'clock and ran till 2:30 this morning. These performances were well attended in spite of the fact that it was all over but the shouting.

The Garrick was a scene of disturbance caused by dissatisfied members of an audience gathered there for a special concert that had been advertised by the management of the Théâtre Français. A program of vaudeville acts was given by French and English entertainers. One actor, apparently of German extraction, used a German accent which called forth catcalls from some of the auditors, many of whom were French. He finished his number without any more serious trouble. Some of the audience who did not understand French and who had been attracted within under a misapprehension as to the nature of the entertainment, demanded their money back when they reached the lobby. They were rather vociferous with their demands, and called upon a policeman to help them, but he assured them he had no authority.

Maude's Son-in-Law Was Decorated

Cyril Maude, the English actor appearing in "The Basker" at the Empire, received word yesterday from England that his son-in-law, Major William La Touche Congreve, who was killed in action in Northern France last Summer, had just been decorated with the Victoria Cross. Mr. Maude's younger daughter, Miss Pamela, and Major Congreve were married last June in London, and a month later the bridegroom was killed. He had received the D. S. O. and several other decorations before his death.

Georgina Diaz, Spanish Dancer, Here

Georgina Diaz arrived yesterday from Seville on the Spanish liner Montevideo to give exhibitions of Spanish dancing. She will dance the Jota, Bolero, Flameco, and other old-fashioned national Spanish dances in addition to those of the modern school at Seville and Madrid.

Carmen Alfonso, a Spanish lyric soprano, arrived on the liner to join a Spanish light opera company which is being formed in New York to tour South and Central America.

Anna Held Appears in "Follow Me."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Anna Held returned to the musical comedy stage last night at the Majestic Theatre in a musical comedy called "Follow Me." The piece is an adaptation of a German operetta by Felix Dorman and Leo Ascher. In Miss Held's support are Roy Atwell, Will P. Carlton, Letty Yorke, and Georgie Drew Mendum. "Follow Me" will be presented in New York Thanksgiving week.

MME. MIURA AS BUTTERFLY.

Japanese Soprano in Puccini's Opera with Boston Company.

The Boston-National Opera Company at its second performance last night at the Lexington Theatre performed Puccini's "Madama Butterfly." Tamaki Miura, the Japanese soprano of the company, sang the title rôle, as she did last season. Riccardo Martin sang Pinkerton, and Thomas Chalmers was the consul, Sharpless. The other artists included Mme. Leveroni and Messrs. Ananian and Boscacci, and Fulgenzio Guerrieri made his first appearance here as a conductor.

The principal interest of the performance naturally centred in Mme. Miura. Both vocally and histrionically she has built up the rôle from what she made it last season, and there is considerable charm in her work from the viewpoints of daintiness and picturesqueness. While some of her tones are still harsh and colorless, they are much less so than formerly. There were many times, especially in the second act, when she was entirely convincing and captivating.

Mr. Martin's singing of Pinkerton is familiar from the days when he sang it at the Metropolitan Opera House, and there is no essential change in it. Thomas Chalmers was a great element of strength in the cast as Sharpless, and Mr. Guerrieri, the conductor, was very satisfactory. The scenic settings were imaginative and effective.

HOBEY BAKER MOVES AWAY.

Goes to Philadelphia and Will Not Be Seen in Hockey Here.

Hockey enthusiasts will miss the playing of Hobey Baker at the St. Nicholas Rink this season, as the former Princeton star now resides in Philadelphia and will not be in the St. Nick line up. Baker has recently turned down an offer to become a professional from the management of Les Canadiens of Montreal.

Manager Kennedy of that team offered Baker a salary of $2,000 for the short hockey season, but the former college star refused to consider the offer. When the Canadian professionals played here last season they marveled at Baker's speed and agility on the ice. They classed him as being equal to the best of the Canadian players.

The Montreal manager considers that Baker would be a great attraction in Canada, as he is the first American player who has ever been sought by the Canadian teams, while many of the star players now in the game here received their hockey training in Canada. Baker is giving all his spare time now to aviation, and only recently qualified as a Government flier.

BUDA GODMAN SURRENDERS.

Woman Involved in West Blackmailing Case to be in Court Today.

Buda Godman, said to have been the leading woman member of the gang of blackmailers who have been operating throughout the United States, surrendered yesterday. She came around to the Criminal Branch of the Federal District Court, saying she was ready to confess to a charge of conspiracy. James Christian, another member of the gang, was also ready to admit his guilt.

There being no session of the court, Clerk William Leary, by order of Judge Thomas, continued the bail which they gave in Chicago, where they were arrested. Miss Godman and Christian went away together, with the understanding that they must appear in court this morning.

Both Miss Godman and Christian are charged with having taken part in the blackmailing of Edward R. West, Vice-President of the C. D. Gregg Tea and Coffee Company, out of $15,000. Miss Godman, posing as Buda Williams, a convent-bred girl, induced West to come here with her from Chicago. While they were together in a room in the Hotel Ansonia her confederates burst in and, under threats of prosecuting West for violating the Mann act, wrung the money from him.

One of the blackmailers was Homer T. French, who pleaded guilty about two weeks ago and was sentenced to prison for eighteen months.

THE MARGULIES TRIO.

An Admirable Chamber Music Organization in Its 13th Season.

The Margulies Trio entered last evening upon its thirteenth season in the field it has cultivated so successfully and that it has made so peculiarly its own. Composers since the classical period, great and small, have put some of the finest and most delightful works into the form of the trio for pianoforte and strings, and the sonata for pianoforte and violin, or violoncello; and it is to these that Miss Margulies and her associates have so assiduously devoted themselves. The results have been some of the most artistic chamber concerts that are offered to this public.

The organization consists now of Miss Margulies, piano; Mr. Lichtenberg, violin, and Mr. Schroeder, 'cello, as it did last season. Their playing last night was beautiful in the finesse, spirit, and individuality of three admirable artists merged, and, so far as need be, subordinated, in a subtly proportioned and finely finished ensemble. The quality of the strings was beautiful, more beautiful than it has been at some of the Margulies Trio concerts.

They played Beethoven's trio in D, Op. 70, No. 1, with a wholly sympathetic and discerning reproduction of the spirit of the music. Mr. Lichtenberg and Miss Margulies were heard in Grieg's C minor sonata for violin and pianoforte in a manner that greatly pleased the audience. The program ended with Arthur Foote's second trio, Op. 65, in B flat, music of much spirit, spontaneous, showing a genuine invention and accomplished skill in fabrication. It is, indeed, as Mr. Foote avows was his intention to make it, frankly melodious, and its melodies have individuality and character. The trio, though it may be neither great nor profound, is one to do honor to American musicianship. The three players gave it an admirable performance.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first matinee performance of "The Century Girl" will be given on Saturday. A matinee had been announced for today, but the necessity of trimming the performance made its cancellation seem advisable. After this week there will be regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Michio Itow, for a number of years associated with the Imperial Theatre in Tokio, is helping the Washington Square Players stage "Bushido," a classical Japanese playlet that will be a feature of their new bill next Monday. Mr. Itow arrived in this country recently from Europe, where he spent much time studying new methods in the theatre.

Edgar Becman will play the role of the Duke in Lavedan's "Catherine," with which the Theatre Francaise will begin its new season on Saturday night at the Garrick.

Owen Davis's new play, "Mile-a-Minute Kendall," was acted for the first time on Monday night at Stamford. The play will be presented here late this month.

Sophye Barnard, who sang the prima donna role in "The Red Widow" when Raymond Hitchcock first appeared in that musical comedy, has been added to the cast of the Hippodrome show. A record of 21,000 seats sold during the day was hung up at the Hip yesterday.

Charles Urban's motion pictures of Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe's Grand Fleet will be shown as a feature of the Rialto program next week. At the Strand "The Plow Girl," featuring Mae Murray, will be the photoplay offering.

The Woman's Auxiliary Board of the Polyclinic Hospital will hold its annual theatre party on Monday night, Nov. 20, when its members will see the performance of "Turn to the Right" at the Gaiety. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Ernest E. Malcolm of 2,030 Broadway.

If you owned a ball team, you wouldn't carry a pay-roll of second-raters. You'd want Johnsons, Herzogs, Cobbs. Translate that idea into motor trucking and you'll buy Packards.

THE ELECTION IN DOUBT.

The decision taken by the electorate in yesterday's voting is unexpectedly close.

After various shifts in the returns, which at first strongly indicated the election of Mr. HUGHES, the decision at this writing, 5 A. M., apparently depends upon the vote of California and New Mexico, still undecided. One or two other States are also close, but there is a good prospect that the victory may be President WILSON'S.

THE GOVERNOR AND THE SENATOR-ELECT.

After the quick interment of his own Presidential boomlet, Governor WHITMAN hitched himself firmly to the Hughes boom. This was prudent politics, and the Governor's prudence has been rewarded. The high tide of reaction inevitably swept him in. His Democratic opponent, Mr. SAMUEL SEABURY, was scarcely a candidate to unify his party. A man of marked and various ability, the impression of his 'prentice days in radicalism and the somewhat eclectic character of his political philosophy invited question or hostility among conservatives, nor was he fortunate in all the methods of his campaign. He did, however, present one vital issue which, in happier political circumstances, should have stirred the thoughtful voters of the State.

He exposed the disorder of the State financial system, extravagance, waste, log-rolling, coupled with loose administration, political favoritism, the too long tolerated practice of making the complex and costly business of the State a mere annex of partisanship. Mr. SEABURY would have reformed all that. The reform must be had. Governor WHITMAN had a worthy intention and plan of budget reform. He did not insist on it. He did not fight extravagance resolutely. He let the politicians have their way. In his second term, will he not revive, with greater persistency and courage, his projects of reform? He has a fine opportunity. He can make his second administration a notable advance on his first. The temptation to yield to political considerations will be less. Why should he not have an honorable ambition to correct and repair the weaknesses of his first term and illustrate his second by constructive labor for economy, administrative coordination and reform? His re-election is not to be taken as a mandate of popular approval. It is rather an incident in a widespread upheaval.

It is only just to say that the Stivers law and the legislation for the physical training of children and the military training of youth of high school age were sound acts, which the Governor can be proud of and which Mr. SEABURY pleased only pacifists by attacking.

The Hon. WILLIAM M. CALDER, the Republican Senator-elect, is a fortunate as well as an amiable man. Whatever his merits and his popularity, it was not on account of superior ability that he was selected instead of Mr. ROBERT BACON in the Republican primary or elected yesterday over Mr. WILLIAM F. MCCOMBS. Evidently this is the year of golden mediocrity. However, Mr. CALDER has had a ten years' training in the House of Representatives, and THE TIMES hopes that the interests of the State, as well as of the nation, will be attended to by him faithfully and diligently, and the Senate has long ceased to be an arena of the gladiators of intellect.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Whatever slight changes in the composition of the State Legislature may be shown in the later revised returns, it will remain largely Republican, with a majority of about two-thirds in each House. In this city most of last year's members of the Assembly have been re-elected, and there will be few changes in the Senatorial delegation from this part of the State.

The single Progressive vote in the Assembly last year will be eliminated, Mr. HAMILTON FISH of Putnam giving place to a Republican. It is likely that the Socialist member, Mr. SHIPLACOFF of the Twenty-third District of Kings, will not return to Albany next Winter. But these changes are unimportant, as they will not affect the political control of the Legislature.

THE ILLINOIS WOMEN VOTERS.

The theory of the woman suffragists that, when accorded the right to vote, the women will vote independently of the men and cast their ballots according to their own convictions is not borne out by the returns from Illinois, where the votes of the women are counted separately. The women of that State voted squarely with the men on the main issue. Their voting nearly doubled the cost of the election and greatly increased the labors of the poll clerks, but the only way it affected the result was to make the Republican majority of Illinois larger than it would have been. Without the votes of the Republican women, who were Republican because of their environment and family influences and traditions, Mr. HUGHES would have carried Illinois by more than 50,000 majority. Yet there was no actual reason why the women of Illinois should have come out so strongly for HUGHES against WILSON. Both candidates avowedly favor the general extension of the ballot to women.

There is certainly no valid argument for the extension of suffrage in this result. Where 1,300 votes were cast by Illinois men for HUGHES 1,000 votes were cast for him by women, and that is about the proportion of women to men among the voters. Where there were 2,100 male votes for HUGHES there were 1,700 votes cast for him by women. The lesson of Illinois is, therefore, that woman suffrage tends to increase the number of voters without measurably affecting the result of the voting. How does that benefit the State or tend to elevate politics?

MR. CURRAN DEFEATED.

Mr. FRANK DOWLING will be President of the Board of Aldermen another year, his opponent, Mr. HENRY H. CURRAN, whose fitness for the position is not to be questioned, having been defeated by a substantial majority. Tammany will derive much satisfaction from this victory, and the citizens who hoped that enough voters would be practically interested in the cause of good municipal government to assure Mr. CURRAN'S election will be correspondingly dejected. But the defeat will not materially affect Mr. CURRAN, who will continue to exert his good influence in the Board of Aldermen and will retain the respect and admiration of all who believe that the business of the city should be conducted in a business-like way without regard to party politics.

Nor will the retention of Mr. DOWLING in the Board of Estimate in any way impair the usefulness of that body in the coming year. The election of Mr. CURRAN was desirable as an earnest of the public intention to continue a nonpartisan administration of city affairs. His defeat will be regarded as a good omen by Tammany, which hopes to regain control of all the city offices. The people will have an opportunity to decide next November whether Tammany's hope is to be realized.

STEEL TRADE HEREAFTER.

Those who seek information as to industrial conditions here in the future may find significant facts in current reports of the great steel industry which show dates of delivery on large new orders. It has been well known that foreign orders placed several months ago involved deliveries during the first half of 1917, but now we learn of new contracts for shipment in the second half of that year, and even in 1918. While 100,000 tons of steel were recently ordered for delivery in the second half of next year, there is said to be an expectation that the quantity will be increased to 800,000 tons.

In addition there are inquiries for 150,000 tons of plates to be used in building ships here and abroad, with agreements for the delivery of the bulk of this material in 1918. Japan is looking for 60,000 tons, and some of our own shipbuilders have orders that will keep them busy for two years to come. At the same time there is a notable increase of domestic orders. In October the railroad companies called for nearly 21,000 cars, but in one week now the number ordered is 15,968. A still larger demand from both domestic and foreign sources in the remainder of this month and in December is foreseen.

Our steel mills have been at work to the limit of their capacity, using the increased output of mines and furnaces. The terms and the size of recent orders show that the current rate of production will surely be maintained for more than a year to come. If the war should end within the next twelve months, there would be orders for steel raw material to be used in rebuilding.

EAST AND WEST.

How little they know of the United States who only know the East! Also, how little they know of the United States who know only the West! For example, The Houston Post remarks:

> Texas has produced this year more intrinsic wealth than the State of New York in any ten years of its history, and Oklahoma has contributed to the actual needs of humanity in 1916 more than the Empire State in any five years.

In Texas and Oklahoma they seem to think that New York produces only stocks and bonds in which only Wall Street deals, and makes its ill-gotten gains out of the losses of all outside Wall Street. Leaving Wall Street and its paper values out of the computation, it may be mentioned that the increase of the resources of New York State national banks, according to the last statement, was $2,646,000,000. Five times that makes thirteen billions, which The Post thinks is less than Oklahoma contributed to the actual needs of humanity this year.

Texas is another matter, and a different standard is necessary. Setting aside both Wall Street and the banks, because of the sometimes fictitious values of securities and credit, and taking manufactures as something more closely related to human nature's daily needs, it appears that the values produced in this city alone in 1914 reached $2,292,882,000. If the comparison is on the basis of New York State's production of manufactures for ten years, it appears that Texas produced this year something like thirty-eight billions of wealth. If The Post doubts these figures, its quarrel is with the census, not with us. If The Post stands on its own figures, it seems that it ought to explain the calamity cry which is louder from Texas than from bleeding Kansas these later years.

It is Texas which thinks that the Treasury ought to valorize its cotton and find cheap money for its farmers and build warehouses to enable them to hold their crops at a time of twenty-cent cotton, dollar corn, and two-dollar wheat. We make no boasts for New York, and are glad that Texas thinks itself so much richer and so much more the benefactor of humanity.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Trade Customs Beyond Investigation. Should the Federal and local investigators succeed in proving the truth of their suspicions about the recent advance in coal prices it would be unfortunate for those convicted of conspiracy, but as affection for "coal barons" is confined, practically, to the baronial circle, there would be no public lamentation.

The cries of lamentation would come from a far wider area if the investigators could "do something" about the "trade custom" in many if not all commercial lines of making any rise in wholesale prices an excuse for raising retail prices anywhere from five to twenty times as much. In that, apparently, no element of conspiracy is involved. It would be superfluous, every retailer taking it for granted that his competitors have the multiplicative habit as strongly as himself. This confidence is not often betrayed, but the unanimity of action that follows is, as it were, automatic, and therefore innocent in the eyes of the law.

Closely related is another habit of retailers—that of raising all prices because a real scarcity does increase the cost of certain commodities. That, too, hits the consumer hard in both pocket and temper, and though he bears it, as he does so many other things, with a semblance of resignation, the bearing is not ornamented with many grins.

An Opposing of Two Credibilities. Those of us who have no present means of ascertaining the exact truth in what the Germans are calling "the second Baralong case" can yet apply to it certain tests, and from the results attain, if not final and definite conclusions, at least some probabilities so high that they will serve much the same purpose. The first of these tests is to ask whether or not many like charges have been made in the past against the defendants—in this instance the men of the British Navy.

The obvious answer is that even the Germans, with all their hatred of the British, call this the second case of similar inhumanity in a war that has already lasted for over two years, and in a war, too, that has been marked by scores and scores of acts on the part of German crews of submarines and Zeppelins well calculated to explain, if not to justify, retaliation in kind. In the circumstances two "cases," even if proved, would be what the doctors call "sporadic"—indicative not of an emotional epidemic, nation-wide, but the idiosyncrasy of one or a few men.

The Belgian "atrocities" are of a wholly different degree of credibility. They are great in number and are confirmed by literally a cloud of witnesses. In "the second Baralong case" there are only two to testify, and their testimony is enormously weakened by the fact that they are still alive—that they were rescued—though nothing would have been simpler or safer than to allow them to drown, if that had been the ordered or agreed policy of the men who sank the submarine with the rest of its crew.

The complaint that the undersea boat was beguiled to destruction by the flying on her enemy of a neutral flag—that is, of course, absurd, as that form of deception is a stratagem of long-established legitimacy, and its presentation as a grievance would be possible only for a people that recognizes the law of military necessity as valid for itself alone. The British account of this incident agrees substantially in everything except deductions with that of the two German survivors. Both accounts, therefore, are presumably true. That the deductions vary widely is a familiar phenomenon, in no need of interpretation.

His Tenure of Office Was Short. When one remembers how recently the letters and dispatches from Germany were filled with confident predictions that, as President of the Food Regulation Board, ADOLPH VON BATOCKI would solve the problem of giving every German enough to eat, the announcement that another man has been put in his place indicates that even in the home land of efficiency mistakes are sometimes made.

VON BATOCKI, we were told again and again, was just the man for the position. His record and reputation were such that everybody knew that when he undertook this task it was as good as performed, and he himself gave out not a few interviews in which, without undue modesty, he explained his plans for making futile England's desperately wicked desire to starve Germany into submission. He admitted that it wouldn't be an easy job, but he evidently had no more doubt as to the adequacy of his powers than had the infallible and inspired ruler who from the whole German population had selected him for this important post.

But, if the report of his deposition is true, the wonderful VON BATOCKI promptly proved to be a failure—a failure so nearly complete that it has not been deemed necessary to use the familiar euphemism and say that ill-health compelled his deeply regretted retirement. Instead, it is announced that he has been demoted to a minor place in the board of which he was the all-powerful head—and that he is expected to resign rather than suffer such a humiliation!

His successor is one General GROENER, and there is interest in the fact that this name is complicated by no honorific. A plain soldier he, apparently, and there is not even a hint as yet that for being Germany's provider and distributer of food General GROENER has other training than in the simple military art of taking what one wants wherever one can find it, and doing with it whatever one pleases.

The English will observe this change with attentive eyes. It may be taken by them as hinting that their blockade has not been quite the vain thing so many and such high German authorities have declared it to be—that they are the objects of bitterest Teutonic rage, not merely because of evil intent, as has been stated, but because they have shown a certain amount of efficiency themselves in carrying out their dreadful purpose. And it always has been more than a little mysterious why Germany was so wrathful over a blockade that didn't block.

SUFFRAGE A STATE RIGHT.

E. P. Wheeler Says Constitutional Amendment Would Be Unjust.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The active campaign that the Republicans are waging in support of a protective tariff draws special attention to the importance of the Congressional elections. Whatever independent Democrats may think of Mr. Wilson's executive policy, we adhere to the principles of the party on the subject of the tariff. It is especially important that the Democratic candidates for Congress should have the full support of their party. William F. McCombs, for the United States Senate from New York, is a man of high character and ability, and should receive the active support of all Democrats.

In the Seventeenth Congressional District in New York City another issue has been raised by the two candidates, which deserves careful consideration from every resident. The Republican candidate, Lindell T. Bates, comes out in his platform favoring the submission by Congress to the States of the Constitutional amendment granting suffrage to women. John F. Carew, the present member, voted against the suffrage amendment in the present Congress, and if elected, is pledged to vote against it in the next.

Whatever one may think on the question of political suffrage for women, it is obviously unjust and opposed to every Democratic principle that a minority of States, from a point of population, should impose their will upon the majority simply because the latter live in a few States and the minority reside in States which, when the vote is taken by States, would have the majority on that vote. There is, perhaps, no subject on which it is more fitting that the voters of each State should decide than that of the suffrage. This has been regulated by each State according to its judgment as to what was best for the people ever since the founding of the Government. The only exception is the amendment giving the suffrage to the negroes. It is now agreed by both whites and blacks that this was a great mistake and that it would have been far better to leave the regulation of this subject to each Southern State.

Mr. Carew has been a very useful member, and is entitled to the support of his constituents.

Babylonian Relics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an Assyriologist, I am astonished to observe the importance attached by your reporter to the "discovery" by Dr. Langdon among the collections of the University of Pennsylvania's Museum at Philadelphia of an order for flour in ancient Babylonia. These orders and contracts for every conceivable kind of article are the commonest literary remains known today to all who are interested in the ancient civilization of the Euphrates Valley. We have scores of them at Columbia University, and they are to be found in every collection of Babylonian tablets. For example, I have just opened upon a similar order for wheat flour, published by Dr. Nesbit in his Drehem Tablets, dating from quite as ancient a period as the tablet described by Dr. Langdon.

Furthermore, the "textbook tablet" mentioned in your statement and described as having been used by Babylonian school children is almost as common an article as the order. Dr. Scheil in his "Excavations at Sippar" has already published a large collection of these bethumbed survivals of an extinct education, and Professor Hilprecht, the founder of the University of Pennsylvania's collections, himself published a multiplication table which probably belongs to the same set as the one exploited by Dr. Langdon.

Ford Cars at the Front.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I do not know how far other statements made by Mr. McAdoo may be correct or incorrect, but his assertion that Henry Ford never took a "war order" is absolutely at variance with information given to me at the Ford factory in Detroit a few weeks ago, for they told me there that a vast number of chassis had been supplied to the Allies, who put their own military bodies on them; and I must say that from what I saw in France last year of Ford cars in military use, either this statement of the Ford factory is true or the Allies must have bought a huge number of Fords of other people. It particularly interested me, in view of Mr. Ford's well-known views on war, to hear from an official source that he was not averse to selling cars to carry ammunition to the front, or for other purposes of war.

Of course, he may have been told they were all for ambulances, but in any case it would be satisfactory to hear what justification the Secretary of the Treasury has for his statement that no war orders were taken at the Ford factory.

A Lack of Broadway Expresses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why must the people living in the section of our city where it is necessary to use the Broadway line of the subway wait as long as ten minutes night after night at the Seventy-second Street station for an express train, while three West Farms trains come in and take the people living in the upper east side to their homes? Usually the second, and sometimes the third, Bronx train will be only partially filled, and when a Dyckman Street train or a Van Cortlandt train arrives it is packed to the doors, and the crowd assembled at the Seventy-second Street station at times finds it an impossibility to get on the train, and is forced to wait another seven, or sometimes ten, minutes, only to meet with a like fate. Is there any particular reason for this during the rush hours from 5:15 to 6:30 P. M.?

AS PICTURED IN GERMANY.

What One Officer Has Been Told of the Plight of England.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read Dr. C. F. Aked's article in Sunday's Magazine Section of THE NEW YORK TIMES. He says, "In England and in Germany there is more talk of peace than there has been since the war began." This statement, so far as England is concerned, is evidently made with the intention of "clouding the issue" with neutrals. There is no talk of peace in England, and the statesman in England or Canada who would suggest peace under the present status quo of the belligerents would become very unpopular, to say the least, and, indeed, would be fortunate if he escaped actual bodily harm.

If, as Dr. Aked states, "the rooted belief of the Germans is that Germany has been ruthlessly and wantonly attacked," then it is because the German people have been ruthlessly and wantonly lied to by their rulers and statesmen. Neutral nations know this full well, and this is the reason the sympathy of neutral nations, so much sought after, does not pour out to Germany in her present straits.

As an illustration of the misrepresentation which is carried on by the German authorities, let me cite the fact that a young friend of mine, who has been with the British Aviation Corps in France, was recently recalled to Canada on account of the serious illness of his father. He told me that shortly before he left France a German aeroplane was obliged to descend within the English lines. The officer in charge of the machine inquired what was to be done with him, and on being informed that he would shortly be sent to an internment camp in England he laughed at his captors and told them, with all sincerity, that it could not be done, as the English Channel was full of German submarines and England was completely isolated by German warships and half London had been destroyed. He could not be convinced that this was not the truth, so great was his confidence in the integrity of his superior officers from whom this information had come. And yet we are told by Professor Adolph Lasson of Berlin University that "as for us [Germans] we are truthful. Our characteristics are humanity, gentleness, conscience, the virtues of Christ. In a world of wickedness we represent love, and God is with [illegible]."

Dr. Aked begins his "apology" with a false hypothesis. His arguments, therefore, lack the force which only truth can supply. I, like Dr. Aked, take no responsibility for the figures, but it may not be out of place to inform him that the Allies have 28,000,000 men under arms, and as many more twice over allied women give them freely to die in order that the deceit and dishonor inherent in the German Nation, practiced in this war and in the events that led up to the war, and which Germany under the guise of Kultur has tried to force on an unresponsive world, may be uprooted and blotted out, and the institutions of freedom and democracy, which are based on truth and honorable dealing, may live and be perpetuated. In the words of a famous American General, the Allies will "fight it out on these lines if it takes all Summer."

Fall in the Shakespeare Garden.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"The loveliest spot in the park," as the Shakespeare Garden has come to be known, is particularly lovely just now. The frost, which the garden's friends have been dreading nightly, still holds off, and, in consequence, we have the unusual condition of the Summer flowers still blooming, while their autumnal sisters are coming into the garden in their beautiful golden brown and yellow gowns. There is to be seen the Lilium roseum, which is a rare and beautiful Japanese lily, and the French marigolds are showing up bravely.

There were over five thousand people who came last Sunday to enjoy the blossoms and plants, and at the closing hour they were still coming. Come meet Miss Lydia, that striking chrysanthemum beauty, with her brick-dust coloring. She is a newcomer and should be made to feel welcome, and do not forget the wallflower, that "sweetest flower that grows." She attracted so much attention last Sunday that she was quite overcome, but offered no objections to all the admiration she received. Hurry, hurry, before Mr. Frost spreads his comfortables of ermine and sable over these fair ones, and tucks them away for their long Winter's nap. The garden is situated near the West Drive, about opposite Seventy-ninth Street, and just back of the Swedish schoolhouse. It is also just south of the southwest corner of the reservoir.

The High Cost of Hats.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a contribution on the subject of the "tipping abuse" and its bearing upon the "high cost of living," permit me to draw attention to an ordinary straw hat that was purchased by the writer on June 1, 1916, for the sum of $3.50, and worn for a period of 107 days, during which time it was twice cleaned at a cost of 25 cents for each cleaning, thus bringing the total actual cost of the hat to $4.

Now, I take all of my breakfasts and most of my luncheons at restaurants where hats can be hung up while at meals, without cost; yet the tips paid, presumably for the service of caring for my hat while eating only a part of my luncheons and my dinners, during a period of only 107 days, amounted to $13.95, or more than three times the cost of the hat, including the two cleanings. On this basis it is probably safe to say that the average cost to the average man living in New York who takes his meals at restaurants and hotels is at least $25 per annum for the insignificant service of caring for his hat during the limited periods of time while he is eating his meals.

Indian Names for Battleships.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with much interest your editorial article entitled "Naming the War Ships," and I heartily agree with the opinions therein expressed. "How to name the ships of our vastly extended navy is an interesting question." A glance down the list of the names of our naval ships does undoubtedly give the impression that "they had been accepted by a weary man as a choice of evils."

It seems to me that from among the men of the race longest identified with our history—the noble red men—and from their tribes, most befitting titles could be found for applying to our warships. From early childhood the lives of the foremost Indian chieftains have inspired intense admiration in Americans. They are the ideal embodiment of the greatest battle prowess of their time.

What names could imply the idea of indomitable fighting force in the American mind equally with Powhatan, the powerful sachem of Virginia; or Pontiac, "the Red Napoleon," chief of the Ottawas; or Tecumseh, chief of the Shawnees, (or Shawandoes,) and celebrated fighter, diplomat, and orator; or Black Hawk, noted warrior chieftain of the Sacs and Foxes?

I am writing this to ask THE TIMES to insist that the armored cruisers bearing the names Colorado, Maryland, Washington, and West Virginia still continue to bear them, and that the four dreadnoughts to be laid down in 1917 be named Powhatan, Pontiac, Tecumseh, and Black Hawk.

Interest in Better Accounting.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You may be interested to know that in five days after the news article published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of July 23 referring to our booklet, "Fundamentals of a Cost System for Manufacturers," we received 4,500 replies. Ninety per cent. of the inquiries were on letterheads of business firms, which shows, first, the pulling power your paper has with business men, and, second, the keen interest that has been aroused in our campaign of education for better accounting methods.

OUR NICARAGUA TREATY.

How It Has Aroused Enmity and Distrust in Central America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial entitled "Colombia's Protest" you say: "To the protests of Salvador, Costa Rica, Honduras, and Guatemala against our treaty with Nicaragua has now been added one from Colombia." Also: "The attitude of Colombia and the four Central American republics doubtless has due consideration at Washington. Probably it would not be difficult to dispose of all the protests by additional agreements.

"We desire the good-will of these countries and of all South America. We hope to retain after the war the recent great increase of our trade with the southern continent. While the good-will and friendship of South America should be sought for other reasons besides those relating to trade, the interests of our foreign commerce call for just and tactful treatment of all questions which tend to excite enmity or distrust in that part of the world."

In Central America they view Washington's adoption of the "ninety-nine-year lease" clause in the arrangement of the Nicaragua canal and Fonseca Bay business as an evasion—and on the part of Nicaragua as a violation—of the spirit of the agreement between the five Central American States that requires unanimous consent to relinquish territory.

They hardly expected a great nation like the United States to take advantage of her power over weaker States in such a manner, and you are right that it has tended to excite enmity and distrust.

The Central American States had become convinced that the Fonseca Bay concession and the Nicaragua canal had become a political necessity on this continent, and were quite ready, before the Senate passed the Nicaragua treaty, to come to an amicable agreement on those points, and had even proposed more favorable terms, for which they expected no money consideration.

Such a plan was proposed to Washington about the last of April or early in May of this year, but its receipt remains unacknowledged.

Latin-American sentiment is very much like a spider's web in conducting vibrations, and the neglect of the Central American proposal has produced effect. Made in good faith and in line with genuine Pan Americanism, it is unfortunately contrasted with the attitude of the United States in dealing with stronger European nations over disagreeable diplomatic questions arising from the war.

The Allies' Right in Saloniki.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In yesterday's paper you answer a correspondent regarding the "right of occupation" by which the troops of the Allies landed at Saloniki. One, and perhaps the most important, ground you did not mention. Great Britain, France, and Russia assisted Greece in getting its independence from Turkey about 1820, and they were parties to the treaty at the close of the War of Greek Independence, and in that treaty guaranteed the independence and integrity of the new Greek Kingdom. From the very nature of this duty it required them to land troops whenever they considered the independence or integrity of Greece threatened, and that this was distinctly recognized is shown by the provision that no troops belonging to one of the guarantors "shall be allowed to enter the territory of the new Greek State without the consent of the two other courts"; the permission of Greece was not necessary. Thus these three powers not only had the right, but it was their duty under that treaty, to land in Greece if they considered it necessary to fulfill the terms of that treaty, the only requirement being that all three agree, and that they undoubtedly did. There can, therefore, be no violation of neutrality in their action; the only thing which can properly be discussed is whether they were right in considering that the integrity and independence of Greece were threatened. But there again they were the sole judges under the treaty. It should be remarked that Greece and Turkey were, of course, parties to the treaty.

Russia and South America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Oct. 6 a report was published concerning Russia's plans of colonization in South America which is a complete misrepresentation of the true facts. M. Bounimovitch, a Russian banker, had been asked by prominent Russian commercial houses to see whether direct relations could not be established for exporting from South America to Russia such products as coffee, cocoa, rubber, tanning barks, redwood, &c. So far as this the item was quite truthful.

But the statement that a commission of twelve Russians "came to Washington for certain letters of introduction" is a complete fabrication, as I alone went to Washington—to get some information from the Pan American Union. Everything that concerns the question of colonization of South American republics with Russian Poles is an absolute fabrication. It is evident that the idea of sending out a million people from Russia, especially Poles, and, moreover, subsidized by the Government to leave the country, is of such nature that only a party opposed to Russian interests could spread it.

Blinding Searchlights.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Do the drivers of automobiles make a practice of dimming their lights as they stop in front of railroad gates? Saturday evening, approaching the dangerous Long Island crossing in Queens, I was so blinded by the street car lights shining from the other side of the track that I could not see that the black and white striped gates were down until very close to them. Were it not my habit to "stop" and "listen" my party would almost surely have been driven on to the tracks in front of the approaching train.

THE DYING YEAR.

It was but yesterday I walked within the grove
By all deserted. Even the birds had flown,
Though all the Summer long each song-
ster strove
To charm the heart of her who was his own—
His dear, sweet mate. And as I walked alone
I closed my eyes upon the swaying forms
Of wind-shorn branches' ashen shrubs, and thought
How softly had old nature's fingers wrought
These mighty changes. Not by raging storms,
Nor cruel tempests, had come verdure
sere,
But slowly, lovingly, as though the year
Had been with calm of triumph sweetly fraught.
And as I walked this thought came to my mind,
Would that mankind such subtle peace might find!

WHEN GERMANS VOTE AT HOME.

Observations Drawn from a Long Experience There—A Supplement to Dr. Bohn's Articles.

By THE COUNTESS VON KROCKOW.

Saugerties, N. Y., Nov. 5, 1916.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The articles by Frank Bohn published in THE NEW YORK TIMES provide the missing link to an understanding by the American people of the German political situation. For that understanding has remained suspended hitherto, in a state of wonderment, between the fact of the Socialists in Germany fighting might and main in a Government-made war and the fact of their polling an overwhelming vote, 4,000,000 voices, in favor of abolishing standing armies by substituting a militia system, and by making war dependent on a popular vote, (Sections 2 and 3 of the Resolutions of the Social Democratic Congress in Gotha.)

This contradictory outcome now finds its explanation in the bold confession of a Socialist, to the effect that degeneracy afflicts German Socialism, that its party leaders have been betraying their party, and the party its principles.

M. Jaurés, four years ago, at the convention of the Internationalists held in Switzerland, thundered his reproaches at the German delegates for this very reason, ascribing it, as does Mr. Bohn, to the want in their national history of a revolutionary basis. "It was the mission of the great political revolutions, which lie at the root of modern civilization," says Bohn, "to do more than secure political government for western Europe and America. Those revolutions were themselves a part of a tremendous moral revolution."

In other words, Social Democracy in Germany has been all along a matter of mental conception, an intellectual ideal or thing of the understanding, rather than a passion of the soul. Such passion possessed too few individuals in 1848, when a revolution began, to overbear the major number of individuals, whose souls were still in the grip of feudal traditions. Force beat the revolution down, and the crafty cunning of statesmen kept it cowed, till with the advent of Bismarck such of the new doctrines of social democracy as could serve the purposes of government were adopted, while the desire for such others as could only serve the people themselves was subtly and systematically sapped by substituting in its place a sense of satisfaction and pride in the State and its military power. This pride and satisfaction were moral drugs. And as a man's body degenerates under the influence of narcotics and stimulants, so the soul of the German people degenerated under the influence of these Government-made drugs, so that there exists today even a smaller minority of individuals than in 1848 passionately responsive to democratic calls for political progress.

That the calls keep on being proclaimed in the platform of the Social Democratic Party everybody knows; and what composes the calls everybody may likewise know, for they are printed on leaflets at every recurrent election period, and repeated like the articles of a ritual at all democratic meetings.

So long as I lived in Germany (thirty years) I gathered the leaflets slipped under our house door and read them. Each successive leaflet varied a little. The earlier ones contained the fundamental demands for a republic, and a true Parliament with Ministers responsible thereto, together with minor demands. Some of which latter ones were omitted in later issues, the Bundesrat having meanwhile adopted them in its own secretly determined on forms, (the Bundesrat sits in secret,) and these forms had proved acceptable in most cases to the politically undeveloped people.

Take for example the case of what used to be a foremost plank of the Social Democratic platform—universal, equal, direct right of election and voting with secret balloting.

Manhood suffrage had been granted in the Imperial Constitution. After a prolonged term the right to secret balloting was likewise conferred by an imperial law. Yet what was continuing in substance behind the screen of the form of this law?

It happened that on the night of an election subsequent to the passage of this law I gave a dinner party, at which the Landrat, or Governor, of our Circle was late. "He is seeing how the voting went," said my guests. "But how can you know so early the way the election went?" I asked, as he took his seat at last by my side. "It is not the general vote that concerns me," he replied, "but those of the citizens of my Circle;" and, looking across the table, he announced to the Dowager Countess D. that her grocer had cast his ticket for the National Liberal candidate. A boycott of that grocer was thereupon determined by her and the whole company; society should give their patronage to him no more! Other names of anti-Tory voters were disclosed by the Governor. "But," I exclaimed, "how can you know how every man voted? I thought the Reichstag had passed a secret balloting law."

"The Reichstag purposes, but we dispose," was the Landrat's cryptic answer. And when I asked my husband later what it meant, his guess was to the effect that the policeman had probably had orders to look at one ballot before admitting the next comer access to the ballot box to deposit another. Certain it is that the authorities in Prussia continue to learn what ballot individual voters cast. And the Landräte who "manage" their Circles best are the men who enjoy promotion. This very Landrat, as I may mention, was a man whom the Government had sent from Berlin, and posted upon the Circle in the face of a law requiring Landräte to be local landholders.

But when the will of the Government cannot be carried through one way, another way is blasted, the Government feeling as little respect for its own laws as for international laws. Indeed, its war and diplomatic ways are but its customary home ways in magnified disguises.

So soon as the local landholders were made aware that the new Landrat had been dispatched, (on the report of intelligence agents,) in order to suppress the spread of Socialism and Liberalism in the Circle, they ceased murmuring over the invasion of their legal rights and embraced him. They had all along carefully kept any "burgerliche" from learning that their rights were being invaded from Berlin.

Indeed, my long experience revealed that this is ever the way. The aristocracy in Prussia feels with the Government, its members and their satellites are, in fact, the Government, so that, on becoming aware of any ruse against the people being on foot, they join in the conspiracy spontaneously, their combined action being as ruthless in purpose as it is almost always suave and benevolent in form.

Now, given a people whose souls had never been deeply infused with a passionate love of liberty, then subject it during forty years to suggestions from a clear, self-determined, superior will, as powerful as it is fertile in invention and devices, and what else could result than such moral captivity as we see Germans in everywhere?

"We shall pass the compulsory national insurance bill," said a Minister of State to my husband, "because it will keep men at home whom we need for the army." To the people the bill was represented to be an act of paternal care for their welfare. And so on ad infinitum.

For a long period of time the followers of the men of '48, inheritors as they were of an intuition toward liberty, felt and exercised suspicion of the benevolent Government that while talking of its people's welfare was ever binding its dear subjects tighter and tighter in a network of multitudinous, daily prohibitions which accustomed them to senseless restraint. But the suspicions were bought off by salaries, or drugged to silence by flatteries from the great of the land, or allayed by delusive legislative grants, or overwhelmed by the contagious passion of patriotism whipped up by government in the world about them.

The whole situation is instructive from a politico-historical point of view beyond any which this generation is likely to witness again.

PROPAGANDA FAILURE.

Lessons from German Efforts in Greece and America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Patris, an Athens paper, states that Germany has expended $47,000,000 on press propaganda abroad during the last two years, $10,000,000 falling to the share of the Dernburg-Albert Agency in New York, and even larger sums to the Schenck Press Bureau in Athens. The Patris remarks that the German nation, which is the ultimate payer, received poor value for its money, since the flood of dull and hackneyed pamphlets issued by the German information services in America and Greece have been little read and less appreciated by the general public, which they were meant to persuade and educate. The propaganda tragedy ended with Dr. Dernburg's departure, followed by the exit of Baron Schenck. The two gentlemen now give Germany the benefit of their superior knowledge of the respective countries to which they were once attached.

The Athenian press, however, deals more gently with the German propagandists than the New York papers. The Scrip, an Athenian daily which is widely read in society circles, eulogizes in its issue of Sept. 7 the ex-leader of German pens and tongues in Greece as an "ardent and veritable Philhellene who was anxious to transplant his country's ideals into classical soil." But King Constantine, who can surely not be charged with anti-German tendencies, has broader visions about Phil-Hellenism. When the head of the philosophic department of the University of Kiel was presented at the Greek Court and expressed Germany's gratitude for the cultural benefits derived from Platonism and Homeric song, his Majesty quickly responded: "Then you are a Phil-Hellene, too?"

"Indeed, Sire, Hellenic wisdom has far more influenced and shaped my mind than Germanic thought. I had frequent occasion to champion classical education when powerful modernists derided me as an old-fashioned preceptor."

Surely this lesson to Dr. Albert and his staff, who have never yet championed Americanism, although one of its deepest-seated cultural roots, reaches back to the very heart of Germany.

The High Price of Coal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In and out of Congress I have always predicted that all classes of commodities, especially coal, would advance in price upon the enactment of the Hepburn law. Previous to the enactment of this law coal was retailing in New York at $4.50 a ton. The fact that it is now selling for $12 proves that my prediction has come true. The press of this country ought to agitate an amendment and correction of the Hepburn law to the extent of vitiating the obnoxious portion of the law that advances commodities.

HINDENBURG'S TALK.

His Views on France Contradicted by American Observer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The intelligent American public will not be unduly alarmed by Hindenburg's "interesting" report, as to the "moribund" state of France. Other "doctors," more famous than even Hindenburg, have prophesied that "the patient will not live through the night." But the dawn comes, with its first soft glint of light in the East—perhaps the Near East, who knows?—and with the golden, soul-stirring rays of the rising sun a new, virile life rushes through the veins, a wonderful change takes place, and the patient lives.

The Hun is a past master in creating "mental atmosphere," and in "dying France" we recognize not only the wish as being father to the thought, but also the sinister, subtle projection of such thought into the minds of others. In 1870 Bismarck spoke the historic phrase that France should be "saignee a blanc." In 1916 the words "dying France" utter the same thought in different words.

Was it irony, or mere coincidence, which placed Hindenburg's interview on the same page of THE TIMES with that of H. P. Davison? What does this well-known American say, just back, as he is, from the two fronts, the [illegible] and the British?

"It is futile to attempt to describe the impressions gained from such an experience. No one can have the slightest conception of the magnitude of the organization and undertaking without personally being on the ground, and one cannot but be profoundly impressed with the personnel of both armies," &c.

This sounds very much like living, or, if it is dying, then it is, as they say on the stage, "excellent dying." On reflection, this question becomes more than insistent: Who is it that is dying? Is it France, or is it Prussia? In the very near, pregnant future, who is it that will be "saignee a blanc"? Who is it that will bleed to death? Who is it that will be bled white? Is it France? Or is it Prussia?

As to Abandoning the City College.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Oct. 31, 1916, THE NEW YORK TIMES, in a news article referring to the cost of maintaining the College of the City of New York, stated that "the Institute for Municipal Research had said the city would save money by abandoning City College and paying the tuition of students now there in either Columbia or New York University."

This statement was incorrect, as the author of the suggestion to abandon City College was William Bullock of the Bureau of City Inquiry. The use of the words "Municipal Research" has led to question being raised on the assumption that the Bureau of Municipal Research was meant. The Bureau of Municipal Research does not approve of the suggestion made by Mr. Bullock. In fact, we believe that the City College is doing a great work and should be encouraged in every possible way.

Widow of Candy Manufacturer Who Left $2,000,000 Marries Philadelphian Aged 33.

THE BRIDE HAS FOUR SONS

Her Eldest, Frank de K. Huyler, Is Three Years Older Than the Bridegroom.

Mrs. John S. Huyler, widow of the candy manufacturer, who left an estate of more than $2,000,000, was married quietly on Monday evening to William Wilbur James Cooke of Philadelphia. The news of their marriage will come as a surprise to the friends of the couple both in this city and in Philadelphia. Although their engagement is said to have existed some time, their friends had no intimation of it.

The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Faith, at 694 East 166th Street, and was witnessed only by a small group of relatives. Mrs. James R. Bruce of Philadelphia attended the bride and Mr. Manuel of that city acted as best man.

The bride wore a black velvet tailored suit trimmed with fur and a black and silver hat. She carried no flowers.

There was no reception, and shortly after the ceremony Mr. Cooke and his bride left on a brief honeymoon, without disclosing their destination. They plan to spend part of their time in this city and part in Philadelphia. The bride's home is at 302 West Seventy-second Street.

Mr. Cooke is 33 years old, and has been a widower for two years. His first wife was Mrs. Jane L. Jackson of this city. He is the son of Mrs. M. E. Cooke, and resides at 4611 Spruce Street, Philadelphia. Mrs. Jennie MacMinn of that city is his sister.

Mr. Huyler died on Oct. 1, 1910, in his sixty-fifth year, at his country home in Rye, N. Y., and was survived by his widow and four sons, Frank de K. Huyler, Coulter D. Huyler, David Huyler, and John S. Huyler, Jr. He was prominently identified with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and his benefactions to charity were said to have aggregated $150,000 a year. In the mission work he was connected with the McAuley and Water Street Missions and the Hadley Mission on the Bowery.

His father, David Huyler, started in business with a bakery, in Greenwich Village, and the family lived over the shop. He took over his father's business after his death, and made and sold his own candy, which was the beginning of his fortune.

Mrs. Cooke was Miss Rosa Lee before her first marriage. Her eldest son, Frank de K. Huyler, is about 36 years old.

MRS. KNITTEL ASKS DIVORCE

Testifies About Trapping Her Husband in Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Helen W. Knittel, daughter of the late Colonel Louis T. Brown, a former partner of Andrew Carnegie, took the stand today in her divorce suit against her husband, Charles A. Knittel of Philadelphia. She told of trapping Knittel with a woman named Kitty Murray in an apartment in Oriental Avenue. Mrs. Knittel also mentioned four other women on the stand and charged her husband with being unduly familiar with each.

Attorney William I. Garrison explained that a check given to Miss Kathryn Abrams, who was named in the petition as Kitty Murray, with which to pay the rent for the apartment in which Knittel was trapped with her, was in part payment of money recovered in a suit in which Knittel successfully represented the girl. He showed in evidence other checks drawn to Miss Abrams amounting to about $400.

Abe McCollum, a life guard; Herbert Crawford, his ten-year-old stepson, and John Barnett, 13 years old, testified to having seen Knittel at the beach with different women.

The trial was adjourned until Tuesday.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 7.—Attacked while alone about 10 o'clock today in her farmhouse near Kinston, Mrs. Chester Potts was beaten into unconsciousness by a needle peddler, whom she had ordered away. When she regained her senses her black hair, which was thirty-six inches long, had been clipped off close to the scalp.

The assailant struck the woman over the head with a blunt instrument, saying as he did so, "I have often done this to women before." Mrs. Potts lay unconscious for two hours until her husband returned from the fields. She gave a description of her assailant, and he was traced to the railroad station at Monmouth Junction, where he had boarded a train for Philadelphia. County Detective Ferguson notified the police. # ELECTION CROWDS IN SUBWAY TIE-UP

Short Circuit, Flash, and Burning Insulation Cause Panic, Then Stop Trains.

DYNAMITE STORY DENIED

Many Suffer from Smoke and Hundreds Grope to Emergency Exits—Thousands Jam Stations.

A fire in the Lenox Avenue division of the subway just below the 110th Street station that started at 11:15 o'clock last night placed more than 2,000 persons in peril and tied up traffic on the greater part of the system for a considerable time just when the homegoing election night traffic was at its height. About thirty-five persons were overcome by smoke, several so completely that they had to be taken to a hospital for treatment. One man had his leg broken.

The motorman of a northbound train of seven cars saw a blaze on the track when his train was near 108th Street. The flames, as it developed, were from burning ties, grease, and paper which had caught from a sheet of flame caused by the light wires becoming short-circuited. The lights in the train were extinguished by the short circuit, and while the emergency storage battery lights were turned on the smoke was so dense that the passengers were virtually in darkness.

Meanwhile two other seven-car trains and then a third one approached in the rear of the stalled train. They, too, were crowded with persons returning from the theatre district. The trainmen ordered all passengers, many of whom were children, to walk southward through the cars and from the end of the last train along the track to an emergency exit at 104th Street and Central Park West, where they were assisted to the street by policemen summoned from four stations.

Some of the subterranean pedestrians wandered on past this exit and finally reached the junction station at Ninety-sixth Street and Broadway, while still others left the crossover tracks for the uptown Broadway track, where the two lines meet, and straggled to the air at the station at 103d Street and Broadway. This caused great confusion among the ambulances sent from the Polyclinic, Harlem, and Knickerbocker hospitals.

Many of those who made the underground trip were slightly overcome by smoke so that they had to rest upon reaching the surface before proceeding to their destinations, some were removed to neighboring houses, where first aid was administered, while several were so seriously affected that they had to be taken to hospitals. Among the latter were Robert and Beatrice Robinson of 633 Lenox Avenue, who were taken to the Polyclinic; Mary Hill, who was removed to the Knickerbocker, and Ignatz Friedman of 12 West 117th Street, who suffered a fractured leg.

The third-rail power was cut off as soon as possible after the accident was discovered, but not before the passengers had faced the peril of contact with the current. The fire itself did not amount to much and was soon extinguished, although it made a vicious smoke that gave the firemen some trouble at the start. Its most serious aspect, aside from the injury of the passengers, was the inconvenience it caused many thousands of home-bound revelers.

Fire Chief Kenlon answered the first alarm and sent in a second. It was then found that no more apparatus was needed, but that men were, and four special calls for ten men each were sent to various divisions. These men assisted the police under Inspector Daly in rescuing the passengers.

Northbound trains from Brooklyn Bridge were stopped at 11:30 o'clock and from then until partial service was resumed almost an hour later there was great congestion at the stations between Fourteenth Street and Seventy-second Street. At Times Square the crush was so great that policemen were stationed at all entrances and the sale of tickets was stopped.

When the fire was first discovered there was a rumor that another dynamite explosion had been perpetrated, but this was flatly contradicted by Interborough officials and by the report of Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy, whose inspection showed that the fire was caused by a short circuit.

Traffic on the entire subway was resumed at 1 o'clock this morning after repairs had been made to the tracks and the smoke had cleared from the Lenox Avenue tunnel.

HARDEN WARNS MILITARISTS

Tells Germans Statesmen Must Decide the Issues of the War.

German military men and advocates of jingoism in general are cautioned to confine their activities to their own special field of labor and not interfere with the statesmen of the empire, who are supposed to be in charge of the diplomatic and political side of the war, by Maximilian Harden in an article in Die Zukunft of Oct. 21. After citing a long quotation from Clausewitz and inquiring if "a hundred years after Clausewitz there are Germans who doubt the fact that war is still tolerable only as the instrument of policy, Herr Harden, as translated by The London Times, proceeds:

"The politician alone can and must decide how the war is to be conducted—at what point with the staking of the whole forces, and at what point with caution. The politician before the first shot is fired must seek a plain answer to two questions. What do I desire to do, and what can I do, against the enemy? If he is fighting against a coalition, a third question rapidly hooks itself on to the second question. How am I to separate those who are united against me not by love, but by hatred? If, so far as watchful human intelligence can judge, he is able to destroy one of his enemies—and especially if this one is the most dangerous, because of his constant readiness for war—then let him direct his field army with unbreakable violence against this one, and leave the others, who would have remained quiet had it not been for the flashing of the always half-drawn sword of the one, time to see the embarrassment of their friend and the strength of their enemy.

"If all the enemies are so strong that for a sober mind there can be no idea of destruction, and it will be necessary after the war to go on living with all of them as important world partners, still thornier questions arise. Which enemy threatens me with the danger of isolation among the alien races, civilizations, and creeds? Which threatens the most serious injury to the economic system of my country? Which of them might be reconciled after considerable loss of life, but could never be reconciled after visible humiliation? Where therefore are decisive blows to be desired, and where are they to be avoided in order that a peaceful settlement may remain possible? Is not precisely here such a settlement, with untarnished honor and profitable increase of prestige, to be preferred to the long-drawn quarrel suggested by hatred—hatred which destroys but never creates?"

TO INSURE WAR WORKERS.

Britain Will Safeguard 1,500,000 from Unemployment After War.

Under the caption, "Safeguarding 1,500,000 Workers," the Official Press Bureau in London has issued an article in which it is stated that in anticipation of a wave of unemployment which may follow the war the British Government has decided to extend the operations of the State Unemployment Insurance act. The statement reads in part:

"In certain trades specially affected by the demands incidental to the supply of munitions and in which there is, therefore, a grave risk of serious dislocation on the cessation of war demands, all workpeople are to be insured whether they are individually employed on war work or not. These trades are the manufacture of ammunition, fireworks, and explosives; chemicals, including oils, lubricants, soap, candles, paints, colors and varnish; metals and metal goods; rubber and goods made therefrom; leather and leather goods; brick, cement, and artificial stone, and other artificial building materials; sawmilling, including machine woodwork, and the manufacture of wooden cases.

"Apart from workpeople in these scheduled trades the act insures all munition workers as such. Briefly this means that all workpeople engaged in making or repairing any kind of article for naval or military use for the Allies will be insurable. This will include men and women engaged in making uniforms, brushes, tents and an infinite number of things which complete the equipment of soldiers and sailors.

"The temporary scheme of insurance embodied in the new act will remain in operation for five years from the present date, or for three years after the termination of the war, whichever may be longer. The rates of contribution and benefit are the same as in the original act of 1911, which applied to the building, engineering and shipbuilding trades. Contributions at the rate of ten cents a week will be paid by means of unemployment insurance stamps affixed to an unemployment book by the employer, who may then recover the workman's share by deduction from his wages. The benefits amount to $1.68 a week up to a maximum of fifteen weeks in any twelve months. On and after Sept. 4 it will be an offense to employ workpeople in any of the trades mentioned above or on munitions work without paying the unemployment insurance contributions due."

HENRY W. RANGER DIES IN HIS STUDIO

WINNER OF GOLD MEDALS

His Pictures in the Metropolitan Art Museum and Many Galleries of Europe.

Henry Ward Ranger, dean of American landscape painters, died suddenly in his studio at 27 West Sixty-seventh Street at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was 58 years old.

Cardiac trouble was the cause of Mr. Ranger's death. He returned to New York from a sanitarium at Watkin's Glen, N. Y., last Thursday, and was in cheerful spirits up to early afternoon yesterday, when he felt a slight nausea as he was about to go for a walk. He lay down on his bed and in a few moments was dead.

Mr. Ranger's pictures hang in many of the public art galleries of the country, including the Metropolitan Art Museum and the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, as well as in many private galleries. His work was greatly admired by the late J. P. Morgan, who had a deep respect for Mr. Ranger's powers as a judge of art.

Born in Syracuse, N. Y., Mr. Ranger received his education in the public schools of that city and in Syracuse University. He was self-taught in art. He assimilated various forms of landscape painting by travel and study in France, England, and Holland.

Mr. Ranger had a Summer home in Noank, Conn., and the shores and hills of Connecticut were the subjects of many of his paintings. While the critics said that the first of the Ranger paintings were untrue to nature, this criticism was not often heard after his maturity. His work was generally known for portraying the force rather than the delicacy of nature.

Among his finest pictures are "High Bridge" and "Spring Woods," in the Metropolitan Museum; "Sheep Pasture," in the Pennsylvania Academy; "Top of the Hill," Corcoran Gallery, Washington; "Bradbury's Mill Pond, No. 2," National Gallery, Washington. Mr. Ranger took gold medals at Charleston in 1902 and in Philadelphia in 1907. His paintings also hang in several museums of Europe. He was elected to the National Academy of Design in 1906. He was also a member of the Lotos Club. For many years he had been a friend of Sir Alfred East of London.

It had been Mr. Ranger's custom to spend the Winters in Porto Rico, and he had a large circle of friends at San Juan.

In 1884 Mr. Ranger married Miss Helen E. Jennings of Syracuse. She died in Geneva, Switzerland, in June of 1915. They had no children.

BOSTON CAR LEAPS BRIDGE; 50 DEAD

A Crowded Trolley Plunges Through Open Draw Over Fort Point Channel.

MANY PINNED ON BOTTOM

Twelve Persons Rescued from Water by Tugs—Bodies Found by Divers.

MOTORMAN DENIES BLAME

He Declares the Light Protecting the Opening Was Not Burning.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Nearly fifty persons lost their lives tonight when a crowded passenger car of the Boston Elevated Street Railway plunged through an open drawbridge into Fort Point Channel, just outside the South Station terminal.

Twelve other persons were rescued from the water by fireboats and tugs. One man, Thomas J. Gannon, died after being brought to shore. Five bodies were found with grappling irons.

Shortly before midnight thirty bodies had been removed from the car. There are still others in the car.

Gerald Walsh, motorman of the car, who jumped before it went over the edge of the draw, asserted that the accident was due to the fact that there was no light on the gates protecting the opening, with the result that the car crashed through the fence and into the channel. He thought there were between fifty and sixty passengers aboard.

Crew of the Car Arrested.

Walsh and George McKeon, the conductor, who also leaped and so saved his life, were arrested on technical charges of manslaughter. The conductor was unconscious and the police were unable to learn exactly the number of his passengers.

Some of the rescued people estimated the number of passengers at upward of fifty. J. Harvey White, publicity agent of the Boston Elevated Railroad, in a statement issued soon after the accident, said his information agreed with that of the police that about forty persons were unaccounted for.

The channel is thirty-five feet deep at the point where the car went down.

Most of the passengers were employes of the Western Electric Company's factory in South Boston, and were returning to their homes from work. Many women and children were included in the number. The car was of the closed type, with a narrow door at each end, so that escape was impossible, except for those who happened to be standing on the platforms.

The first assistant draw tender, Timothy J. Shea, who was in charge of the bridge, disputed the statement of the motorman that there was no light at the draw. Shea said that the usual red signal lights were on the gate. He was not sure, he said, whether the arc lamp on the bridge was lighted.

Says Draw Had Signal Lights.

The draw tender said that he received a signal about 5:25 P. M. from the tow boat William G. Williams, which was going up-stream with a lighter in tow.

"I was in the controlling house," said Shea, "and I took all the usual precautions. There were red lights on the gate. I opened the draw and the tugboat started to come through. Suddenly my attention was attracted by a crash and screams. As I looked around the car went right through the gate of the draw and plunged into the channel. Only the rear trucks remained on the rails, the body of the car breaking away from these trucks and disappearing under the water.

"I yelled to the men on the tugboat to let the line of the lighter go so that she would drift down where her crew might be of assistance in rescuing some of the passengers. Two of the assistant bridge tenders, John F. McKeon and John J. Fitzgerald, jumped into row boats and picked up three men, who were swimming. George Litchfield, in another boat, also rescued a man, and the tugboat crew picked up another. All were put ashore and sent to hospitals.

Floating Derrick Sent to Aid.

A ten-ton floating derrick from the Charlestown Navy Yard was brought to the bridge by the United States tug Iwana, and preparations were made for lifting the car. It was considered doubtful, however, whether this could be accomplished, as the car weighed approximately twenty tons, according to railroad officials, and was believed to be too heavy for the derrick.

Three divers in the employ of the T. A. Scott wrecking company were sent down to assist in locating the submerged car. The two bodies recovered with grappling irons were identified from papers in the clothing as those of Antonio Dellapelia, 25 years of age, of 336 Commercial Street, and George Vinke of 9 Wall Street.

Bodies Rescued by Divers.

Later an eighty-ton crane belonging to the T. A. Scott Company was brought into position over the car. The divers, returning from an examination, reported that the car was standing upright on the bottom, and that they could see many bodies jammed against its windows and about the doors. Preparations were made immediately for the divers to begin the work of recovering the bodies before the machinery of the big derricks was put in operation. The divers said that the car was in about twenty-five feet of water.

It was more than five hours after the car went down that the divers started the actual removal of the bodies within it. One of them worked inside the car, passing each body as he came to it out to another diver, who raised it to the police boat Guardian at the surface. Ten bodies were thus taken out very quickly and were transferred to the police boat. Later they were sent to the North Grove Street Morgue. All the bodies first recovered were those of men.

Thousands of spectators lined the approaches to the bridge, watching the work of the police, as revealed by the searchlights. Lines of police kept the crowd away from the bridge itself, and those who desired to view the bodies to see if any relatives had lost their lives in the accident were directed to the Morgue.

The Dead.

Forty-four bodies had been recovered by divers and by the police with grappling irons at a late hour. The list of identified dead included the following:

DELLENTI, VINCENZO, Hanover Street, Boston.
RUGGIO, DIEGO, Hanover Street, Boston.
VERGE, AUSTIN E., Halifax, N. S.
DABIOKI, V., Roxbury district.
PRICE, THOMAS, Roxbury district.
CROSSLAND, JAMES, Medford.
CURTIS, WILLIAM B., Somerville.
RICHARDS, L. J., Medford.
SHANNON, WILLIAM J., Boston.
WILLIAMS, LUTHER, 832 North King Street, Hampton, Va.
WENCUS, GEORGE, Boston.
RIGGIO, ANGELO, Boston.

The Injured.

Following is a list of the injured who jumped from the car as it fell, or fought their way to the surface after it reached the water:

SMITH, ARTHUR, Arlington.
MacDONALD, JOHN, Roxbury district.
ANDERSON, IVER, West Somerville.
KENNY, CARL, Rangely, Me.
DELAPIANO, LEANDER, East Boston.
JANESSA, PASQUEL, Boston.
ROBERTSON, FRED, Reading, Superintendent of the Wireless Specialty Company, South Boston district.
McKEON, GEORGE, South Boston, conductor of car.
GRIFFIN, FOREST H., Boston.

Their injuries were mainly minor cuts and bruises. Two of the men said they smashed windows and leaped from the car as it struck the water. Others seemed uncertain how they escaped.

Mayor James M. Curley ordered an investigation of the accident to begin tomorrow morning. The bridge will be kept closed to traffic pending the investigation, and the wrecked car will be lifted from the water by cranes and floated to the navy yard at Charlestown, where it will be examined.

KILLS CHUM BY ACCIDENT.

Boy of 15 Shot as He Hunts Chipmunks with Friend in Jersey.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 7.—Charles Scurmazzo, 15 years old, of 167 Albion Avenue, this city, was accidentally shot and instantly killed today while hunting with his chum, Louis Schaffer, 17, of 161 Albion Avenue. Schaffer, who is the only support of his mother, was admitted to $1,000 bail by Recorder William Young, on a charge of manslaughter.

The boys, with Hugh Firth, 22, of 161 Albion Avenue, were hunting chipmunks, and Scurmazzo was trying to chase the out of a stone wall. Schaffer said he had the shotgun pointed toward the ground, but that when Scurmazzo jumped up quickly he struck his head against the barrel, the blow causing Schaffer to pull both triggers, the entire charge of both barrels striking Scurmazzo.

TELEPHONE CO. BUYS 36TH STREET SITE

Cliff Street Deal—Church Gets Dominick Street Corner—Big Bronx Deal.

As a site for a new telephone exchange building, the New York Telephone Company has purchased from various owners the nine old dwellings at 206 to 222 West Thirty-sixth Street, fronting 165.3 by 100 deep, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, close to the Pennsylvania zone centre. Plans for the new building are being designed by McKenzie, Voorhees & Gwelin. The Telephone Company took title to the property this week.

Church Gets Dominick Street Corner.

Charles S. Coffin, who recently purchased for the Spring Street Presbyterian Church, the old house at 17 Dominick Street, from Mrs. C. Kruse, has acquired the adjoining house at 15 Dominick Street, northwest corner of Varick Street, from the same owner. The two houses have a frontage of 50 feet and adjoin the Varick Street house, in the rear of the Spring Street church.

The church interests now own the Varick Street block front on the east side and it is planned to improve the property with a model apartment house. Pepe & Brother were the brokers in the Dominick Street sale.

Sale in Cliff Street.

The business building 48 Cliff Street, 25 by 100, near Fulton Street, has been sold by William A. White & Sons for Henry E. Pellew of Washington, D. C., to Innis, Speiden & Co. of Hornell, N. Y., who recently leased, through the same brokers, the building for ten years. After alterations, they will occupy it for offices and a laboratory.

Private House Sales.

The four-story dwelling at 24 East Seventy-eighth Street, 15 by 100, has been sold by William A. Boyd.

The dwelling at 229 West 128th Street, 16 by 100, has been sold by Mary E. Birkbeck. The broker was Louis F. Burnholtz.

Thomas J. Diamond has sold the three-story house at 449 East 118th Street, 19.9 by 100.10, to Salvestor and Leonard Castellano.

Swedish Church Buys in Harlem.

The building of the Lenox Avenue Union Church at 74 West 126th Street, 25 by 100, has been purchased by the Swedish Harlem Lutheran Church. The Leonard Morgan Company acted as brokers.

Broadway Block for Columbia Bank.

The Columbia Bank, whose downtown branch is at 407 Broadway, has leased for new quarters the small block on the west side of Broadway, between Lispenard and Canal Streets, 36.6 on Broadway by 126.1 on Lispenard and 127.5 on Canal Street. The property has been leased from the Brandreth estate, which will erect a two-story building for the bank. Plans were projected some time ago for a ten-story building on the site.

Walter P. Bliss Buyer of the Bradley Martin House.

Walter P. Bliss is the buyer of the Bradley Martin house and gardens on Eighty-seventh Street, just off Fifth Avenue. Mr. Bliss has been occupying, under lease, a house on lower Park Avenue.

The Bradley Martin house is five stories and stands on a plot 76.9 by 100.8, part of which is used as gardens. The property was held at about $500,000.

Bronx Sales.

A dwelling on the north side of Wilson Place, 100 feet east of Barker Avenue, on a plot 25 by 105, has been purchased by Charles L. Ullman from Eli Lahm.

Builders Buy Bronx Corner.

A good deal was closed in the active section of the Bronx in the sale by Richard H. Scobie for Hartley Haigh of the northwest corner of 188th Street and Webster Avenue, containing a parcel of seven lots, 175 feet on Webster Avenue and 100 on 188th Street. The buyers were A. Hamilton & Son, builders, who will improve the property with apartment houses at a cost of about $260,000.

New Jersey Development Scheme.

Negotiations for a big development at Chester, N. J., said to involve about $1,000,000, are in progress. A man named Melick, representing a large corporation, has closed negotiations for the 150-acre Black River Farm in the valley between Chester and Hackelbarney. He has also interested owners in the vicinity in a project to flood 1,000 acres to form a lake four miles long, for which water would be dammed back in the direction of Hackelbarney from Black River.

The farm owners are to retain title to the property and the corporation the waterright. It is said that the intention is to furnish hydro-electric power eventually for Morris, Hunterdon and Union Counties.

Leases.

Pease & Elliman have leased for N. S. Riesenfeld the four-story dwelling at 313 West End Avenue to Mrs. F. M. Packer.

The Houghton Company has leased to Nora H. Stubbs the three-story dwelling at 103 West Seventy-eighth Street for Grace Meehan.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased the last remaining apartment in 116 East Fifty-eighth Street for Mrs. B. Farquhar Curtis to Mrs. S. Alley.

NEW HAVEN'S NEW EMBARGO

Finds Overshipments Responsible for Delays and Non-Use of Cars.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and the Central New England Railway last night issued embargoes on various goods. J. C. Halliday, Superintendent of Transportation, explaining the embargoes to shippers, consignees and agents, issued a statement saying:

"In regard to embargo of this date, the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing at Louisville, Ky., indicates a shortage of cars in various portions of the country, due to a large extent to over-shipping, resulting in an increasing accumulation and congestion. Demand is made on railways and shippers to reduce this misuse of cars.

"For the last several weeks unloading on the New Haven has been running close to 5,000 cars per day, higher by 10 per cent. or more than for any previous period. Except in a few individual cases, there have been no embargoes in effect for the last eighteen weeks. The movement of many commodities, particularly hard coal and bituminous coal, during the previous several months has been in excess of similar movement during the same period a year ago.

"There is a total of 49,068 cars on the line, an increase of 2,777 since October 15, and notwithstanding the excellent unloading and the current daily movement of between 3,000 and 14,000 cars through the different gateways and terminals, the New Haven Road has at the present time 975 cars under demurrage, averaging about five days per car; is holding 558 cars at destination ready to place when unloading tracks are relieved of cars ahead; is holding 1,915 cars set out at intermediate stations and terminals, and is confronted by an accumulation on connecting lines of 2,921 cars. This represents a total of 6,369 standing cars which are of no benefit to shippers or consignees and which deprive other industries of that number of cars.

"On account of their accumulation, embargo is placed on all carload and less than carload traffic coming to these compnies from connecting lines via Maybrook, N. Y.; Harlem River, or through the Brooklyn terminals and other lines, except perishables and live stock, freight for the United States Government, freight for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Central New England Railway, news and book print paper, coal and fuel oil."

Steel Freight Tariffs Suspended.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Freight tariffs proposing increased rates ranging from 5 to 7 cents per hundred pounds in the iron and steel traffic between Chicago, Florida, St. Louis and Kansas City and Des Moines, St. Paul, Duluth and other points in the western trunk line territory were suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission today from Nov. 10 until March 10, pending investigation. The tariffs provided for concellation of the present commodity rates on iron and steel articles in carloads between these points.

Grand Trunk Raises Pay.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 7.—The announcement was made here today by the Grand Trunk Railway system that the award of the Board of Conciliation granting an increase of pay to the maintenance-of-way employes of the system in Canada had been accepted. The award gives the men an increase of 25 cents a day, and foremen 20 cents. About 2,300 employes are affected.

is the incentive that has made many a man and woman economize, and even forego some of the so-called necessities of life, in order that they may possess sound bonds in either large or small amounts. For those who wish to eliminate the element of speculation from their investments, we would suggest placing their money in any one of a strong list of conservative securities we have chosen with this specific purpose in mind.

CAN PROSPERITY BE FORETOLD IN ADVANCE?

Forecasts and predictions are based on known facts. Changes in the security market are discounted months ahead.

Statistics given in a 200-page book entitled Canada, the Country of the Twentieth Century, show Canada to have natural resources almost without limit. And much of this is undeveloped.

With these facts known it can be predicted that Canada in the future will enjoy even greater prosperity than at the present time.

This book concerning Canada will be given to investors who personally call for it at our offices.

Stamps to be Filed and Canceled When Inspection Is Over.

Special to The New York Times.

The stamping of such casks or cases will not hereafter be required. On receipt of the entry, the Collector will indorse a certificate under his official seal, setting forth that the required revenue stamps covering the wine described have been purchased. The stamps will remain filed with the duplicate entry, uncanceled until a report of the gauge or inspection of the wine. When the amount of tax has been determined a sufficient number of the retained stamps to cover the tax will be permanently affixed to the duplicate entry and duly canceled.

4 HURT AS TROLLEYS CRASH.

Motorman May Die—Passengers Cut by Glass in Plainfield.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 7.—A heavy fog, coupled with a misunderstanding of signals, was responsible today for a head-on collision between two trolley cars of the Union line, owned by the Public Service Corporation, at West Front Street and De Kalb Avenue. Five persons were injured, one perhaps fatally. The fronts of the cars were wrecked.

George Waldron, motorman of an east-bound car, suffered fractures of both legs and was hurt internally. He was caught in the wreckage of the motor box on his car. He was taken to the Muhlenburg Hospital, where it was reported this afternoon his condition is serious. Joseph Horn, conductor of Waldron's car, suffered a fracture of the left leg, and also was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital. Edward Nelson, motorman of a west-bound car, was injured about the legs and chest, but went home. Charles Bruger of Lincoln and Giuseppe Tori of Plainfield, passengers in the west-bound car, were cut by flying glass and bruised. They went home.

Waldron pulled his car from a siding after a west-bound car had passed on the single-track line. He did not notice, it was said, a trailer following the first car and he crashed into it. Neither car was traveling at high speed.

Six Inches of Snow in Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 7.—A heavy snowstorm raged today over Western and Northern Colorado. Reports from the western slope indicate the heaviest storm of the season. Montrose reported six inches of snow. In Denver a heavy snowstorm which began this morning continued after noon.

A SENSIBLE CIGARETTE IS EASY TO "DIGEST"

No word can describe that mean feeling which often follows smoking a poorly-blended but otherwise good cigarette. Such a cigarette might be called "indigestible." ¶ On the other hand, Fatimas always give comfort. They "digest" easily, smoothly as only a delicately balanced Turkish blend cigarette can. ¶ And best of all, Fatimas leave a man feeling fine and fit—yes, even after a long-smoking day. ¶ That's why men call Fatimas "sensible".
